

she continued to reside until her death. She was the mother of 11 children, two sons and nine daughters; grandmother of 63 children, 49 of whom are living, and has two great-grandchildren living. She has always been known as a kind and affectionate wife and mother; and a good Latter-day Saint.

FROM FRIDAY'S DAILY, DEC. 9.

Another Attack.—A week ago last Wednesday, Apostle C. C. Rich was seized with another severe attack of illness, from which, however, he subsequently rallied.

Ladies' Conference.—The quarterly conference of the Relief Societies, Y. L. M. I. A. and Primary Associations of Salt Lake Stake of Zion will convene in the Council House, Salt Lake City, on Friday and Saturday, the 16th and 17th of December. Verbal reports are expected from the presidents of the several branches of these organizations. Bishops and other brethren are cordially invited to attend.

E. HOWARD,
Secretary Relief Societies.

A Departed Patriarch.—We have received a communication from a member of the family of the late Daniel A. Miller, which was evidently penned before the writer of the letter had perused our article on the deceased veteran, consequently we do not deem it necessary to insert it. We will, however, state, in addition to what has already appeared, that the family of Brother Miller, all told, numbered ninety-one persons, eighty-three of whom, viz a wife, fifteen children, sixty-two grand-children, and five great grandchildren survive him.

Burglary.—Yesterday afternoon the wife of John Larson left her home on the First Ward Bench for an hour or two. When she returned she found the place had been entered by a burglar, who had turned everything in one of the rooms topsy-turvy and carried off a small sum of money. It is probable the thief was frightened off before completing his programme, as the adjoining room was untouched. A suspicious-looking individual had been observed near the premises during the earlier part of the day. No trace of the burglar has been found.

and his family were at breakfast at five minutes to nine this morning, a distinct terrestrial vibration shook the house, causing the doors and windows to rattle. He thought at first it was a slight earthquake shock. If this surmise were correct, however, a good many more persons would have observed the phenomenon. It was probably the effect of a blast in some of the adjacent quarries, and the vibrations were likely atmospheric.

Items from Brigham City.—"A. C." wrote from Brigham City on December 7th:

"The County Court held its sessions on Monday and Tuesday, doing considerable business. The financial condition of Box Elder County is healthy. County orders can be cashed by the treasurer any time of the year. Judge Burt and the selectmen hold always that 'a dollar is 100 cents.'"

The City Council also held its regular December session yesterday, Mayor Samuel Smith presiding. The total revenue of the city in the past fiscal year is $1,514.08, of which $515.25 was paid on licenses. The business is carried on with care and economy by the Council.

Last evening the Y. L. M. I. Society of the Fourth Ward held a grand ball in the meeting house, newly erected. Much credit is due to Mrs. Martha Wild, Letitia Dunn and Sonora Wright, forming the presidency of said association, for the excellent manner in which the party was arranged. It is worthy of note that the meeting house is a spacious building, designed for meetings and school purposes. Our worth citizen James Nelson, under the direction and with the aid of Bishop Welch, has caused this house to be reared for such purpose, chiefly by his own individual means."

THE WHISKY CONTEST.

THE DIFFICULTY SETTLED FOR THE PRESENT BY COMPROMISE.

During the last few days, since the liquor dealers felt they were fairly cornered by the county, the former have been talking compromise. It was not till to day, however, that an adjustment of the difficulty could be effected. However, the whisky combination made a proposition that the authorities considered they would be justified in accepting, and a settlement has accordingly been reached on the line proposed.

The terms are that the liquor dealers pay all the costs of the proceedings against them, and that they take out license dating from to-day, at the rate of $800 per annum. On the other side the County agrees to withdraw all judgments entered against the defendants to date, which aggregate a sum rising of $8,000.

In harmony with this arrangement the saloon keepers have paid up the costs, and Constable Hampton will at once proceed to issue the licenses.

In this compromise the county not only foregoes the amount of judgments, by the withdrawal of all pending suits, but two months' license fees in each instance, the resolution of the County Court deciding to collect an annual license of $800 having been passed in October.

The compromise has no relation whatever to the attitude of the city on the liquor question. The ordinance requiring saloons to be closed at 10 o'clock at night is in force, and we hope it will be rigidly operated.

