

STRENUOUS DAY FOR THE TEACHERS

Departmental Work of the Convention Develops Interesting Papers and Discussions.

DR. BALLIET DELIVERS TALK.

Maintains That Enforcement of the Criminal Law of the Country Is a Disgrace.

When the morning session of the teachers' convention adjourned from the Assembly hall Tuesday afternoon, it was to meet in the high school building, where the departmental work of the convention was to be carried out.

One of the most interesting demonstrations was that of the physical department, which was held in the gymnasium. Greetings to the visiting teachers were read from Dr. W. A. Anderson of Yale and Dr. J. L. D. New York, both of whom were here during the sessions of the university summer school.

The first class demonstration was that of the primary department by a class of little tots under the direction of Miss Erma Bittner of the Waterloo school. The drill by the children elicited much applause from the visiting teachers. This was followed by a creditable drill in callisthenics by a class of little girls from the Waterloo school, under the direction of Mrs. Bertha Martin. Games for high school boys were demonstrated under the direction of H. L. Marshall of New York. Under the direction of Miss Elsie J. Ward, instructor for the girls in the Salt Lake high school, the apparatus work in the gymnasium was demonstrated; that for boys was demonstrated under the direction of Renwick W. McNeice, also an instructor in the high school.

The exercises for defective children were demonstrated under the direction of Mrs. L. S. Ross of the State School for the Blind at Elkhart, Ind., by a class from that institution. The work of the little blind boys and girls was exceptionally well done and aroused the admiration of all. Classic dancing for college was demonstrated by a class under the direction of Miss Louise De Lancy of the University of Utah.

DR. BALL'S LECTURE.

In the nature study and science section the chief topic was the lecture of Dr. E. D. Ball of the Agricultural college, who discussed the "Possibilities of agriculture as a high school study." Dr. Ball declared that the study of agriculture in the high school has come to be an essential, and said that the young man equipped with a practical and theoretical knowledge of agriculture can take care of himself anywhere and under any circumstances. The discussion of Dr. Ball's able paper was led by A. L. Neff, principal of the Brigham City high school.

"A Rational Course of Zoology" was the subject of an interesting paper by Dr. C. T. Vorhies of the University of Utah. A paper prepared by Prof. Chester Snow, B. Y. U., Provo, was read in the absence of Prof. Snow. The subject was "How to Get the Most Out of the Physics Course." The discussion was participated in by Prof. A. B. Knowlton of the University of Utah and B. A. Perkins of the Ogden high school.

"The Aims and Needs in Psychology" was the subject of a paper by Miss Elizabeth Bond of the Salt Lake high school. Election of officers in the nature study and science adjourned until 10 o'clock this morning. The officers who served during the past year are as follows:

President, C. C. Spooner, Salt Lake high school; vice president, E. M. Hall, L. D. S. university secretary, Clarence L. Stewart, Mantle high school.

MUSIC SECTION OFFICERS.

Election of officers was the feature of the session of the music section, which held its meeting in part of the gymnasium of the high school. Albert Powell, supervisor of music in the Weber county schools, was elected president; M. E. Christopherson of Salt Lake was chosen vice president, and Isabel A. Odell of Plain City, secretary. The meeting was presided over by Mr. Christopherson, who was the president. Miss Lillian H. Whelan, the secretary, who has occupied that position since the death of the elected secretary, Julius Schmidt of Sandy.

"Music in the rural schools" was the subject of a paper by Prof. Oscar Van Cott of Salt Lake. Prof. Van Cott said music was a necessity in the rural schools. A teacher of music need not be a master of instrumental music, but in his opinion a good teacher in other branches could teach music also.

A paper was to have been read by Prof. W. A. Wetzell, supervisor of music in the Salt Lake City schools, but owing to the illness of Prof. Wetzell, the paper was omitted. The Oneonta school orchestra rendered a number of selections, and a chorus of children sang vocal selections.

J. P. Goddard presided at the meeting of the commercial section held in room 51 of the Union building at the high school. George B. Hendricks of Logan delivered an address on "Recent Developments in Commercial Education in American High Schools and Colleges" and C. E. Allen of the University of Utah gave an address on "The Necessity for Liberal Education as a Complete Preparation for a Business Career."

Mr. Allen emphasized the necessity of a vocational education in preparing the boy or girl for useful manhood or womanhood. E. H. Holt of Provo delivered a lecture on the subject, "Means of Inducing a Larger Percentage of Commercial Students to Take Longer Courses." The subject was discussed at length, the discussion being led by G. P. Roach of Ogden.

GRAMMAR GRADE.

