Conference Visitors Invited. To the hosts of people who will "come to conference," the Co-op Furniture Co. extend an invitation to call at their store, 40 East Temple Street, where an elegant stock of furniture, embracing a great variety, can be seen. This establishment carries goods ranging from the lowest in price to the most expensive, and is a reliable one to deal with.

Fell From a Scaffold.

Yesterday afternoon, while Mr. Jas. Coult, of the Eleventh Ward, was en. gaged in plastering a house near the corner of Second West and Third South streets, the scaffolding gave way and he was precipitated to the ground. He was considerably bruised, but fortunately received no serious iojury.

Rains in the Gila Valley.

A toprespondent writing from Pima, Arizona, states that abundant rains have recently visited that section.

Subsequently the property was found in Russell's possession at a hotel in this city. The theory of the defense is that Russell took the articles for safe keeping until Hirons should sober up. The trial was in progress when our reporter left.

Last Appearance---"Ranch 10."

This evening Osbourne & Stockwell's company make their last appearance here in that drama typifying western life, "Ranch 10." This is a piece which will undoubtedly draw a large audience in this city, as it pictures scenes more or less familiar, and hence interesting to many people in this section. Concerning this play the Butte Miner says:

"The plot is laid principally in a benighted locality in Wyoming Terri-Ctory in the early days, and is replete with situations that really character-ized the interior of the Territory at that epoch. It is a more thrifting play than "The Goiden Giant," and smacks a triffe more of the less modern fronthere drama, yet there are not a few features in it that lift it far above the so styled "blood and thunder" play. Broad veins of pathos and excellent comedy permeate its entire structure. It is not only that, but the material is conduced to the keeping of such intelli-went and studious custodians that the drama would prove very acceptable under these conditions did it possess less real merit than it does.",