HORRIBLE ACCIDENT.

ALBERT R. CARRINGTON FATALLY INJURED AT THE UTAH CENTRAL RAILROAD DEPOT.

A thrill of horror vibrated through the community, last night, as far as the intelligence reached, at the sad news that Albert R. Carrington had been run over by a freight engine at the Utah Central depot, and fearfully mangled. Being conductor on one of the freight trains, he came down from Ogden last evening, reaching this city about 6.45. The train being a long one, it was necessary to divide it and run a part on to the switch. Young Carrington took the coupling pin out while the cars were in motion, tripped over the rail as he was getting out from between, and was caught by the engine and dragged a distance of several feet. Some of the wheels passed over both legs below the knees, mangling them terribly.

The unfortunate young man was conveyed to the waiting room. Superintendent John Sharp was immediately notified, and surgeons were summoned. Pending the arrival of the latter, he exhibited great fortitude and coolness, and looked several times at his watch to see how the time was passing. When the doctors arrived he requested them to give him something to alleviate his sufferings, which were intense.

After an examination by Dr. H. J. Richards, Dr. Joseph Richards and Dr. Hamilton, it was decided that there was no possibility of saving the limbs, even in the event of the patient surviving the shock, which appeared exceedingly doubtful. He was conveyed on a stretcher to the house of his distracted mother, Mrs. Mary Ann Carrington, who, with all the members of his family, is plunged into the deepest grief at the terrible affliction.

"Bert," as he was familiarly called by his more immediate acquaintances, lingered until a quarter past one this morning, when he breathed his last, no reaction having set in from the shock to his system.

An inquest was held over the remains at an early hour this morning by Coroner George J. Taylor and a jury, when a verdict of accidental death was rendered. The closest scrutiny showed that no one was in the slightest degree to blame for the calamity. It often happens, however, that railroad men get so familiar with the manipulation of trains that they fail to exercise a sufficient degree of personal caution. We understand that the unfortunate man remarked to the Superintendent after he was injured that he hoped he would be the last man who would ever take out a coupling pin while a train was in motion.

The parental habitation, where the body of the deceased is lying, is a scene of the deepest sorrow. The mother's eyes are dry, her grief being too deep for tearful expression, while the other members of the family are also, in their present frame of mind, inconsolable. No one with a soul susceptible to the tender touches of sympathy can remain unmoved at such a spectacle of domestic distress. Whatever consolation there is in the most sincere condolence of the community at large, the bereaved family may be assured that they have it.

One of the pathetic elements of the incident is the fact that the deceased was engaged to be married shortly to a young lady of this city, who is in great mental distress at the occurrence.

Superintendent John Sharp has telegraphed the news to Apostle Albert Carrington, the father of the young man, now in England, as President of the European Mission.

Albert Rock Carrington was born in Salt Lake City, November 9th, 1849, and was consequently aged 32 years and one month. He was a man of exemplary habits, honest, sober, straightforward and industrious, and was much respected. He lately occupied the position of brakeman and had only recently been promoted to the position of conductor. He was much esteemed by his employers and his associates on the railroad, being known for his unflinching promptness and reliability.

The funeral services will be held in the 17th Ward meeting-house, at 12 noon on Sunday, November 11th. Friends of the family are invited.

FROM SATURDAY'S DAILY, DEC. 10.

Murder Case Appealed.—A motion for a new trial in the case of Michael Mooney, murderer of Joel Hinckley, having been denied, notice has been given of an appeal to the Supreme Court of Idaho Territory.

Elder John Morgan.—Elder John Morgan got home from the Southern States on Wednesday evening. We sympathize with him and his wife in the loss of their only son, whose demise was the cause of his return.

The funeral services over the little one took place yesterday. They were conducted by Bishop Thomas Taylor and President Joseph F. Smith delivered the discourse.

Logan Temple.—We learn from Truman O. Angell, junr., architect of the Logan Temple, that the mason work on that fine structure has been suspended for the winter, on account of unfavorable weather. He is of opinion that that branch of the work, including the pointing, will be completed next summer.

A large force of carpenters are at work on the interior, laying floors, putting in door and window frames, sash, etc.

