

PRESIDENT BROKE ALL ROAD RECORDS

Going From the Yosemite Valley
To Raymond.

ACTUAL TIME TEN HOURS.

Distance Covered, Sixty-Nine Miles—
Whole Party Dusted Covered and Much in Need of a Bath.

Berenda, Cal., May 18.—President Roosevelt broke all road records for Yosemite park travel today, when his coach came from Yosemite to Raymond, where his train awaited him, in 10 hours of actual travel. The distance is 69 miles. The president passed last night in camp at Bridal Veil falls, a few miles from the postoffice at Yosemite. He slept soundly and when he awoke this morning declared he had never felt better in his life. His looks bore out his words. He had lost all appearance of being tired and his eye was bright. The members of his party, who had passed Saturday afternoon and Sunday at Yosemite, joined the president at the falls. Here he bid good-bye to his guides, Lydell and Leonard, and mounted to his seat on the coach beside the driver. The morning was cool and clear, and the dust was not as bothersome as on the trip into the valley.

at 12:30 the trip to Raymond was begun. The driver of the president's coach was on his mettle, and he put his horses to the best pace. When Awahee was reached the party alighted and light refreshments were served. The run from Awahee to Raymond was the dustiest of the trip, and the president and his traveling companions were badly in need of baths when they reached their train. An escort of cavalry from Fort Wood, which is situated at Wawona, accompanied the president to Raymond. When Berenda was reached the president found a large crowd gathered to greet him.

A special train from Fresno brought members of the chamber of commerce and their friends, and they warmly greeted the president as he appeared on the rear platform of his car. He made a brief address, thanking the people for coming to see him.

To Study California Forests.
Berkeley, Cal., May 18.—Dr. Willis L. Jepson, assistant professor of botany of the University of California, will spend the early part of the summer in a trip through northwestern California gathering material for his new book on the forests and forest trees of this state, a volume which will occupy a unique place in botanical works, the field being as yet unexplored in a popular and yet scientific way. He will give close study to the operations of the lumbermen in their treatment of the forests and their manner of handling the timber for commercial purposes.

Hung Himself with a Halter.
Shannon, Pa., May 18.—Thomas A. McManister, wealthy and a burglar of Jamestown, has committed suicide by shooting himself three times and then hanging himself with a halter.

FATAL SHOOTING AFFRAY.

Ex-Lt. Gov. Knoblock of Louisiana
Killed by a Barber.

Thibodaux, La., May 18.—A shooting affray which resulted in the death of ex-Lt. Gov. Henry Clay Knoblock, took place early this morning on Main street. The shooting was done by James Garault, a barber.

Several witnesses of the tragedy refused to talk further than to say that Garault shot in self-defense.

The two men were seen talking together, when suddenly ex-Lt. Gov. Knoblock drew his revolver. It appeared that he experienced some trouble with the weapon, and it failed to explode. Meantime Garault whipped out his revolver, and opened fire on his adversary. That his aim was true was established by the autopsy held by the coroner, who found five wounds in the dead man's body. Any of the wounds would have proved fatal.

Garault surrendered to the authorities immediately. It is believed he will be allowed bond.

MOTHER BURETTA DEAD.
Was Formerly Superior of St. Mary's Academy, Salt Lake.

Notre Dame, Ind., May 18.—Mother Buretta, died at St. Mary's academy here early this morning. She was superior of St. Mary's, at Salt Lake City, Utah, but had been at the mother house here since January because of ill health. Mother Buretta was a daughter of Judge Eason Fuller of Coldwater, Mich. She was born in 1845 and graduated from St. Mary's in the class of '65. She held several notable positions in her order, being directress of St. Mary's academy here for years.

Charged With Passing Bad Checks.
San Francisco, May 18.—M. J. Engle, a traveling salesman of Ludden & Co., of Reading, Pa., was taken off a Santa Fe train at Albuquerque last Saturday and has been brought back here in charge of a detective. He is charged with giving the local Santa Fe passenger officials a bad check on the Chemical Bank of New York in payment of a ticket to New York, the amount being $31.

