DESERET EVENING NEWS.

TRUTH AND LIBERTY.

VOL. VIII. SALT LAKE CITY, UTAH TERRITORY, TUESDAY EVENING, DECEMBER 29, 1874. NO. 31.

ANOTHER "OPEN LETTER."

Dear Public:

We have often observed how naturally, when you wish to purchase any article of comfort or necessity, you endeavor to procure it at the lowest possible price, cheapness generally constituting the most important point in favor of buying. This frequently proves mistaken economy, because low-priced goods must be made of inferior materials, consequently such goods invariably fail to give satisfaction; in perhaps no branch of trade is this fact more apparent than in Boots and Shoes. We are not advocating high prices, however, but take great pleasure in stating that the policy we have adopted of using only the best materials, and making none but good, "honest" warranted Boots and Shoes, has gained us hosts of customers, who, as evidence they are satisfied that our goods are well made and truly cheap, always come again and send their friends. Any defect in workmanship is repaired free of charge. Old Boots and Shoes are made "amaist as guid as new."

In addition to the goods of our own make, we keep a choice assortment of the best qualities of imported Boots and Shoes, including Rubbers, etc., suitable for the season.

Your obedient, faithful servants,

Last Night's Dispatches.

EASTERN.

He Goes to the City Hall.

NEW YORK, 28.—This afternoon King Kalakaua and suite visited the city hall. Mayor Vance was in the Governor's room awaiting them. The reception was wholly informal, and after a brief visit the royal party entered their carriages and were driven away.

Serious Collision.

During a heavy fog this afternoon, as the Williamsburg ferry boat Alaska was leaving the slip, on this side of the river, she collided with the ferry boat Calden, killing one man and fatally injuring three others; the boats were badly damaged.

"Murder Most Foul."

Two families, whose names and addresses the police authorities decline to disclose, made affidavits to day, implicating a prominent physician in this city in the murder of his illegitimate child; the doctor is now confined at the police quarters, but the detectives decline, as they say under instructions, to give his name. One of the women is supposed to be the mother of the murdered child.

Inquest on Byerly.

NEW ORLEANS, 28.—The inquest on Byerly, killed by ex-governor Warmoth, will be held to-morrow. At the post mortem to-day, six wounds were found, one only being superficial, two of the remaining five wounds would have caused speedy death, and three would have caused death in two or three weeks.

Want Difficulties Settled.

WASHINGTON, 28. — The commissioner of Indian affairs, to-day, received an urgent request from Red Cloud, for permission to come on here with a delegation of 40 Sioux chiefs, and settle all the troubles about the Black Hills reservation, hunting on the Platte river, etc., but the commissioner declined to grant the petition on the ground, that he had no funds to pay the chiefs' expenses.

Incendiarism.

ITHACA, N. Y., 28.—Early this morning an incendiary fire destroyed the barns of H. A. Ensign, a dairyman, living one mile south of this city, with twenty cows; yesterday an unoccupied house in Wheeler street was fired, and last night four attempts were made to burn the round house of the Geneva, Ithaca and Athens railway.

FOREIGN.

GREAT BRITAIN.

Confirmed.

LONDON, 29, 5 a.m.—A telegram received by the vessel's owner confirms the reported burning of the emigrant ship Cospatrick. The superintendent of the Brazilian telegraph cable at Madeira also telegraphs that only three persons are at present known to survive, namely the second mate and two seamen, and these were picked up by the British ship Sceptre after having been ten days in an open boat, subsisting part of the time upon the flesh and blood of others who died whilst upon the boats.

WEST INDIES.

To be Executed.

HAVANA, 28.—The Captain General has issued orders to the commanders of Spanish troops to treat captured or surrendered insurgents leniently, but to execute all incendiaries and filibusters captured.

"Bendigo" in a New Light.

On Sunday, "Bendigo," the once famous champion of England, but of late better known in connection with the election business of his native town of Nottingham, made his first appearance in the pulpit in connection with a series of special services held at the London Cabmen's Mission Hall. The evening service was crowded to overflowing, and the proceedings were, as one of the speakers described it, conducted "by shifts," the leaders, including Bendigo, going down stairs to address the crowd collected in the lower room after having spoken to the congregation in the regular meeting hall. The service was opened with prayer by Mr. John Dupee, superintendent of the mission, after which the congregation very vigorously joined in the singing of a hymn. A second hymn followed upon the reading of a psalm; and Mr. Dupee proceeded to say a few words about "their dear ——" With a frankness that in no wise disconcerted the veteran prize-fighter, Mr. Dupee discussed and described the condition in which he had lived up to about two years ago. The speaker was, it appeared, a fellow-townsman of Bendigo's and his recollection of him went back for nearly forty years, at which time his state was so bad that Mr. Dupee, then a lad, used to walk behind him through the streets of Nottingham praying that he might be forgiven. But now he was saved, and, quoting the hand-bill that had advertised the meeting, Mr. Dupee hailed him as "a miracle of mercy, the greatest miracle of the 19th century," which view the congregation endorsed by fervent cries of "Praise the Lord!" "Hallelujah!" Whether Bendigo would stand steadfast in the new course he had begun to tread was a matter which —Mr. Dupee did not hide it—was freely discussed in the circles where the ex-champion was best known. But Bendigo had now gone straight for two years, and he (Mr. Dupee) believed that he would keep straight.