Special Premium Wheat.—The premium Excelsior wheat exhibited by Bishop Silas Richards, of Union Fort, which drew the special $25.00 prize, so generously offered by S. W. Sears, Esq., is put into the hands of S. P. Teasdel, Esq., Eagle House, for gratuitous distribution, among farmers, in half-bushel sacks. Those who get this wheat will please cultivate it with care, and next fall report the results to A. M. Musser, Secretary D. A. & M. Society, this city.

AN INDIAN MURDER.

WHISKY DID IT—AN INDIAN KILLED AND A SQUAW WOUNDED.

Last night a Goshute Indian, known as Mone, called at the house of Indian interpreter Geo W. Hill, in the 19th Ward. Mone was intoxicated, and told Brother Hill, an Indian named Jim had given him whisky. He also said that a whole encampment of Goshutes were drunk near Jordan Bridge, and that Jim had threatened to kill him. He asked if he could stop all night, to which request Brother Hill replied that he would not have a drunken Indian on his premises, and he had better leave and keep away from Jim by traveling north.

This morning an old Indian called upon Brother Hill and informed him that there had been a sanguinary fight in the camp last night, that his son had been killed in the affray, and a squaw stabbed in the fleshy part of the arm, near the shoulder.

SUDDEN DEATH.

STEPHEN POPE IS FOUND LYING DEAD OUTSIDE OF HIS HOUSE.

There has lived for a considerable time past, on the bench, in the southeast part of the Tenth Ward, a man, apparently about 60 years of age, named Stephen Pope. Being a widower and without family, he lived alone. He was in poor circumstances, and the family of Brother John Kirkman has, for some time, in a neighborly way, supplied him with milk and other necessaries.

This morning, Samuel Kirkman, son of Bro. John Kirkman, proceeded to Pope's place on the usual charitable errand, and found the old man lying outside, by the corner of the house, quite dead. There was no evidence of the deceased having been injured by any violence, and it is probable that death resulted from heart disease, or some such malady. The facts, however, will be ascertained to-day, an officer having been dispatched to the spot to ascertain the position of the body and have it conveyed to the office of the City Sexton, where an inquest will be held.

FROM MONDAY'S DAILY, DEC. 12.

Cheap Traveling.—A tramp named Robert D. Lee was caught stealing a ride on the Utah Central Railroad. This morning, Justice Pyper fined him $50.

S. S. Mission.—We were pleased to receive a call this morning, from Elder John Morgan, President of the Southern States Mission. He reports matters in his field of labor moving forward satisfactorily.

Wasatch Stake.—This afternoon we were pleased to receive a call from President Abram Hatch, of Wasatch Stake. He gives a good account of the condition of the people of that section. During this year crops have been large, the health of the people generally excellent, and an unusual amount of building has been done in the settlements.

The establishment of Fort Thornburgh and the new Uncompaghe agency in close proximity to the county has been a great advantage financially to the people, providing excellent and ready markets for their products, making business unusually lively. Brother Hatch is on his way to visit Cache, where he has a large number of relatives.

Imprisonment for Life.—The motion for a new trial in the case of Jack Emerson, convicted of murder in the first degree, for the killing of John F. Turner, at Park City, having been denied, he received sentence in the District Court on Saturday. Before judgment was passed, the Court asked the prisoner if he had anything to say. He replied that he was innocent of the murder, and that time would prove this to be correct. He said he had been convicted upon the testimony of perjured witnesses.

After briefly reviewing the evidence, the Court sentenced the prisoner to imprisonment in the Territorial Penitentiary for life. It will be remembered that the jury accompanied their verdict with a recommendation to mercy.

Funeral of A. R. Carrington.—The funeral services over the remains of the late A. R. Carrington were held yesterday at 12 o'clock, at the 17th Ward School-house. The house was densely packed, there being more people in the lower room, who could not hear the services, than in the upper hall, where they took place.

The services were conducted by Bishop Tingey, and the general details of the funeral were managed by Brothers James Sharp and Francis Cope.

The opening prayer was offered by Elder George G. Bywater, and addresses suited to the occasion were delivered by President A. M. Cannon, Counselor D. H. Wells, President Wilford Woodruff and Apostle J. H. Smith.

