A California Fireman Goes Insane as the Result of a Fright.

SHOCKING DEATH OF A WOMAN.

Suicide of a Nevada Merchant—A Colt Fly Is Colorado—Pitiful Tale of a Child.

A shocking murder has been brought to the attention of the people of Pocatello, Idaho. A mother and her baby were found in a deep ravine in the rocks near that city. It is supposed that they had been murdered and thrown there. An effort is being made to identify the murderer.

William Ahrens, the Horse Creek trapper, yesterday brought in twenty-six coyote scalps for which he got the county clerk's office, says the Cheyenne, Wyoming, Leader. The county on the 1st instructed to 25c. One gray wolf skin was the largest ever brought into the office, being over eight feet in length.

James Davis, a former merchant of Red Bluff, Santa Fe county, N. M., sat for some time each day in a chair at Carrollos, shot and killed Russell Wednesday morning. He was formerly from St. Joe, Mo., where he has relatives. No cause can be assigned for the deed except that he was in debt and could not see his way clear.

An immense fire occurred at midnight, Tuesday, in Colfax, Idaho, L. H. Barnett's Old Hickory factory burned to the ground. Fifty cars, $100 worth of hay and feed and several horse and sheds were consumed by the flames. The fire started about five inches. Highlands, Denver and Colfax fire departments responded, and after hard work succeeded in preventing the spread of the flames. The cows were valued at from $50 to $75 per head. The fire was undoubtedly incendiary in its origin. Loss, $5,000.

An official of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children, says the San Francisco Chronicle, has rescued a 15-year-old girl named Josie Williams from a wretched home in Hinckley alley. The child is alleged to have been abducted about six years ago, and since that time no trace of her had been found till her accidental discovery. The girl is the daughter of Horace Williams, a mine steward. She tells a pitiful tale of cruelties inflicted on her by persons with whom she lived. She will now be placed in a convent.

An Italian was play the violin in one of Stand Comiso's saloons was held up in that part of Stand Comiso known as Shantytown, while driving home with his twelve-year-old daughter, on a Great Falls Street, Omaha. He refused to step down from the wagon and was hauled out by the highwaymen, kicked and beaten into insensibility and robbed of a small amount and left in the road. Meanwhile his horses became frightened and ran away, throwing the girl from the wagon, breaking her leg and inflicting other injuries. A few nights prior a Finlander was held up at the same spot and robbed of $20.

Ernest Wertin, a grocery merchant of Virginia, Nevada, entered his store on Wednesday afternoon, and calling for a glass of soda water emptied the contents of a vial into it and drank it. He then coolly lit a cigarette, and remarking, "I've done it," soon after fell prostrate. One of the employes investigated the vial and saw that it was labeled morphine. Physicians were summoned, and after using every effort to restore consciousness pronounced the case hopeless. There is no cause known for the act, as Wertin was not financially embarrassed, and as far as known, had no domestic trouble. He is only 24 years of age, and by the death of his father two years ago fell heir to about $60,000.

When the Pacific express pulled into Tacoma, Wash., station, Tuesday evening a man and woman alighted from the sending car, and presented two checks for trunks. As they did so two detectives stepped forward, and after scrutinizing two telegrams which one of the officers held in his hand, placed the couple under arrest on a charge of having eloped from Fort Howard, in the state of Wisconsin. When arrested the couple immediately acknowledged that they were the persons wanted, and made no apparent effort to conceal the fact that they had eloped. At the station house they registered as George Eidelson and Mrs. Mary Kellerak. The woman was lodged in a house on a street where she would be safe for the night, while the man was locked up in jail. When searched he had a gold watch and $1,000 in his pocket.

John A. Carroll, a Gronan, has been committed to the Agnews Insane asylum, where he will in all probability spend the remaining days of his life, says the San Francisco Chronicle. No more than a month ago Carroll was a jolly and sociable sort of a fellow and a jester with all who knew him. Today he is a violent maniac. Connected with his fall comes a sad story. Carroll was a member of Engine Company 4 and his particular friend was John Peck, a brakeman for the S. P. While the former family of Mr. Cole was on fire a week ago to Crocia was thrown from a bed on the very heart of the fire and narrowly escaped being burned to death. Carroll was following close behind Peck and saw the flames envelop his friend. Since that time he has not known a sane moment. Night and day there is always before him a picture of a terrified piece of charred flesh which continually implores him to help it. Here are the last words of his lucid moments, for God's sake, Jack!"

A middle aged woman was found in a dying condition by neighbors in Kansas City, Mo., late on Tuesday night. She was found lying still, with a whisky bottle tightly clasped in her right hand. The woman was unconscious when found. Her face, hands and clothes were covered with mud and dirt. It is said by the people of that locality that the woman is known as Hough in her "circle" of friends and believed to be divorced from her husband. The body was awaiting almost a week before it was found. Its decomposition was almost complete when found. The body was removed to the morgue, where it will remain until identified.

The mail matter is brought to town a dozen or more times a week, and the people are always anxious for the arrival of the mail. The postoffice is in charge of Mrs. Mary Hall, who is also the postmaster. She is a widow and has a family of children to support. She has been in charge of the postoffice for about two years. Her bondsmen are Mr. Hall's brothers. Mrs. Hall is a widow and has a family of children to support. She has been in charge of the postoffice for about two years.
