Salt Lake City-Superintendent Christensen has directed that every precau-tion be taken to prevent the spread of contagious diseases.

Principal and Mrs. G. N. McKay expect to take possesion of their fine new home, Nov. 9(h.

In the line of university extension work, the faculty of the university have offered to teachers of the city courses in the history of education and in English literature, provided that the minimum number in each class shall not be than twenty. Doubtless classes will be formed at once.

The new truant officers are doing very efficient work in compellin- truants to attend school regularly.

Mrs. Von Elm and Miss Pratt were visitors at the * Lincoin school on Wednesday.

Supervisor Pollock held an optional meeting for teachers of the third grade yesterday.

Supervisor Elliott met teachers of the third grade on Thursday.

The home of Mrs. James H. Poulton was the scene of a pleasant function on Wednesday afternoon, the occasion being an entertainment for the beneof the Lincoln school piano fund. Refreshments were served from 2 o'clock to 6 o'clock in the afternoon, the festivities being accompanied by an enjoyable program. Misses Stella and Mabel Poulton rendered several pleas-ing vocal and plano solo5, while Miss Minnie Paine recited and sang German selections, Miss Lucille Buttle a recitation and Miss Tessle Smith several plano solos. Quite a neat sum was realized, and all enjoyed a most pleasant time. Mrs. Poulton's courtesy was trip, and warm invitations were ex-tended to them to come often.

Tomerrow evening the instructors will give their annual reception to the stu-dents. It will consit of haad-shaking, light refreshments in the form of fruit. nuts and lemonade and a short pro gram. These receptions have come t be the great event of the year.

AGRICULTURAL COLLEGE.

Logan-The A, C, feotball team won a signal victory over the Ogden High school team last Saturday on the college campus. All concede the skill of the Ogden boys: but they were too light to stand the push of the heavier col-lege boys. Nov. 9, the A. C. team have an engagement with the university team in Salt Lake City. Effor is being made to take a special train of Loganites down to witness the game.

At the last faculty meeting it was decided to give the students in the near future a general reception in the gymnasium. The entire faculty will act as hosts and the committee on pub-lic entertainment will have charge of details. There will be a literary and musical program or an hour and after-ward dancing and refreshments. Invitations are to be limited to college people only.

The college choir now numbers about fifty members, and under Mr. Milton's skilful direction affords fine music for morning exercises. Some specially good volces are noticeable.

Three literary societies are now well organized and their weekly programs are creditable. They consist for the most part of debates, declamations, essays, music and impromptu speeches. The young ladies are making a special study of the short story.

last Sunday night on the subject of temperance. The sub-freshmen, missionaries and 1997's completed the trench connecting the gymnasium with the city sewer system last Saturday. For the third time this year the high schell study room has been filled to overflowing. Once more a number of missionary students have been sent ino the college building for seats.

The first part of the new building to be finished will be the gymnasium. The students expect to occupy it in about six weeks

Mr. and Mrs. McKnight of Los An-geles. Cal., have recently joined the missionary class. They are recent converts and are very enthusiastic in the work

Supt. Christenson of Nephi has written to President Brimhall for an as-sistant in the high school. The demand for teachers from the academy far exceeds the supply.

The office department of the commercial college is now in a very flourishing condition. There are nearly one hundred students who are doing active business with the banks.

The program for Literary society last Saturday evening was furnished by English C, the story-telling class. The students who appeared give promise of becoming very proficient in that line.

Prof. W. M. Wolfe lectured in Ogden last Sunday night on his experiences while with the expedition. That the subject is one of great interest is denced from the fact that Prof. Wolfe has been invited to lecture in nearly every part of the State.

and making preparations to be out on the road all season. Oscar Kirkham of Provo, a promising young tenor, who has been in Germany something over a year, has now settled in Berlin, and is studying with Felix Schnidt; Miss Gates brings very good reports of him.