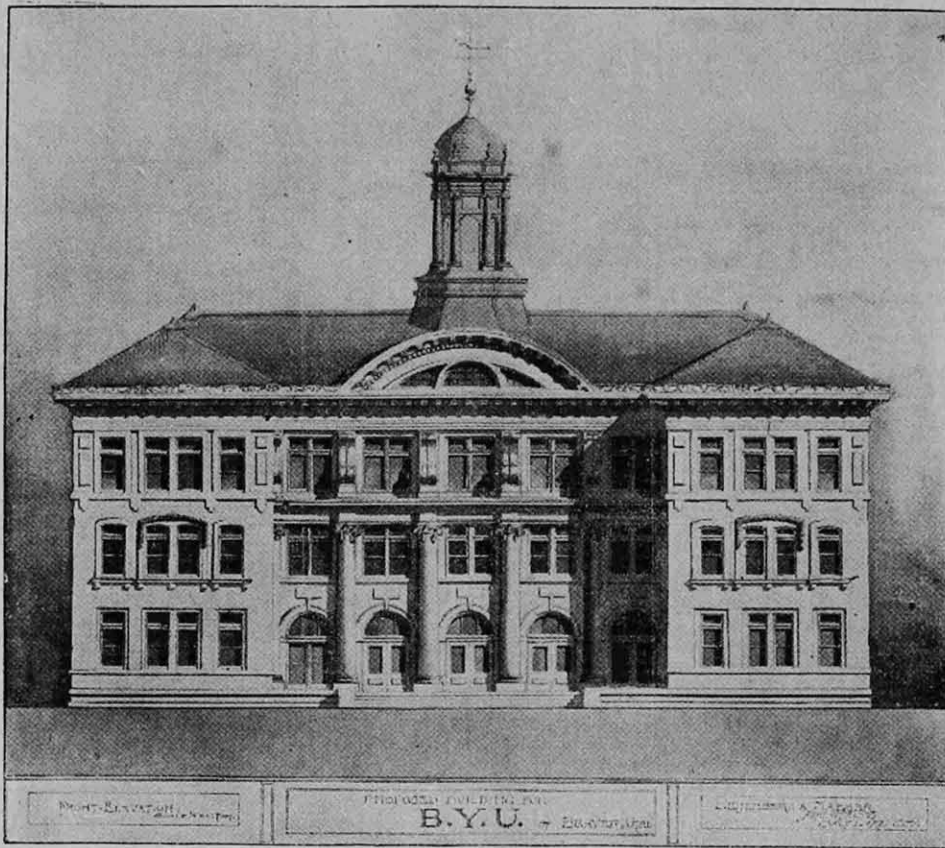

President Oscar Van Cott presided at the meeting of the grammar grade department held in the gymnasium assembly room. An interesting debate was precipitated by F. D. Keeler, principal of the Webster school, who took exception to a statement by Prof. Hall, in a lecture delivered by the latter, to the effect that nature study and geography should be correlated. The debate was participated in by many of the teachers present, the general sentiment being manifestly in support of Prof. Hall's position, on the ground that it would mean the reduction in the crowded curriculum of the schools.

Miss Ada Van Stone Harris addressed the kindergarten department on "The Place of the Kindergarten in Public Education." Miss Harris declared that kindergarten training is especially important, as every teacher should know how to train the young. The kindergarten is the foundation on which all education is built. Miss Harris said it was necessary for every teacher to have an open heart and to rule by kindness and gentleness, for the successful development of the child in the kindergarten course.

Prof. William Stewart gave a short but pointed and well received lecture on "The Kindergarten as a Proper Connection Between Home and School."

BRIGHAM YOUNG UNIVERSITY CAMPAIGN

This Department is Conducted by a Member of the Faculty

THE BRIGHAM YOUNG UNIVERSITY HIGH SCHOOL BUILDING.

This was the first of the buildings comprising our present educational plant, to be built by popular subscription. It was completed and first occupied in January, 1892. Three other splendid buildings followed, also the products of the faith and works of many small donors. These buildings are now overcrowded, housing at present over 1,400 students.

The need of a building to accommodate the already large number of young people entering the courses of the teachers' college, is imperative. Thanks to the splendid way in which our friends are responding, that good is likely to be reached next school year.

Estimates Necessary to Complete the building	$110,000
Subscribed by Alumni and friends	56,157
Subscribed by B. Y. U. Faculty	9,775
Subscribed by Students now attending	3,861
Subscribed at large since the beginning of the holiday campaign	8,627
Amount still necessary to complete the building	$1,580

It is cold weather in which to solicit funds for the new college building; but while the freezing temperature causes a tighter buttoning of overcoats, it does not, as a rule, check the beating of the generous hearts beneath them. Usually the solicitor has only to state the nature of his cause. Rarely is he turned down, while occasionally the spirit of giving is phenomenal. An instance of this occurred a few days ago in Heber City.

