

MANY NEW VOTERS FOR THE ELECTION

Registration Rolls in Salt Lake Are Increased Over 20 Per Cent.

A RELIGIOUS CANVASS MADE

"American" Workers List Newcomers As "Mormons" or Members Of Their Party.

Yesterday's registration gave some indication of the way Salt Lake is growing. From the copious depths of the "American" barrel the Snyder money and the fees collected from city employees, and all the other money in sight was turned into automobile and rigs with which the "American" city committee labored to get the newly arrived voters out to the polls.

Four thousand seven hundred and fifty-eight voters registered. As there were only 21,828 voters previously registered in the entire city, this raises the voting limit by 20 per cent, a phenomenal increase. But a large percentage of these are changes, and old voters will have dropped out to a number sufficient to decrease, perhaps, by half the number of new voters.

The "American" canvass, a religious one, classifies voters into "Mormons" and "Americans" and every effort is being made to make the religious test a line of political cleavage. By proper manipulation of the "gentle" vote the Denver inner circle of the "American" party hopes to perpetuate itself, and sell many tin signs to the city as years go by.

The result of yesterday's registration, with the Sixteenth and Twenty-second districts estimated, are as follows:

WITH THE POLITICIANS.

The fusion movement in the First ward, by which the Democrats and Republicans have combined on common candidates, with the object of preventing an "American" council majority of inner-circle devotees, was definitely brought about last night. J. D. Murdoch, Republican, and Oliver Hodgson, Democrat, remain on the tickets, while Andrew J. Smith and Herbert L. Penrose withdrew.

In the Second ward fusion is being talked, but definite action has not yet been taken. The prospect of Bradford, without a plant city council is not pleasing to the "American" inner circle, whose interest is that of the holder of financial power, anxious to fix its own power on the administration. Hopeless to control its candidate for mayor, except through the council, the inner circle looks upon fusion as a dark look upon the coming of cold weather, and it is not nature taking to say that this kind of weather gets the birds decidedly going south.

The "News" has been requested to furnish an answer to the question embodied in the following letter: "As the 'News' is non-partisan paper and therefore all information in relation to political affairs in its columns can be implicitly relied upon, I take the liberty of asking for the information of myself and others, that you state the number of votes polled for each of the national party candidates in the election a year ago, as I understand the Republicans claim to have outvoted the Democrats at that election, and the Democrats make similar claims in regard to the Republicans. By doing so you will confer a favor upon."

A VOTER.
The voter and his friends have probably confused the claims made in relation to the election a year ago for county and state officials, with the claims made as to two years ago in the city election. In the city election of 1905 the results were: Morris (D.), 7,591; Lynch (R.), 4,983; and Thompson (A.), 9,456; with a scattering Socialist vote. One year ago in the county election the Salt Lake City Democratic votes outnumbered the Republican, the Republican total being 7,650, and the Democratic, 4,938.

PATRIARCH JOSHUA MIDGLEY.

White-haired pioneers, friends of fifty years' standing, and little children, helped to celebrate the seventy-fifth birthday anniversary of Patriarch Joshua Midgley at his home, 245 Fifth East street, Tuesday evening. The guests varied in age from more than 80 years to less than one year.

The old home was well filled with friends when dinner was served at 7 o'clock. The evening was passed with music and congratulatory speeches, most of which dealt with interesting phases of pioneer life in Utah that had been witnessed by Mr. Midgley and his older friends.

The guests included Bishop George Romney and family, Bishop and Mrs.

T. A. Williams, Mr. and Mrs. George P. Brooks, Mr. and Mrs. James Wardrop, Phil Margetta, Miss Margetta, Prof. and Mrs. George Carless, Mrs. Eliza Hooper, Mrs. Julia Druce, Mr. and Mrs. Z. T. Derrick, Charles Sansom, Mrs. Mary Wilkins, Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Thomas, Mr. and Mrs. James Eardley, Mrs. Annie Carter and daughters, Hamilton G. Park, and others. The family was represented by Mrs. Mary E. Worthing, Mr. Midgley's sister; his four sons, Joshua, John G., David and Edward P.; his daughters, Mrs. Ellen Evans and Mrs. Edith Mackenzie; several grandchildren, one of the seven great-grandchildren and other members of the families of the children and grandchildren.

