

is "stale, flat and unprofitable," being also untrue. The traitors are those who urge destruction of a republican form of government in the Territory, that being a process of undermining the foundation of the body politic.

The apology for the measure involved in the statement that the bill "never once mentions the Mormon Church" is characteristic. It would have been much more frank and less hypocritical if it had, seeing that even the governor himself asserts that to its members alone is the measure applicable.

Mr. Thomas delivered himself further in the same line. His present excessive zeal, if continued, will soon attract a sentiment of pity toward him in addition to the other feeling which his course has been the means of inspiring. Having been clearly exposed as a covert enemy of the Territorial commonwealth, he now pursues an exaggerated course in that direction, presumably to make it appear as if he had always been straightforward.

It is to be hoped that the Ogden Gentiles have too much respect for themselves and their already expressed opinions on disfranchisement to turn their coats at his dictum. We should imagine they are made of manlier stuff than to engage in such a humiliating performance.

THE L. D. S. COLLEGE.

At the Social Hall, beginning at 11 a.m. May 22, the commencement exercises of the fourth academic year of the Latter-day Saints' College were held. There were present on the stand: Of the General Board of Education, President Wilford Woodruff and Secretary George Reynolds; of the Stake Board, Secretary Wm. B. Dougall; Bishop Wm. F. Reid of Manti, Don C. Young, C. E., Mrs. Zina D. Young, Mrs. Zina Y. Card, and a goodly number of visitors.

The exercises opened with a hymn, "Great God attend," by the choir.

Prayer was offered by Instructor Newton Noyes.

A vocal duet, "Beautiful Moonlight," was creditably rendered by Misses Ettie Penrose and Jennie Smith.

Brother Nathan Gedge, a student of the Intermediate Department of the college, delivered an address in behalf of that department, paying a warm tribute to the methods of instruction and to the feelings existing among the students, and between students and teachers.

Brother Nathan Porter, of the Academic Department, delivered an eloquent address on behalf of the students of that department; dwelling principally upon the general unity which has existed among the students and between them and those of the lower department. The range of the subjects treated in this department was spoken of, the regulation requiring each student to pursue a certain variety of studies being particularly commended. The natural result of such a regulation is that a broad foundation will be laid for future study. The mutual interlacing of these branches, and the harmony existing between the various courses, were spoken of. Clear lines have always been drawn between theory and fact, that the students may not become confused. But the chief feature to which reference could be made is the theological work performed, which has had the effect of impressing upon the minds of the students that desire and zeal for study which is so necessary to the diligent pupil. He closed by expressing the general satisfaction felt by the students of this department with the work performed during the year just closed.

An instrumental selection, "Heavenward," was performed pleasingly by Miss Kate Romney.

This was followed by an address, "Our Lady Students," by Miss Amy Woolley. The general sentiment of of the lady students of the college is one of the greatest satisfaction at the opportunities afforded them for their advancement. A tribute was paid to the spirit to be observed in the institution, and the thought was expressed that the education of the ladies cannot be dispensed with.

Instructor Joseph Nelson spoke upon the subject of the "Business Courses," which have been under his care. These courses have comprised the studies of book-keeping, commercial law, commercial arithmetic, and higher arithmetic, and those who have passed the examinations prescribed have earned the special mention which will be made of them during these exercises. The courses named above were described with some detail, and the benefits of their study shown.

Instructor Willard Done followed with remarks bearing upon the course in literature and history, comprising the studies of English literature, general history, civil government, and elementary German, in which branches one student has passed. Instructor Done also dwelt at some length on the practical exercises attendant upon the studies pursued during the year. The idea has been maintained that nothing should be taught without being given a practical bearing upon the affairs of life.

The Principal followed by reading the names of the following students who have successfully passed the course prescribed by the Faculty as necessary to advance them from the Intermediate to the Academic Department: Emma Carroll, Philip Maycock, Emily Hillam, Hattie Symons, Nora Wheeler, Frank Brown, Jane Parrish, Clare W. Reid, Nettie Davis and Donnette Smith.

Certificates were then presented to Frank Pomeroy and Alva Butler in the business course, and to Laura Hyde in the course in literature and history.

After the rendition of a song, "Only a Rose," by Miss Maudie Bowring, the following report was read by Principal J. E. Talmage:
