

EVENING NEWS. Wednesday, Nov. 12, 1893.

FLOATING FRAGMENTS.

To-morrow being Thanksgiving day, there will be a general suspension of business.

Last Tuesday, at Beaver, W. G. Noyers was accidentally thrown out of a wagon and badly cut, bruised and stunned.

Baron Seeman, with his mysterious performances, will appear at the Theatre every night for one week, beginning to-morrow.

The Ogden Herald fails to come regularly to hand. Sometimes the morning mail brings it, at others the midday, and occasionally it does not come at all.

Mr. S. P. Peterson, a laborer on the Oregon short line, while at work in a tunnel a few days since, was caught between two cars, his leg being broken and other injuries inflicted.

Charles L. Davis (Alvin Joslin) says that he never permits any of his people to stop at second-class hotels. He believes in a first-class style of advertising even if he does not run a first class show.—Carson Appeal.

The Bear Lake Democrat of the 19th inst. says: "Last Wednesday evening, Mrs. Edith Bateman, wife of Mr. Alfred S. Bateman, of Bloomington, met with a painful and unusual accident. While gazing, she dislocated her lower jaw and suffered great pain during the night in consequence."

An exchange says: A most effective mouse trap can be made with any old tin can with a cover to it. The bottom is covered with molasses and a hole made in the side of the can large enough to let a mouse through. As the little animal strikes the molasses he sticks fast and commences to squeal, which brings others, and they get in the same fix.

The citizens of Cedar and vicinity are dazed by the rather jubilant overture of the prospectors and mills that are going to be erected there next year. Bishop Taylor of Salt Lake, is over at the mines, superintending a force of men whom he has engaged to prospect some of the claims, mainly, however, for the purpose of assessment work.—Southern Utahian.

The Cheyenne Leader notices the return to that town, of Mr. Herman Haas and others, after examining the oil indications in the western oil lands of Wyoming, and says: "It is understood that their work was eminently satisfactory, and the prospect sufficiently promising to warrant an investment which will be made, and Wyoming will soon take its place as one of the oil-producing regions of the country."

The Southern Utahian (Beaver) says: Much surprise was expressed last Sunday in the Latter-day Saints' meeting-house by the appearance in the pulpit of Prof. W. G. Bickley, who wished, so he said, to renew his connection with the Church, from which he had been severed about four years ago. A unanimous vote decided that he be received back, providing he complied with certain principles of the religion, to which the gentleman assented.

LOCAL AND OTHER MATTERS.

Thanksgiving Day.—To-morrow being the day set apart by Presidential Proclamation as a day of National Thanksgiving, the NEWS will not issue again till Friday evening.

High Council.—The members of the High Council are requested to meet in the Council House, on Friday evening, the 25th inst., at 7 o'clock.

WM. W. TAYLOR, Clerk.

Manifestation of Respect.—On the 10th inst., Bishop John E. Rees, of Wales, Sanpete County, was the recipient of a manifestation of respect from the people of that place, the occasion being the 59th anniversary of his birthday. The proceedings were in the shape of a social gathering.

Ridiculous Phraseology.—A great many common phrases in use are positively ludicrous when scrutinized. "You meet your friend and say, 'Is that you?' Just as if it could be anybody else than the party addressed. Then you make an assertion about a thing and try to get your friend to tell you you don't tell the truth by asking a question, as 'You haven't seen so-and-so, have you?'"

A man in search of work spread the negative and interrogation business very thick when he said: "You don't know of nobody nowhere about here who don't want to hire nobody to do nothing, don't you?"

Important Western Industry.—About 100 men and nearly fifty teams in the employ of the Union Pacific Company are at work constructing a railroad from Laramie to the great soda lakes, about twelve miles west of that point. Speaking upon the subject the Boomerang says:

In this connection we will state that the establishment of works for the manufacture of all kinds of caustic soda is a certainty. The Union Pacific, which owns the lake, has sent an agent to Europe to purchase the necessary machinery, and will probably commence the erection of extensive works near the river, early in the spring. These works will employ about 200 men.