The benediction was pronounced by Elder John Pack.

There was a very large turnout of the officers and employes of the railroad, and those who officiated as pall bearers were conductors.

The 17th Ward choir rendered the musical exercises.

The cortege that followed the body to the cemetery was very large, the procession being about the length of two blocks.

A Direct Dig.—We lately mentioned the fact of the Rev. Dwight Spencer, the Baptist minister stationed at Ogden, making a speech before the conference of the clergymen of that denomination, held in the State of New York. He drew a blue picture of the scanty progress made by sectarian priests in Utah, and showed his own church had increased numerically from thirteen to nineteen, an addition of six since it was established. The gentleman is a pretty hard hitter when he strikes in the right direction. Speaking of some of the denominational sectarians out this way and some other characters, he said:

"Worse yet, however, is the conduct of some of the Christians who are organized there. In Ogden, a Christian church gives a ball every fortnight, and anybody who can raise fifty cents can take part in the dances. Frequently the balls break up in drunken rows. This sort of thing, and the irreligious, gambling, whisky-drinking officials and agents of the government out there serve as arguments against Christianity among the 'Mormons.' These disorderly people are pointed out as sample Gentiles. The most eloquent sermon the preacher ever heard John Taylor deliver was on the subject of 'The Corrupting Influences of the Gentiles.' It was a sermon that would almost have moved an Eastern audience, and said the preacher, 'the worst of it was that the basis of it was true.'"

The fact is, that the Christianity of the "Mormons" is so infinitely superior to anything of the kind that sectarians exhibit to them, that they are quite satisfied with what they have got. That is what is the matter with sectarianism in Utah.

The Whisky Trouble.—The Goshutes, at whose camp an Indian was killed and a squaw wounded, in a stabbing affray, on Friday night, removed from the scene of the trouncing Jordan Bridge, on Saturday. No tidings have since been received from them, and we do not know of any steps being taken with regard to the perpetrator of the killing.

There is one feature of this matter that deserves special reference. The murder of one human being and wounding of another were caused by the camp of Indians being uproariously intoxicated. It is also a matter of certainty that the whisky that produced that condition was bought from liquor dealers in this city. These being the facts, some members of the whisky combination, who have been trying, by the aid of corrupt Federal officials, to run their business in defiance of law and good order, are indirectly responsible for the bloody tragedy. Following in the same line of thought, one or more of the members of that combination are entitled to look out from behind the bars of a prison, for breaking the law against selling liquor to Indians.

There have been several instances lately of the police being under the necessity of arresting drunken Indians, who purchased liquor at saloons in this city. There has been an evident disposition on the part of a lot of conspirators in that traffic to disregard every wholesome legal restraint. We are opposed to those engaged in this trade being allowed to run their business outside of the law, and any officials who permit it when they have power to enforce the laws are decidedly derelict in their duties. When we surrendered to any such rule, it would be at the last legal ditch.

KILLED BY A CAVE.

H. P. DAVIDSON CRUSHED TO DEATH BY FALLING EARTH.

About six weeks ago, H. P. Davidson, a shoemaker, who resided in the 12th Ward, abandoned his trade and went to work on the Denver & Rio Grande Railroad. When he left the city he told his family, a wife and one child, that he would return at Christmas time and spend a few days at home. The next they saw of him, however, was on Saturday night, when his mangled remains were brought in from the place where he had been at work, by some of his fellow-workmen.

It appears that while Davidson was at work in Price River Canyon, at 11 o'clock on Friday, a bank under which he was digging, caved and buried him. When taken out he was quite dead, the body being very much crushed and bruised. The contractor for whom the deceased worked was close by him at the time, stepped out of danger himself, and called to Davidson to do the same, but he was too late.

Deceased was a Scandinavian, about twenty-six years of age, and bore the reputation of being an industrious, good man. His widow, who came to this country with the last season's immigration, her husband having preceded her, is inconsolable. The funeral services were held at 2 o'clock this afternoon, at the residence of Brother Martin Hammer, in the 12th Ward. The proceedings were conducted by Bishop Alexander C. Pyper.