We are going to have "Beauty and the Beast" next week at the Broadway theater. Birdie Sutherland, an English beauty of the comic opera stage was brought over to play the title role She came and she went. She shed the light of her countenance on the stage manager, chorus girls and boys, for one rehearsal only, then declued this climate wouldn't agree with 101 course there were ugly rumors of disagreements between manager and Beauty, which were very skillfully sup-pressed before these gossipy New York newspapers could get them in print Miss Sutherland took a return Miss Sutherland took a return steamer for, London, without giv-ing many reporters a chance to interview her. Viola Prati Gillett is to be the "Beasi," but it wouldn't require any great stretch of the imagin-stion to fonce her as the Beauty ation to fancy her as the Beauty.

Every theater is filled these days to Its utmost capacity. Especially is this true of the matinees. The well known "matinee girl," and isn't she well known in New York? has induced her brothers and male cousins to join her -of course the mother, or aunt is always in evidence. But now, the young man is as prominent as the young girl in the audience, and the favorite actor or actress, is greeted heartily, and sometimes peited with the violet corsage bouquet, or long stemmed rose. The matinee is certainly a great feature of the New Yorker's amusement. Some visiting friends asked advice about which matinee to attend, one day last week, as they were pressed for time. They were told to begin with the Broadway theater, where the Cas-tle Square Co. is giving "Tannhauser." If not successful to proceed down the "Canyon," and get tickets wherever they could. Seven theaters were entered before they succeeded in getting even admission. "Standing room only," was the sign at every door. The sidewalk in front of the "Knickerbocker," where Irving and Terry are playing, has the appear-ance of a bread riot from the time the box office opens, until support but glas! box office ovens until sunset, but alas! only the wealthy can get in. The annual flower show is on at the Madison Square Gardens. Yesterday was Chrysanthemum day, and such a sight. Never was there a grander dis-play of those most beautiful of autumn flowers. Roses, orchids, palms and cactus were there in profusion too but the chrysanthemums eclipsed any 100. thing ever seen in that beautiful cre ation. They had also a side show of fruits and vegetables, but were so inferior compared to what we have at home, I will not even mention them. Immense crowds gather nightly at these exhibitions.

Sunday night at the "Utah Tavern" the Relief Society held their meeting, and it was almost like stepping into the dear old Eighteenth ward chapel to see so many familiar faces. W. C. Spence, wife and daughter, Mrs. Julia Taylor, wife and daughter, Mrs. Julia Taylor, and daughter Lucille, J. J. McClellan, your fine organist, classic of counte-nance as ever, Mrs. Alonzo Hyde and daughter Beatrice, Mrs. Lucy B. Young, Miss Lulu Gates, Mrs. Sears and Miss Ruth Wilson and Miss Mary Young recently arrived from Salt Lake. It was truly a gathering of the Utah clans, and the evening they enjoyed was a memorable one. JANET.

Copper sulphide, in the opinion of Ph. Hess, solves the problem of a permanent rust preventing coating for iron. The well-cleaned iron is suspended for a few minutes in copper sulphate solution, rinsed with water, then moved about a few minutes in a solution of sodium hyposulphite containing a very hydrochloric acid. The blue-surface resulting, rinsed and little black dried, is adherent and durable.

The species of dock known as can-algre (Rumex hymenosepalus) is an annual indigenous to the arid lands of California, Arizona, New Mexico and Mexico. It sends up a stalk and mass of broad leaves to a height of three feet, bears pink flowers and buckwheat like seeds, and has a remarkable red root, about 15 inches long and covered with eyes like a potato. This root is with eyes like a potato. This root is of interest at the present time as the probable source of the world's future supply of tahnin. The large proportion of tannic acid, about 35 per cent was first made known by the United States Agricultural department in 1878 and since then experiments have been made in sending the roots to Europe several hundred carloads having been shipped in the form of dried chips. Since Prof. F. A. Gulley's exhibit of canalgre at the Chicago World's Fair, canagre at the chicago world's pair, steps have been taken to supply the demand by cultivation.