At the outset Bendigo's enthusiasm was somewhat misdirected, as manifested at an infidel meeting he attended in company with his sponsor. "Who's them fellows on the platform?" said Bendigo to Jim. "Infidels," said Jim. "What's that?" inquired Bendigo. "Why fellows as don't believe in God or the devil." "Then come, along and we'll soon clear the platform," said Bendigo, beginning to strip.

Mr. Dupee said they would sing a verse of a hymn, after which Bendigo would address them, and the plate would be handed round for a collection to cover the cost of the bills of Bendigo's traveling expenses. The hymn was a well known one with, as given out by the preacher, an alteration in the second line thus:—

"Praise God from whom all blessings flow,
Praise him for brother Bendigo."

This sung with mighty volume of sound, Bendigo, who had all this time been quietly seated on the platform, advanced, and began to speak in a simple, unaffected, but wholly unintelligent manner; he was decently dressed in a frock coat, with black velveteen waistcoat, buttoned over his broad chest. He is still, despite his threescore years, straight as a pole, and has a fresh healthy-looking face, that belied the fearful stories told by his friends of his dissipation. Except a certain flattening of the bridge of the nose, a slight indentation on the forehead between the eyebrows, and the crooked finger on his left hand, he bore no traces of many pitched fights of which he is the hero, and might in such an assembly have been easily taken for a mild mannered family coachman. "I've been a fighting character," he said, and this was a periphrastic way of referring to his old occupation in which he evidently took pleasure. "But now I'm a miracle. What could I do? I was the youngest born of twenty-one children, and the first thing that was done with me was to put me in a workhouse. There I got amongst fellows who brought me out, and I became a fighting character. About thirty years ago I came up to London to fight Ben Gaunt, and I licked him. I'm 63 now, and I didn't think I should ever come up to London to fight for King Jesus. But here I am, and I wish I could read out of the blessed book and I could talk to you better. But I never learnt to read, though I'm hoping by listening to the conversation around me to pick up a good deal of the Bible, and then I'll talk to you better. I'm only two years old at present, and know no more than a baby. It's two years ago since Jesus came to me, and had a bout with me, and I can tell you he licked me in the first round. He got me down on my knees the first go, and there I found grace. I've got a good many cups and belts which I won when I was a fighting character. Them cups and belts will fade, but there's a crown being prepared for old Bendigo that'll never fade."—Reynolds's Newspaper, Dec. 6.

WASHINGTON NOTES.

From the Capital of Dec. 20—

MONDAY.—In the House nothing of very great interest occurred. Mr. Tremaine of New York introduced a bill relating to libels, whose popular features will recound to Mr. T.'s glory and the late lamented Luke's further confusion—what is one man's meat is another man's poison. A kindred move was made by a small army of patriots consisting of Mr. Cox of New York and Mr. Phelps of New Jersey,

"Tumultuous horror brooding o'er its van,
Pesaging wrath to Poland" or any other man,

Who had anything to say why the "gag-law" should not be repealed instantly and freedom once more restored to the American press. Mr. P.'s bill was very properly referred to the Judiciary Committee with leave to report at any time. This law is not as black as it is painted, for assuredly the gentlemen who are so active for its repeal would have thrown more obstacles than they did in the way of its passage. Mr. Poland says the bill was sworn on him, though he was not its father, and wants to explain. The country is so glad to be rid of Mr. P. that it will very amiably listen to his "last words."

THURSDAY.—In the Senate the diminutive but divine Doctor Sunderland, who had been dissipating at the Centennial tea party the night before, thanked the Lord for the women of America, which renders it incumbent on Miss Risley Seward et al. to thank the Lord for Doctor Sunderland, to which we cannot say amen, because, as a French philosopher says, "It is having what we desire that makes us happy, not having what others think desirable."

General Sheridan has telegraphed General Ord that he will approve plans for a bridge at Fort Laramie, over the North Platte, provided the cost is not to exceed fifteen thousand dollars. The contract has already been made, and the papers have been forwarded for approval. The bridge will be built as soon as the contract is returned and signed.