Wants to Find Her Husband.
San Francisco, May 18.—Mrs. W. M. Wisdom of Portland, Ore., has appealed to the police to help her find her husband and five-year-old child Roberta. She says that Wisdom took the child and left Portland on April 27, coming to this city with the expressed intention of taking a steamer for Australia. The police have learned that Wisdom did not go to Australia and they are at a loss to know where he and the child are at present.

NEGROES AND EQUALITY.
Theme of an Interesting Address by Archie Brandt.

Archie Brandt, a Knutsford colored waiter, read a paper the other evening before the Lyceum club of the Calvary Baptist church (colored) on the theme, "Does the Negro Seek Equality?" In the course of his remarks the essayist said: "Speaking as a negro, who has ambition, aspirations and hope of a twentieth century American; speaking for the rising young negro man and woman, we deny, we most emphatically deny, that the negro of today seeks to invade the social circle of the Anglo-Saxon."

"What the negro seeks most of all, is equality before the law, to be looked upon as a man, and not a beast, to be protected in the God-given rights granted him by the American Constitution; not to be looked upon as a menace to our national life, but as an important factor in the development of our country."

"Does any sane person believe for a moment that the negro blood unchanged the wide world over, the Anglo-Saxon race, the dominant power in governments, and who are deemed to have the beaten paths of civilization all races of men, will ever be dominated over, amalgamated with, or by, any other race? No, no."

"If this is true, then the bugaboo of social equality and negro domination is but the campaign of the political jackal, who, for personal aggrandizement, stirs up race and class hatred at the negro's expense."

AMUSEMENTS.

Mr. Arthur Wardle and Messrs. Jones & Hammer of the Grand, have been diligently trying to ascertain whether or not the people of this town wanted Shakespeare at popular prices. They have sunk a neat bit of money in the course of their inquiries, and they have now probably had their answer, "Othello," "Romeo and Juliet," and "Macbeth" have all been given, but to more empty benches than auditors. Last night the management took a change of heart, and announced that old standby, "East Lynne." The consequence was that the house was filled in every part, even the new capacity gallery being occupied. The inevitable deduction, therefore, is that the patrons of the Grand, as between Shakespeare and Mrs. Henry Wood, prefer the latter every time.

"East Lynne" is well worth seeing; the new generation of theatregoers will find in it a standard old time play that has engaged the attention of the best actresses of the country (or half a century back). They will also find it full of warm, human interest. Still, and while it cannot be said that the Wardle company makes of it everything that is possible, they must be given credit for their conscientious and earnest endeavors. Mr. Hermann, still handicapped by his faithful hoarseness, played the star of all modern villain roles, Sir Francis Levison, and barring an occasional unfamiliarity with his lines, he played it with credit. Miss Roberts worked very hard in the part of Lady Isabel. She was better at the close, in the disguise of Madam Vine, than in the earlier parts of the play. Miss Davis, the Salt Lake girl, who went on as Aunt "Corny" to help the company out, played with a vigor, snap, and promptitude that should serve some of the others in the cast as a good example. She was given a reception on her entrance, but her line is essentially that of "heavies." Mr. Tyrrel played Carlyle respectfully, and Miss Holmes as Barbara Hare, Miss Bartelle as Joyce, and the others were adequate. There were some warm bursts of applause after some of the curtain calls, but an unfortunate tendency to titter when several of the actors rather overreached the pathos, in what were intended to be the affecting moments of the play.

The same bill runs the remainder of the week.

The advance sale for "David Harum" opened up with a rush at the theater boxoffice this morning, and the likelihood is that Mr. Crane, who was always popular in Salt Lake, will be greeted by hundreds of houses the latter part of the week. He is said to have an exceptionally strong company, and he brings with him all the original scenery from the New York production.