Philharmonic.—Although the hall of St. Mark's was not crowded last evening, yet there was a fair and appreciative audience, and the efforts of the association were well received. About thirty voices formed the chorus, and some of the solos were well rendered and greeted with deserved applause. Among those which seemed to find most favor with the audience, were the Chorus, "How Gentle Gales," by Miss Louisa Leys and the society; the Piano solo from Beethoven and Mendelssohn, by Professor Radoloff; "Two Grandchildren" by Mr. R. Gorlinski; "Epitaphs Advanced," by Mrs. Moore; Mr. Williams and the society; "Des Humblein," by Mrs. Ashley; and the serenade, "Angelo Divine," by Mrs. Moore. The violin accompaniment by Mr. Weiss in this part was particularly noticeable for its excellence.

There were several encores during the performance, and the concert ended with "Haste the Nymph"—Händel—by the entire strength of the company.

An Alternate Mandamus.—The liquor cases, prosecuted by the County, are being disposed of, in the Justice's Court, at the rate of three a day. In each case an appeal is being taken to the District Court. In one suit, that against N. P. Gray, an alternate mandamus has been issued, at the instance of the defendant, and has been served upon Justice Pyper, directing him to appear in the District Court on Saturday, and show cause why a peremptory mandamus should not issue, commanding him to send the case to the superior court, free of cost to the defendant.

The course of the whisky combination in combatting the laws of the city and Territory, necessarily involves its members in litigation with the legal authorities, in involving expenditures connected with the suits. They not only want to run their business unrestricted, but without and without being regulated by law, but to have their cases go through the lower courts free of costs to them, hence the application for mandamus.

The statute is plain on the subject. Sec. 1896 of the Compiled Laws of Utah directs that, "Upon receiving the notice of appeal, and on payment of the costs of the Justice's Court, including transcript, the Justice shall take the necessary steps to send cases up to the District Court. Surely there is no getting over, around or under that. But, in these days, who knows?

A Fire.—Early this morning there was a fire on the premises of Mr. Robert C. Newson and Mr. Michael Cantlin, in the 11th Ward. The former awoke about 1 o'clock, and seeing a bright light, rushed out and found Mr. Cantlin's and his own barn on fire. The fence running from the barn to his house was also in flames, and he very sensibly cut it down, so as to break the connection. Both barns, containing a quantity of hay and other materials, were consumed. An unfortunate donkey, belonging to Mr. Cantlin, was burned alive, and a cow more or less scorched.

Several neighbors turned out and assisted the owners of the property to prevent the spread of the flames. The value of the property destroyed amounts, so Mr. Newson informs us, to $400, about equally divided between the two losers.

There was no fire alarm, the watchman supposing that the flames proceeded from some brush on fire.

The origin of the fire is a mystery. It had probably been burning about an hour when Mr. Newson discovered it.

National Bank of Ogden.—Yesterday the First National Bank of Ogden was organized. The proceeding was consummated at the Deseret National Bank in this city. The incorporators are W. H. Hooper, H. Eldredge, John Sharp, Wm. Jennings, Feramoz Little, James Sharp, S. W. Sears, John Sharp, Jr., H. S. Young, John C. Cutler, James T. Little, F. W. Jennings, LeGrande Young, L. Hills, P. L. Williams, N. C. Flygare and W. W. Ritter.

The directors who were elected are: H. S. Eldredge, Wm. Jennings, Wm. H. Hooper, John Sharp, Feramoz Little, L. S. Hills, S. W. Sears, N. C. Flygare and H. S. Young. The capital stock is $100,000, and the circulation will be $90,000. The premises, where the bank will open early in January, are most eligible for the purpose, being situated on the corner of the Ogden Z. C. M. I. building.

Another Veteran Gone.—We regret to have to announce the death of another respected veteran, Elder Robert Pixon, widely known and esteemed in the community, departed this life to-day, at his residence in North Jordan Ward (Taylorsville), a few miles southwest of this city. We understand he expired about 3 a.m. The deceased was an old member of the Church and belonged to the Mormon Battalion. He also filled a mission to England between 1892 and 1895.

