

LIGHT SHED ON BOULDER'S WORK

"Peculiar" Methods Are Shown In Interesting Letter to Coach Maddock.

CONDITIONS AS THEY ARE

Manager of Colorado Athletics Has Something to Say About Dictatorial Colorado School as to Athletics.

Utah athletes and devotees of athletic games, especially football, will be interested in reading part of a letter received by Coach Joe Maddock of the U. of U. from Frank L. Devery, general manager of athletics of the Colorado Agricultural college.

The position of the Colorado schools with reference to our University is touched upon by Mr. Earle, who is friendly to the Utah institution. Here is part of the letter sent to Mr. Maddock:

You imagine that you have concluded from my silence that I have registered the customary Colorado feeling against Utah people. I have not, but what I say is solely from my personal standpoint and is not sanctioned by my board. The only phase of relationship that exists between Rocky Mountain teams is that they are coached by middle west stars.

"What is the moral difference in the constitutionality of the Denver football team with its sensational rise to fame and of the University of Colorado? The latter is in bitter warfare, assuming the attitude, in my opinion, of a state. The state university claims a clean slate on the grounds that they are living up to a present called rigid athletic control. They claim that Denver, the past year, had nothing more or less than professional gamblers in the past. I know of the merits of the case, with facts on both sides, Denver has not violated athletic ethics, they have acted decently and morally than Colorado is doing at the present time, and always has done. What I want to impress is that Colorado's apparent adherence to the general athletic control give them a spotless character."

ELIGIBILITY CLOAK. "The present eligibility 'cloak' is the product of the Denver institution, in charge that the 'cloak' was admirably made for Boulder, and give her the credit for the clever foresight which she had a putting herself in such a clever advantage through such framed-up regulations. While Boulder lives up to the letter of her own manufactured code, she is doubtless violating athletic ethics that were set forth at the conference as the 'Big Nine,' in shame. Utah's standing has given me less concern. I do not intend to discuss Utah. Utah does not need sense any sin until someone else casts the first stone. All right, or a sin. It is in the past. I have failed. I am led to think that present policies are to be the rule until the time all have learned as Denver has shown herself to be. I look for no 'get together' as long as one strong school will keep its own position and have not received a copy of the Utah eligibility rules which you promised me. Now that you have adopted the Colorado code, will you be any better respected? Yes, so far as living up to the regulations of the code. I can't assure everything on the square. I maintain that it does not, and base my assertions from experiences here at home. Not that the code is faulty, but that it reaches far enough to regulate you and me to the disadvantage of the other fellow.

"In all athletic connections with Utah the University of Colorado has assumed the same dictatorial position as she apparently assumes in her own state. Now that Utah has shown Colorado where she is in relation to athletics, it is probable that at some future meeting of the Utah board of control some steps will be taken to put Colorado in her right position in relation to Utah and Colorado games.

A party of 250 persons, all armed with shotguns and shells aplenty, took the train yesterday for St. Johns and Ajax on the Salt Lake Route, and for several hours there was a bombardment and great slaughter of rabbits. It is estimated that at least 2,500 bunnies were killed by the mighty hunters and a carload of Jacks were brought back to Salt Lake last evening. The party was larger than expected and many of them had to walk from the train to the scene of slaughter as there were not enough wagons to handle the crew.

DENVER PLAYS WELL AGAINST THE INDIANS

Denver, Colo., Dec. 5.—On a field soft and in mud from the recent snows, Denver university held the Carlele Indians to a close score, the latter scoring only three runs in the five innings. Carlisle's points were scored in the first half by Hausner, who made two beautiful fouls from the field. Denver scored in the second half, after a brilliant exhibition of the new and old styles of football. Brusse kicked a field goal from the 35-yard line. The teams were about evenly matched in all departments of the game, with the exception of running back punts. It was here that Balenti showed to be at advantage. He brought forth his cheer time after time after his runs through a broken field. Crowley, however, played a strong defensive game, closely following Lieber, for the Indians. Thorpe, Hendricks, Hauser and Balenti starred.

"Hardly," Yost said when next December comes what I'll do to that game."
