Funeral Services Over the Remains of Frank Cole.

The funeral services over the remains of Frank Cole, son of George and Susan Sugden Cole, were held at the residence of the parents on the corner of N and Fourth streets yesterday afternoon. There was a concourse of the friends of the family present on the occasion, in fact so large was the num-ber of sympathizing friends assembled that the major portion of the number were compelled to remain on the lawn and porch of the residence. The ser-vices were in charge of Elder W. W. Williams, and not the least touching feature of the obsequies was the sing-ing of the choir of the Twenty-first ward, which rendered several beautiful selections. Among the speakers were numbered Bishop George Romney and Elder R. F. Neslen, who first became acquainted with the bereaved family while on a mission in England. Bishot James Watson was the last speaker The benediction was pronounced by Elder Offenbache. The casket was borne by Samuel Lawson, James Coombs, Arthur Midgely, Harry Daw-son, Ernest Hardy and Leonard Doalin, who acted in the capacity of pall bearers. On arriving at the cemetery the grave was dedicated by Elder W. O.

A Cure for Cholera Infantum

"Last May,"says Mrs. Curtis Baker f Bookwalter, Ohio, "an infant child of our neighbor's was suffering from choiers infantum. The doctor had given up all hopes of recovery. I took a bottle of Chamberialn's Colle, choiera and Diarrhoea Remedy to the house, telling them I felt sure it would do good if used according to directions. In two days' time the child had fully recovered, and is now (nearly a year since) a vigorous, healthy girl. I have recommended this Remedy frequently and have never known it to fall in any single instance.

they have lost. On Thursday morning, August 22nd, "Aunt Zina" was sitting at the break-fast table at the home of her daugh-er, Mrs. Zina D. Card, in Cardston, Canada. She had prepared to leave for Salt Lake that morning with Mr. and Mrs. Levi W. Richards, and was talking pleasantly with her daughter over the delightful visit they had had during the past two months. On a sudden she turned red in the face and was falling from her chair, when her daughter caught her. Those present immediately began to work over her, and she was administered to. She presently began to feel much better and returned to the table to finish her breakfast. Her daughter tried to persuade her to postpone her start for home, but she quietly but firmly refused to put it off. When Mrs. Card saw that her mother was determined to go she felt that she couldn't leave her so made hasty preparations and came along with her. They had to ride fifteen miles in a coach to the train, and while the stricken lady did was growing weaker. After she had been placed on the car, her daughter, pained at having to see her mother subjected to the hardships of a long trip when so ill uttered a few words of symand the venerable sufferer nathy. smiled into her face and said, "Never mind, make the best of it." Those were the last audible words that ever escaped her lips. She sank into a deep sleep and the peaceful smile that settled upon her face remained there to the end. "Do your duty and make the best of it," was the motto of her life and she carried both principles out almost to perfection. Those who accompanied her home speak with deep gratitude of the extreme kindness of the railroad officials and others. They mention particularly Mr. Nay Smith, superinten dent of the Alberta railroad who did all that he could for the comfort of "Aunt" Zina." At Great Falls where they had to transfer to another line he provided a carriage and had a spring bed placed in it, and telegraphed to Butte to the Reed Transfer company to have an ambulance ready to meet her at the depot. The ambulance was there and the officials of the transfer company showed the same thoughtful kind ness as Hr. Naysmith. At Butte Bishop Romney and wife met the party and accompanied them back to Salt Lake. At Ogden, a number of friends were at the depot to meet them, including Mrs, Jane Richards, one of "Aunt Zina's" counselors.

The train should have reached Salt Lake Saturday night, on account of delays it was 10:10 Sunday morning when the mournfu party stepped from the train at the Oregon Short Line depot. They were met by all of "Aunt Zina's" children many of her grandchildren, President Joseph F. Smith and others. An ambu-lance was in readiness, "Aunt Zins" was placed in it and conveyed to her exhibited in every act of her life. She membe of the Church Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints in 1885, and later in that year she went to Ohio to join the body of the Church. She followed the Church in its vicissitudes through Ohio, Missouri, Illinois and the desert, She was cheerful when only brave souls could smile, She was patient when only God-like natures could be patient, and forgave when only the noblest could forgive. She never thought of herself, but always acted as if it was her conviction that God had sent the sick and the broken-hearted to her, to be comforted. In such noble work as that she never wearied, and the unfaltering faith that ilumined her pathway over the plains and through the hardships of the early days lifted up many a heart that was ready to give up the struggle. In Nauvoo she became the wife of the Prophet Joseph Smith and after his martyrdom she was married to President Brigham Young. She was a devoted wife and mother and had three children. They are Zebulon and Chari. ton Jacobs and Mrs. Zina D. Card But she took four of President Young's children, who had lost their mother, and reared them under the depth of her trug affection. They are Mrs. Marie Y. Dougal, Colonel Williard Young, Mary Croxall and Mrs. Phoebe Beatty.

While her nature was essentially spiritual she took part in the material affairs of Utah and did more than any other woman to promote sericulture in this state. In 1876 she was made the president of the local silk organization, and went through Utah laboring inde fatigably in its interests. In 1879 she visited the Sandwich islands, and in the same year traveled over 1,000 miles in Utah by carriage to address meetings. In 1881 she visited New York and Vermont and spoke in many Sunday schools, and temperance meetings. She attended the Women's congress Buffalo, and the National Suffrage con vention at New York. During this visit she assisted in the organization of a branch of the Relief Society at Cahoes, New York. In 1880 she was chosen president of the Deseret hospital and remained in that position for twelve years. She was one of the Utah women who attended the Women's congress at the World's fair at Chicago. She was which she accepted meekly. The field in which she found the greatest room for her wonderful ener-gles, and unbounded sympathies was in the Relief Society. It was her natural calling and in it she succeeded in fast-ening herself indissolvably to the hearts of all the women of Zion and the girls who were old enough to know her. She was a relief society in and of herself. Her ministrations on the sick and the suffering occupied the larger part of her life. Her true nature was unerring in its counsels to the young women of Utah, who were always ready o listen to "Aunt Zina." She did not ret her precepts from books nor did