Death of a Veteran Actor.—In our telegraphic columns will be found some details of the death, under melancholy circumstances of the veteran actor, James H. Vines. He was well known to the community, having, a number of years since, occupied the position of stage manager of the Salt Lake Theatre.

OUR MEETING-HOUSES AND ASSEMBLY HALLS.

"Zion is growing," certainly; and improving too, in all that can charm the eye and elevate the taste. Now in Salt Lake, our citizens, "Gentiles" and "Mormons," are marching in the wake of improvement. No longer content to dwell in buildings in which health and comfort were a secondary consideration, the old residences are being superseded on every hand by others of a more modern aspect, and possessing many more aids to pleasurable existence. Now, Mr. Editor, can you suggest a valid reason why our meeting-houses and school-houses, in many districts, should not be similarly renewed or modernized?

Staff in hand, and taking advantage of the current delirious season, enjoying my "constitutional," I ascended the elevation on the northern part of our city. After attaining a pretty high region, like Jacob of old, I rested and "worshipped," leaning on the top of my staff. While enjoying the goodly prospect and being thankful in witnessing the great progress of the temple during the past year, and also the many signs of prosperity on every hand, I was led to contemplate, and query if the people were also as diligent in preparing houses of worship and education in the various wards. It was some time since I had visited that locality, and so thought to enjoy a pleasant forenoon in going through a portion thereof.

In the Eighteenth Ward the pretty ecclesiastical-looking meeting-house, nearing completion, is a credit to the people, and when the roof is on and the surrounding buildings of which the folks may feel proud. Slowly making my way I came to the Twentieth Ward school lot which presented the same appearance as when I last beheld it. The cedar posts are there, it is true; and that is all there is of what should be a creditable fence. I noticed, however, some few improvements to the school house in the center of the lot. If the lot were fenced around with a pleasant shade trees close inside the fence, and here and there a seat placed in a recess, it would be a pleasant spot.

Still onward in pursuit of health and taking observation along the route, I arrived at the recently formed Twenty-first Ward, and was gratified at beholding the pretty, compact meeting house. I was informed that it had been enlarged from its original size, necessitated by the increased attendance at meetings. This is a good sign. I was warned that the contemplated at an early date to enclose the lot on which the building stands, and improve it.

In this locality signs of thrift are apparent on every hand, though in a more humble degree. It was to me a great surprise to see the increase of homesteads on the bench and the number of ruddy-faced children. I thought surely this must be a healthy spot to dwell on.

For want of a better resting place, I sought the elevated site of the water trough, which the City has placed there, for the benefit of thirsty animals, and from the waste pipe at the side, many of the dwellers in that ward seem to obtain their domestic water supply.

Sufficiently rested, and feeling to ramble in a southern direction, I soon found myself standing in front of the Eleventh Ward Meeting-House. Standing under the pretty row of shade trees which encompass the north and east sides of it, I gazed for a short time thereto. It is a plain rock edifice, suitable indeed for the purpose for which it was built. A small stone tablet on the corner announces its erection. It is not finished yet, as the scaffolding are not yet filled up. A look into the interior also shows that much might be done in the way of fixing and ornamenting.

While resting against one of the shade trees, an aged sister volunteered the information that the house was not yet dedicated, but they were being taken from the day school, and "God bless the little dears" escaped her lips. Just then the street car drove in sight, which I halted and was soon rapidly on my way homeward.

On reaching home, I could not but revert to the associations of childhood, and contrast the noble abbeys, monasteries and cathedrals which I had visited in my younger days, and pray that a more reverential spirit may gain in our midst, especially in regard to buildings of worship and our conduct while therein. A halo to dwell upon the scenes, after the summer day was over, young and old could meet, the youth to play and the aged to sit and talk on the village green, and to hope that soon in every ward of the city there may be a spot where the youth may gambol and mount the horizontal bar, and otherwise disport themselves, and where our aged folk may once again talk to each other of the days that are past, and rejoice together in the days that are present.

Hoping soon to be able to visit in a saintly mood other districts of the city, and to make note of its energies in building up Zion.

Respectfully, VIATOR.

Salt Lake City, Nov. 22, 1893.