WM. H. CRANE.

INTERIOR OF PORTUGAL.

Much High Art and Plenty of Dirt to be Found There.

Some Interesting Impressions—Dis-comferts of a Journey in the Old Little Kingdom.

Special Correspondence.

Estremoz, Portugal, May 4.—If King Edward had prolonged his visit to Portugal and visited the interior, he would have experienced some of the roughest traveling of his life, and if he could be convinced of as stopping at the so-called hotels of the country he would also have slept in some of the most doubtful beds of his life and sampled perhaps the very worst cookery.

Estremoz is a town in the interior of the country in the province of Alemtejo. As you approach it by rail from Lisbon you see it standing upon a hill in the distance. As you reach the station, however, you find the town itself a rambling place two miles away, and, like the journey of life, the road leads uphill all the way. It is a wretchedly bad road too. There is only one hotel in the town and a very poor one. Some of the bedrooms open on the diningroom. They are mere dark rooms without windows.

The streets of Estremoz are so dark and narrow that on Friday morning, when the streets are "swept" through the streets to the market place and confined until Saturday morning, market day. Not only the pigs and goats are kept over, but some of the men are sold at once on Friday, and the sale is clinched immediately by the slaughter on the spot in the open street of the hapless kid or squealing hog. This public killing is enough to make a sensitive soul forever fastidious, but the natives mind it not at all, neither the health authorities, if there are any.

And yet this same dirty, miserable town would delight the soul of the artist. As in most Latin race towns, dirt and high art flourish together. There are probably more marble and marble carving in Estremoz than in any other small city. In the old houses are marble halls and carved marble staircases that would give beauty to the palaces of kings. From marble public fountains, fountains of water, marble seats along the roads give rest to tramp and beggar. If Estremoz had stood street the paving would be marble, too, but it has few of these. Like all old Latin towns, Estremoz has its public square, around which important buildings are grouped.

One cannot find out why it is, but rather oddly almost the cleanest and best of the common people of Portugal are the peasant population around Estremoz. It has been said of them that they are "very clean" and have their houses and very clean. Their rude stone cottages are whitewashed continually inside and out, and there seems to be something of the cleanliness and thrift of the old time Holland Dutch about middle south Portugal and folk.

Defiant it is in northern Portugal. There the houses are dirty and the people are dirty. Perhaps this sadly unpleasant contrast is due to the fact that the women apparently do all the hard outdoor work. The coarse, constant drudgery seems to crush out of them the womanly instinct of cleanliness and tidiness even if they had any time to busy up their houses. In the south, however, women are real beauties, carrying their loads upon their heads instead of drawing them as horses do in the north. With good roads and decent hotels Portugal would soon become a favorite tourist resort. The climate is agreeable, its fruits are delicious. Upon the slopes of the great vultures are abundant.

As it is, however, the traveler in the interior of Portugal must put up with discomforts and the ancient globe trotters demand, Lisbon, Oporto and other leading cities swarm with those beggars and hordes of deformities which are a revolting feature of all Latin race countries except France. Occasionally you see in your car the same old announcement that madcaps are ravaging Oporto. Well, in Oporto itself no uncommon sight is patients in the early stages of syphilis walking freely about the streets and riding in street cars. And, like the Latin races against the Portuguese are awfully slow to jump, but they have a positive tonic effect. See, at all druggists or by mail of C. I. Hood & Co., Lowell, Mass.

GOVERNOR PENNYPACKER OF PENNSYLVANIA AND THE ANTI-PORTRAIT-PRINTING BILL.

Governor Pennypacker is the target at which many a shaft of editorial satire is now being directed because of the signing of the bill aimed at the newspaper publication of portraits without the permission of the originals. A number of the most prominent journals of the state have ignored the law with reference to the publication of portraits and have also failed to comply with the provision requiring the printing on the editorial page of the names of the responsible heads of the paper.