President Jos. R. Murdock of the Waatch stake, having been asked to lay the nature of this call before his people, invited all the friends of the Brigham Young university to assemble at the stake tabernacle at noon on the day before Christmas. The train reaches Heber at 12 o'clock, and leaves again for Provo at 5 p. m. A meeting would be held during the interval at which President Brimhall, so they were frankly informed, would lay before them the need of funds for the completion of the new college building.

There were many reasons why the purpose of this meeting should have miscarried. Such an invitation was plainly a deliberate money trap, and human nature may usually be counted upon to keep out of that, even when the weather is balmy as June; but to bait the trap when the mercury is below zero, then proclaim the fact that it is baited, and next seek the proposed victims to hitch up and drive in from all points in the country in order to be caught—well, it was a unique maneuver, to say the least.

But as the sequel proved, President Murdock evidently knew that the frost could not cool the warm hearts which beat in time with modern progress in that lofty, and just now very frigid valley.

The High School band was at the depot to welcome President Brimhall, and did their best to wake up the echoes. The approaches to the tabernacle were lined with sleighs. A dense column of smoke was suggestive of warmth within the building. It would be going too far to claim that the hall was crowded. Sufficient to say, everybody present counted one. Speeches were made by Mayor Clyde, President Murdock, members of the stake board of education, under whose auspices the meeting was held, and lastly by President Brimhall.

Then Mayor Clyde started business by heading the subscription list with $250. In a very few minutes, so brisk were the contributions, the amount had climbed to the comfortable sum of vass, since taken up at the various towns throughout the stake. An auspicious feature of the meeting was the presence of about 60 students of the local high school, many of whom subscribed liberally. Where your treasure is, there will your heart be also. By their contributions they became one, as it were, with the B. Y. U. students who so lately distinguished themselves in the same cause. The teachers' college herewith extends to them a cordial welcome.

$1,300. This figure will, it is believed, be considerably increased by the campaign.

DR. PAUL SERVES NOTICE.

Whether a Christian Science healer has a right to treat patients afflicted with a contagious disease and be permitted to enter and leave the place at a practicing physician will probably be decided in the courts in a few days. Dr. Samuel G. Paul, assistant health commissioner, was called up by telephone Tuesday by a Christian Science healer who informed him that she intended to treat Frances, the 6-year-old daughter of J. T. Clark, of 284 Center street, who is suffering of scarlet fever. The healer, who is a woman, was informed if she entered the house which is under quarantine that she would have to stay there, like anybody else. Dr. Paul declares that if she takes the case and then breaks quarantine, he will have her arrested.

THAT OLD PORTRAIT GAME.

Claiming to be a representative of the Paris Art company with offices in many parts of the United States a young man, described as being about medium height and having light hair, recently hounded Mrs. Achurch, living at 971 Second avenue, out of $450, which was supposed to pay for the frame of a picture he had enlarged for her. When he called on her the first time he received a photo for enlargement, and he returned a week later with the enlargement and stated that it would cost her $450 for the frame. She gave him the money and she has not seen him since. The same game has been played in Cache county, and the description given of the young man by those who have been hounded in the northern county is said to agree with that given by Mrs. Achurch.

TWENTY PATROLMEN ADDITIONAL NEEDED

Chief of Police and Mayor Get Together on Proposition to Strengthen Efficiency of Force.

Samuel Barlow, chief of police, and John S. Bransford, mayor of Salt Lake, are putting their heads together for the purpose of increasing the numbers and efficiency of the police force within limits which will be financially approved by the city council. Twenty patrolmen are to be asked for and it is possible that the chief of police will also request the installation of a box alarm system.

The head of the police department says that he needs many more men than the 20 additional which are to be asked but that he will be content with that number for the present. The city has long ago outgrown the present old-time method of turning in calls over the telephone, and the box system, by which every man calls up at specific intervals, will solve a good many problems, according to both Chief Barlow and Mayor Bransford.

BEATEN BY NEGRO.

Herbert Bates, an employee of the water department, was assaulted and badly beaten last night on Orpheum avenue by Eugene Bingham, a negro habitue of Commercial street dives. The negro was placed under arrest by Desk Sergeant Spiers. Bates says that he does not know the negro and can give no reason for the vicious attack.

MINORS IN POOL ROOMS.

Judge Bishop gave financial notice yesterday that anybody brought before him on a charge of allowing minors to make pool rooms their resorts would know that he had been in court. Chris Nielson, Rudy Lasell, and Raymond Johnson were fined $25 each for this offense. They are the proprietors of a pool room on West Second South.
