THE DEATH OF HOLZNER.

Further Details of His Mysterious Disappearance.

Health, April 23.—Von Moltke died in his study in the official residence in Koenigsberg. He appeared in his usual health early yesterday evening and appeared as usual in the morning. He rose from his bed with the intention of retiring, when he suddenly staggered and would have fallen, had it not been for the fact that a servant sprang to his assistance. The count was then carried to his bedroom and placed upon the bed, on which he died in a few minutes. The emperor at Warrburg telegraphed expressions of sympathy to the family. All the German princes and the noted members of the empire are sending messages of condolence. The will of the count states that he desires the burial to take place at Koenigsberg, where his wife and child were buried. The funeral of the count's remains will be strictly private, but it is thought possible that the emperor will overlook the death of the soldier's widow, and that the funeral will be made the occasion for a great military display. All the officers of the general's staff were informed of his death and assembled at the house before daylight. The count's death was not generally known until the fact was published in the official military journals of the German empire and caused universal sorrow. The emperor, on receipt of the death notice, was deeply affected and he has ordered that the count's remains be returned to Berlin this afternoon. The emperor visited the death chamber this morning and laid a magnificent wreath upon the bed upon which the great general rested. The supreme general quarter of an hour trying to comprehend the death of the republican from all parts of Germany.

A great crowd of friends, respectful and sympathetic, surrounded the count's residence and through the streets. Many thousands in the leading thoroughfares are closed and the city throughout is commencing to display signs of mourning. The emperor, in the Lower House of the Prussian diet today the President of that body, by announcing the death of the count, the representatives, and the high value of the count's services to the fatherland would cause national sorrow and mourning to be felt throughout Germany.

In the Upper House a laurel wreath adorned with black and white ribbons hung over Count von Moltke's seat. The president read a letter from Kaiser Wilhelm announcing the count's death, and then he delivered an address extolling the merits and services of the great soldier as a member of the Upper House. Both houses adjourned until Monday next.

Spanish Finances.

MADRID, April 23.—The minister of finance has announced in the Deputies that the budget has a deficit of 18,818,000 pesetas. The minister introduced a bill authorizing the bank of Spain to increase the issue of its notes on a basis three times the amount of gold and silver held in reserve. The bank will lend the treasury 120,000,000 pesetas.

Another bill is also announced authorizing the government to issue internal revenue bonds, redeemable in five years, to the nominal amount of 200,000,000 pesetas, the money thus raised to be devoted to the repayment of the floating debt.

In Search of the Murderer.

NEW YORK, April 23.—Two men were under arrest in connection with the murder of Carrie Brown in the hotel Thursday night. The two men were supposed to belong to either "Frankie" or the other man arrested, who were brought to the station this morning. The men are then may be blood stains. They answer the description of the trousers worn by the woman's slayer, and were found in the lobby of a lodging house, where they had been left yesterday morning. The man who left them, it is known, frequented the East River hotel, where the murder occurred.

On the Commercial Treaty Between Our Country and Spain.

LONDON, April 23.—Commenting on the successful conclusion of the commercial treaty between United States and Spain, the Graphic today says that Spain's action will go far to strengthen the proposals of the American in Canada and in Newfoundland. The Graphic adds: "It is difficult to see what is to be done, but an inflexible protective attitude is plain enough."

LEATON, Kan., April 23.—It is predicted that the wheat crop of Kansas will be the largest on record.

ROBBERY.

A Prisoner Taken Out of Jail and Killed. WALLA WALLA, Wash., April 23.—D. J. Hunt, the gambler who shot and killed Private Miller, was lynched last evening by a mob from the garret. Early in the evening the sheriff received information that an attempt would be made at lynching Hunt. Col. Coulson, in command of the militia, was sent to assist in keeping the mob in check, but before all of them could be placed a mob of the people and seventy soldiers demanded admittance. The mob being refused they at once began work with firearms and clubs, killing three men and wounding several others. The mob then broke into the jail and took him to the court house yard, where he was shot in death, sixteen bullets entering his body. Immediately after the shooting the mob went to the jail and shot the warden and several other men.

the set there were as their quarters, but the crowd of people gathered around the jail until after midnight. There was great excitement here all night.

An Experiment in State Socialism.

The curriculum of the animal and vegetable world in Australia has failed to find their counterpart in the political and social developments taking place in that antipodal world. We have seen already that the industrial and social developments taking place in that antipodal world. We have seen already that the industrial and social developments taking place in that antipodal world.

In Australia in general, and especially in the colony of Victoria, the labor organizations have carried pretty nearly everything before them. With some few notable exceptions, and more formidable than in any other country. As a rule, the strikers have succeeded in their objects. The organizations have, moreover, obtained very complete control over the political authorities. These have endeavored to resist, until the vote is practically against them in the deliberation of internal affairs. We have, therefore, a country in which the labor is so organized and so powerful that it is practically impossible for the government to do anything without the consent of the labor organizations.

These facts in the case are gathered from the single review of the subject which has appeared, so far as we are aware, an admirable paper by Mr. G. W. Griffin, a recent candidate for the office of Premier. Now as to the results of a system which is urged for adoption in this country as well as in others. And these, unfortunately, are gathered from an entirely reliable source. A large portion of the latest number of the popular magazine of the United States is devoted to an elaborate report on the state of labor in Australia, by Mr. G. W. Griffin, an expert at Sydney. From this we may gather exactly what has been accomplished by this experiment in state socialism. Mr. Griffin states, to begin with, that foreign immigration has practically ceased. The effect of this is to reduce the number of men who have decided that they want no further competition, and we need to add at this point an additional fact to the picture. As a consequence, many industries languish from lack of skilled labor for their conduct. It is not open to question that the laborers of Australia secure a high rate of remuneration for a day's work restricted, in nearly all employments, to eight hours. That is one side of the picture, and the side which labor unions are able to control. Let us look at the other.

One of the most marvelous phenomena disclosed in Mr. Griffin's paper is a silver transfer, which he found in Ireland, Ireland Kings, held the wooden wheel in which the steam engine had been brought on the island to delight royalty. It is a simple matter to find a small sum, cleaned up, for a small sum, filled with a fat, blue velvet cushion, in which are stuck pins, little and big, black and white, and all sizes and sharpness.—The Ladies' Home Journal.

EARLY ENGLISH DOCTORS.

They Had to Attend Three Diseases of Which a Body Was Devoid. The earliest record of a school of physicians at Cambridge is found in 1223, but the first definite provision for anatomical teaching was made by John Cole in 1584. He was followed by W. Hardy in 1605 and by a brilliant succession of anatomists in the seventeenth century, and another tried his hand at writing plays.

From the time of Galen we were intimately connected with the operations of surgeons in London, who were at a school receiving £40 a year for his maintenance and £2 a year to provide himself with books. In order to qualify as a practitioner in those days it was necessary to have attended three dissections, at which a body was opened and the physician present, discussed at length concerning the dissection.

The first apparatus for the demonstration was founded at Cambridge in the year 1707, but the immediate effect of the endowment appears to have been a cessation of all interest in the subject. It was the time of the Bourgeois revolution, however, and we read of the watchmen being allowed to search in search of a missing body. The watchmen were allowed to search in search of a missing body.