CUT IN BARROOM FIGHT.

Bartender Gets Black Eye in Attempting to Restore Peace.

John Pawelick, aged 40 years, was severely cut by Paul Sleemick, aged 21 years, during a barroom fight, at 9 o'clock last night. The trouble occurred in an Austrian saloon, 28 west South Temple street. The two men had been mixed up in trouble before and last night resumed the wrangle and then began to fight. The bartender attempted to restore order and emerged from the fracas with a blackened eye, while Pawelick received several cuts from a knife used by Sleemick. Both were placed under arrest.

CAPTURED THE "DIP."

Intended Victim of Pickpocket Turns Tables on Would-be Robber.

George Gordon, an alleged "dip" or pickpocket, was caught about 6 o'clock last night at the Federal bar on Commercial street by the proprietor of the place, James E. Williamson, who claims he was Gordon's intended victim.

According to Williamson, while in his place of business Sunday, he felt some one searching his pocket and then felt a hand trying to lift a watch from the chain. Williamson waited a moment and then suddenly turned on the "dip" and knocked him to the floor. He caught the man who was Gordon. The latter made his escape and kept out of sight until last evening when he appeared at the saloon and was promptly seized by Williamson. There was a lively tussle but the saloon man got the better of Gordon and took him to police headquarters.

DEFINITE MOVE ON FOOD TRUST

Farmers and Fruit Growers to Deal Direct With the People.

OTHER CITIES ARE TROUBLED.

Denver is Wondering What to Do While Seattle Introduces Municipal Competition.

At last something definite is coming of the recent agitation over the prevailing high price of food. The whole combination and the jobber combination and the retail combination that took enough profit out of a 20 cent bushel of Brigham city apples to make it cost the Salt Lake consumer $2 is to be fought with the one weapon at hand—the re-opening of long forgotten channels of competition.

Next Saturday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock a convention of farmers and orchardists will meet in the City and County building to discuss marketing crops and orchard products without the help of the commission man, independent of the combine of jobbers, and not through the retail store with its contract to deal only with the jobber who deals only with the commission man who deals only with the farmer and pays him whatever he will.

The farmers are coming together because they see a chance to form a new combination directly with the people, and shut out the other combinations, who they think forget to leave good enough alone and squeezed the market a little too hard for everybody concerned, especially the farmers who don't like the discrepancy between what they were getting and the retailers were charging at the other end of the combine.

WILL OPPOSE HIGH LICENSES.

Among other things the new organization will take up the matter of licenses imposed to discriminate against the sucker and the peddler of milk as well as of farm products. It will also plan to open a co-operative market here to compete directly with the retailers for public trade, and may establish a minimum rate that commission men will have to pay to handle their goods.

TROUBLE ELSEWHERE.

The sister cities of Salt Lake are all fighting the food combination just as this city is. Some of them have already reached the stage of striking back with some available weapon. Especially in this so in Seattle, where Denver is just a little behind Salt Lake in that the exposure of existing conditions are just being made there. In Seattle the same market by which the municipality itself fights the combine by throwing public land open free to farm wagons, is reported to be a great success. More than that a municipal buying plant has made such a success of eight cent electricity that it is ready to announce a still further reduction, and the private company in being driven from the 15 cent rate everywhere within the city limits. It refused to budge from this rate although all means of persuasion were exhausted before the municipality.

IN SAN FRANCISCO.

In San Francisco a new anti-trust law is being rigorously enforced, and the papers there chronicle reductions of 20 and 30 per cent in many commodities as a direct and immediate result.

