Last Night's Dispatches.

SENATE.

WASHINGTON, 14.—Windom, from the committee on appropriations, reported, with amendments, the House bill making appropriations for the support of the army, and it was placed on the calendar.

Cockrell said he would not object to the bill being taken up now, with the understanding that its consideration be deferred until tomorrow. It has just been pointed out with amendments and Senators had not time to examine it.

Windom accepted the proposition of Cockrell, and the army bill was taken up, with the understanding that it should come up as an unfinished business to-morrow.

Whyte submitted an amendment to the deficiency appropriation bill, appropriating $175,000 for contin-ing operations under the direction of the United States fish commission connected with the propagation and distribution of salmon and other food fishes during the present fiscal year. Referred.

Windom submitted an amendment to the same bill, appropriating $1,200 for expenses of preparing for publication and indexing a volume containing the proceedings of the electoral commission and of the two Houses of Congress, in regard to the counting of the electoral vote. Referred.

Hamlin introduced a bill authorizing the purchase of the picture of the late President Lincoln, in his winter quarters in Robert's Channel, providing the cost of the picture does not exceed $10,000. Referred.

The Vice President was authorized to fill the vacancy on the committee on banking and currency by the resignation of Davis, and on the committee on transportation by the resignation of Saunders. He thereupon appointed Voorhees to fill both vacancies.

After an executive session the Senate adjourned.

HOUSE.

WASHINGTON, 14.—Wright offered a resolution instructing the committee on banking and currency to inquire into the propriety of so amending the banking laws as to require in the election of directors the principle of cumulative voting in States where such laws may be in effect, and also the propriety of amending said law so as to limit the efficiency of proxies to two months.

Townsend offered a resolution instructing the judiciary committee to inquire into the facts of the imprisonment of Robert Smalls, colored man, and to report whether such imprisonment is or is not a violation of the constitutional privileges of the House.

Butler offered a substitute resolution giving the judiciary committee power to send for persons and papers in making such investigation. Adopted.

Wood, chairman of the committee on the judiciary, reported back the resolution for the final adjournment of Congress on the 22nd instant, at 6 o'clock. He said he would not call for present action, but would call it up in a day or two.

The House then resumed consideration of the bill for the repeal of the resumption act.

Keefer offered an amendment, that nothing in the resumption act shall be construed to authorize or require the Secretary of the Treasury to retire or cancel the legal tender notes that may be redeemed on or after the 1st of January, 1879, or that may then be in the treasury unredeemed, or that may afterwards come into the treasury, other than by redemption, but that such notes may be used in payment of all debts against the United States or in exchange for coin or bullion.

Deering offered an amendment to postpone the year of resumption from 1879 to 1880; also to authorize a release of legal tender notes and make them legal tender for all debts, public and private.

We offered an amendment, that nothing in the act shall affect the payment of wages, or in debts that may become due after that for the payment of wages of labor, but that such debts may be paid in legal-tender only in such coin or notes as shall be legal tender.

Ball favored the repeal of the resumption act, because he thought that would be the best way to impossible for government, upon the 1st of January, 1879, to redeem the legal tender notes now outstanding.

He favored repeal. He involved against class legislation and opposed strikes of laboring men.
Labor had no right to make war upon capital; but it was equally wrong for capital to conspire against labor. Chittenden said, yesterday, from his problem's desk—that gamblers and bankrupts demanded the repeal of the resumption act, and that he had from New York must have kept a ledger, on one side of which the poor man was put, and on the other the man who owned $500 or $1,000. He said that the gamblers and bankrupts were the only ones who were grinding down the laboring man. (Encouragement on the democratic side.) As soon as Chittenden heard himself alluding to the remarks, he crossed out the word "gamblers" and ordered to bear more distinctly what was said about him, and made several attempts to interpose a remark, but was not permitted to do so, as he himself gave notice yesterday that he would allow no interruption. Felton then went on with his denunciation of capitalists, addressing himself directly to Chittenden, who was sitting on one of the sidebenches of the democratic side, the butt of jests and laughter on that side. He said: "And yet you undertake to comfort the country by telling it that all these things will right themselves. Yes, these things will right themselves when they have touched the bottomless pit of despair and poverty."

Chittenden, still standing on that side of the chamber, asked a minute to reply to Felton.

Douglas—No, not half a minute.

Tucker proposed, facetiously, to have a recess of a few minutes, to allow the country to be comforted by the remarks of the New York (meaning Chittenden).

Hardenbergh, who was entitled to the floor, yielded five minutes of his time to Chittenden.
