

instructed to report at the next regular monthly meeting.

In Memoriam.—Messrs. Morris & Evans have just completed a very neat, white, veined marble headstone, to be placed at the head of the grave of the late Eugene B. Callay, who, it will be remembered, was, for some years, conductor on the Utah Southern Railroad, and who was accidentally killed at American Fork on the 9th of July, 1874. The headstone is a tribute of respect to his memory by his fellow associates of a Mutual Benefit Society, composed of railroad hands, and of which the deceased was a member.

First District Court.

BEAVER, Utah, May 8.
The difficulty as to the prosecuting attorneyship has been settled by the pro tem. appointment of Presley Denny by the court, at the request of the defendant's counsel. Thirty additional jurors will be drawn to provide against the probable exhaustion by challenges of the number already drawn. Everything indicates that the trials will be pushed vigorously to a conclusion. It is rumored that Judge Boreman is determined to dispose of the cases this term, or discharge the prisoners, and this may have the effect of causing those who have been hid so long to voluntarily appear in court.

Franklin Freights.—Mr. Geo. S. Kennedy, the rustling forwarding agent at Franklin, has been interviewing our merchants this week and making arrangements for the season's transportation. George claims the Franklin route is infinitely superior to the Corinne, and that whereas Corinne has fifteen winter-bound trains on the road, he shipped goods up to November 20th which arrived in Helena December 20th and returned into Franklin loaded with bullion, passing the Corinne trains in Port Neuf on the way up, worn out and camped. Trains left Franklin last week loaded for Helena and Virginia City. The First National Bank represents Kennedy & Co. in Deer Lodge, and shippers will have prompt attention at both ends of the line.—New Northwest.

A Novel Recommendation.—The "Mormons" receive a great deal of advice, good, bad and indifferent. The latest thing in that line comes from an eastern gentleman, who recommends Central Africa, which he calls the "garden of the world," abounding in game, fish, fruit and everything else to match, as just the place for the "Mormons" to go to and take up their permanent abode. He suggests the feasibility of building certain lines of railroad, and building up a happy community, free from the meddling interference of covetous enemies.

Advice is very cheap, but the "Mormons" think they are pretty well off, and, although willing to accommodate people on general principles, when it is all right, but, so far as leaving their present comfortable quarters is concerned, they beg respectfully to be excused.

Returned From England.—Yesterday afternoon we received a call from Elder James Payne, who reached home on Saturday night from a mission to England, for which country he left, on a mission, April 28th, 1875, having, consequently, been gone a few days over one year. On his arrival in England he was appointed to labor in the Bristol conference, where he remained between three and four months, during which time he baptized nineteen persons into the Church. Subsequently he was removed to the London Conference, where, in the Bedford District, he baptized two and, in the Reading District, twenty-one people, making a total in all, while on his mission, of forty-two. He also states that the prospects, especially in the London Conference, are good for additions to the Church, although in places much bitterness is manifested, especially by some of the clergy. At one place, Burbridge, the parson advised his flock not to sell anything to the Elders, and got a number of the farmers to agree to turn off all Latter-day Saints in their employment.

A Specimen of Art.—One of the best specimens of art, of the kind, we have ever seen has just been completed by Mr. W. C. Morris, painter and decorator, of this city. It is an illuminated business directory for 1876, beginning May 10th, to-morrow, and will be placed in position, in the corridor of the postoffice, tomorrow evening. It is 17 feet six inches long by ten feet six inches in height, and upon it are the business cards of about fifty different firms, the ground work and lettering being of a great variety of colors beautifully blended, contrasted and harmonized, and most of the industries or businesses are particularized by a painted representation of something connected with the special trade, and therefore the specimen involves portrait, landscape, mechanical, animal, and ornamental painting, executed in such a manner, as to stamp the artist as a young man of most unusual versatility of talent and original genius. Several artists of the city have examined the directory and pronounced it remarkably well executed, especially when it is considered that Mr. Morris has done the whole of the work on it by his own hand.

Correspondence.

Charley Ross—May-Walk—High Water—The Times, &c.

LOGAN, May 4, 1876.

Editor Deseret News:

Some little excitement was caused on our streets this afternoon by one Bassett expressing himself that he knew where there was a lad answering the description of Charlie Ross, and that if he could but see a photograph of Charlie he could momentarily decide all doubts. While some were discussing the feasibility of telegraphing to Philadelphia for one, others were perusing the late almanacs in hopes of finding a likeness of him.

The last I saw of Bassett he and the sheriff were slowly walking down Main Street, probably consulting the principal of "halves" on "rewards," &c.

The schools of Logan, though a little behind the usual time for such an announcement, took their May-walk to-day. It was pleasing to see the children, under the generalship of their teachers, march four abreast, with picnic in hand, to the grounds—a grassy open spot in the willows, east of Col. Crockett's residence.

Logan River is "roaring," and is slowly but surely rising. June is the month in which this river is dangerously high, and had it not been for the vigilance of our supervisor, Mr. Philan Cranny, in timely repairing the south bank near the bridge, it is thought that the river would have changed its course to the imminent danger of Oscar Rice's house.

Times are on a balance with the world, or as they are in other places, and it is no wonder, for the "circus-man," the "exhibitor" and the "monkey-shower," each in his turn, begins to ship his traps over the ridge, via U. N. R. R., into the "granary of Utah" from the time the farmer begins to sow in the Spring, until he begins to feed his stock "one hay with two straws" in the Winter. SNILLOC.

A Trenton editor makes the statement, for the good of correspondents, that they need not commence their communications, "I take my pen in hand," as he don't care whether they write with their toes or with the pen in their mouth, so they send the news.

At Sunderland, England, recently, a laborer, working near a chimney with other laborers, was killed during a snow storm by what appears to have been a stroke of lightning. The sky suddenly became dark, a tremendous report was heard and the man fell dead.