In Denver the meat markets and the grocery stores are being given the overhauling that Salt Lake gave last night. The butcher and the packer of meat, and the stockman blames the grocery store and the grocery store blames the farmer and the farmer blames the stockman. Meanwhile the housewives of the city are taking to space and no one is to be heard of but the butcher, a general boycott of butcher shops has been declared by the public with common consent.

THE GRAND JURY.

Salt Lake is the only city in the west to look to the grand jury for a remedy. Denver has not yet decided what to do. San Francisco went to the legislature for a new and drastic law. Seattle took up municipal competition, and Portland followed suit. What the outcome in Salt Lake will be from the grand jury investigation it is still too early to tell, but the proposed meeting of farmers on Saturday suggests a hint. The grand jury is expected to which the farmers believe that both themselves and the public will profit.

At the same time the grand jury is expected to which the farmers believe that both themselves and the public will profit.

AMUSEMENTS.

Theater—Tonight closes the engagement of "The Yankee Regent." It will be followed tomorrow evening by the favorite star, Maude Kelly, in her new play, entitled "The Stranger Son."

Wallace Monroe, manager of Louis James, is in the city in advance of that of tomorrow night. He says Mr. James is meeting with astonishing success during his present tour, rendering the two Shakespearean productions, "The Comedy of Errors" and "The Merry Wives of Windsor." In the first named Mr. James essays the task of directing the twin dramas, something that has not been attempted by any other actor of late years. His changes of character are said to be something on the order of the wonderful. In the other piece, he will, of course, enact his favorite role of Mr. John Falstaff. Mr. James' evening in Salt Lake begins next Tuesday evening, the 24th.

Orpheum—The high grade bill of advanced vaudeville now being presented at this house every afternoon and evening is drawing heavy business.

Grand—This afternoon and evening sees the closing production of "For Mother's Sake." Tomorrow night will see the closing of "The Sweetest Girl in Dixie" will be offered.

Larkie—The vaudeville bill, supported by the company rendering the play, is giving good satisfaction. The usual change comes on Saturday afternoon.

LIBRARY LEAGUE ASSURED SUCCESS

Delegates Return Home Enthused

Over Outlook for the Future.

MANY TOWNS WILL ACT.

Representatives Will Organize Local Associations With Backing of Central Committee.

As the result of yesterday afternoon's convention to discuss a state library league, every delegate returned to his home town last night pledged to organize a local society to work upon a library and gymnasium plan.

The convention was an enthusiastic one, and Chairman Howard Briggs, who delivered the principal address, was assured after it had adjourned, that the movement would be given every possible support by the towns represented. Delegates from the following places spoke so favorably that movements are expected to bring definite results within the next few months: Salina, American Fork, Cedar, Kanab, Heber City, Coalville, Mant, Forest Dale and Garland.

INSPECT LIBRARIES.

Before leaving for home the delegates were shown by Roy, Cox of the Y. M. C. A. through its magnificent state street headquarters, and also through the Packard library building. They were greatly impressed with the success each is achieving in its way.

COMMITTEE PLAN.

The immediate plan of the central committee is to appoint a sub-committee on gymnasium, another on libraries, and another on libraries, and from these sub-committees to furnish information for the use of local associations in working up plans for their home towns. The hope of the association is to get a library and gymnasium in every small Utah town, for the benefit of the neglected boy, who, it is thought, can best be reached in this manner. A large number of delegates who could not be present have asked for a report on what was done, and copies of the proceedings of yesterday's convention will be sent out for general distribution over the state.

ANOTHER "FLAG RUSH."

Sophis and Freshies at University Engage in Mixup.

The second "flag rush" of the season at the University of Utah occurred yesterday afternoon, and for a time a portion of the campus furnished as much activity as a disturbed hill, as student stunts over student in a struggle for supremacy. The trouble was between sophomores and freshmen, and started in the drawing room where the freshmen had put up a placard bearing their names. A sophomore seized the offending placard and flung it, and soon the mixing between members of the two classes became general. Later the freshmen hoisted their flag on the campus flag pole, and as during sophomores appeared to at-
