

William Allen White on Society.

A YOUNG woman in this town went visiting in New York. She was visiting some suburban people in an aristocratic neighborhood outside of town. She went to a party and was introduced to a number of girls. They seemed nice enough girls and she had a good time. But when she met them down in New York they didn't know her from a rabbit. She afterward heard that they said her father was a storekeeper.

And she had a good cry at the cruelty of women in general. She said she would die before she would treat a dog that way!

But she came home and was visiting at a house where a girl was working for her living. She and the girl and other girls at the house had a good time one afternoon together. And then a few days later the proud storekeeper's daughter sailed downtown in her fluffy white dress and passed the girl she had met a few days before and cut her dead. Could she be speaking to every hired girl she met on the street?

Why, of course not. And the second girl went home and had a good cry. And she wouldn't treat a dog that way. And she went to a dance in the country where they moved the things out from the front room and the kitchen, and put the fiddler and caller-off in the bedroom door. And she met a big-footed Dutch country girl, who danced on her heels and threw the boys around like sacks of flour. And the country girl thought the city girl with her big hat and town clothes was just the sweetest thing out of heaven. And when the country girl came to town looking like a fright one Saturday night she ran into the city girl and her chin from the West Side on parade with a dapper little clerk and a pretty looking tin-horn gambler whom all the girls at the shirtwaist dance said was "just dead well." And do you think the town girl spoke to the big-footed country girl with her funny clothes on?

Sad on your typewriter. She turned her face the other way and she and the other girl and the two boys sailed by prouder than a peacock.

And so it goes. Cruelty and pride and vanity rubbing their way through the world. Women are worse than men. Men accept one another for what they are really worth. A rich man, who has honestly earned his money, thinks nothing of talking to some one's hired man. The railroad brakeman and the railroad president have relations that their wives never could assume—providing that their wives are fools. A man is proud of the fact that he has worked with his hands and come up in the world. There was a woman at the federation of club last spring who was once head waiter at the Whitley and though she was a cultivated, honest woman she was ashamed of it, and if the Gazette had printed the fact at the time the federation would have mobbed the office.

Now, why? If her husband had once been a porter at the Whitley and had made money, he would have been proud of his rise. Women are funny. This is a funny world.

PIRATING FOLEY'S HONEY AND TAR.

Foley & Co., Chicago, originated Honey and Tar as a throat and lung remedy, and on account of the great merit and popularity of Foley's Honey and Tar many imitations are offered for the genuine. These worthless imitations have similar sounding names. Beware of them. The genuine Foley's Honey and Tar is in a yellow package. Ask for it and refuse any substitute. It is the best remedy for coughs and colds. For sale by F. J. Hill Drug Co.

MISS EMMA LUCY WASHBURN.

PRETTY GIRL TO GET "SPITE HOUSE" MILLIONS.

Miss Emma Lucy Washburn, of New York, next month, will become the wife of Sidney B. Wood, of Bridgeport, Conn., is to inherit $5,000,000 from the estate of her mother, Mrs. William Tucker Washburn, a niece of the late Mrs. Emma J. Richardson, widow of "Spite House" Richardson. The late millionaire got his pseudonym because of his building a house of five stories in height and only seven feet wide on a piece of property which he owned at the corner of Lexington avenue and Eighty-second street, New York, because he could not meet a desirous buyer of an excessive price for the land. Richardson was then a millionaire and to spite the other man built the odd house on the strip of land, thus shutting off the other's light and view from the corner. He lived in the odd house until his death in 1897. His total fortune was about $25,000,000, but he gave a great deal to charity.

DON'T PAY ALIMONY.

There will be no occasion for it if you keep your bowels regular with Dr. King's New Life Pills. Their action is so gentle that the appendix never has cause to make the least complaint. Guaranteed by Z. C. M. I. Drug Dept., 112 1114 Main St., 25c. Try them.

Germes as Hired Men.

The farmer emptied a white powder into a pail of water, and added thereto a tiny wad of cotton. "I'm getting ready to vaccinate my land for the spring," he said. "This is virus. The government gives me the virus for nothing, and the vaccination increases my crops from 50 to 300 per cent."

Stirring the fluid, he went on: "Dr. G. T. Moore, of the department of agriculture, is the inventor of soil vaccination. Thanks to him, you can fertilize for 4 cents as much soil as $40 worth of nitrate would cover."

"You see, the thing that fertilizes soil is nitrogen. Well, there is a lot of nitrogen in the air—seven-tenths of the air is nitrogen. And Dr. Moore has bred a germ, a little living germ, that all its life long works like a Rockefeller at extracting this nitrogen from the air and storing it in the soil around it.

"This germ is what I vaccinate my land with. This germ, put in my soil, toils day and night—a fine little hired man. To it the air, the free air we breathe, is a perfect guano bed, and from that guano bed I draw all the profit."

"And the result? Well, a potato field yielded 50 per cent more potatoes after vaccination; an oat field yielded 300 per cent more oats; a wheat field yielded 52 per cent more wheat; a rye field yielded 400 per cent more rye."

Quadrupeds That Lay Eggs.

The salesman, as he wrapped up the Easter eggs, conversed politely. "There are quadrupeds that lay, ma'am," he said.

"Yes. They are mammals, ma'am, too. Their home is in South America, their names are the ornithorhynchus, or duck-billed platypus, and the echidna, or porcupine ant-eater. They are the lowest mammals known."

"Really?" "Oh, yes. The duck-billed platypus lays two eggs at a time. But the echidna lays but one egg, which it carries in a natural pouch beneath its stomach—there's an idea for the hen there—until the kid echidna, so to speak, is hatched out."

Battledore and Shuttlecock.

"That was a lovely Easter card you sent me, dear."

"How did you know I sent it?"

"It was the same one I sent you last year."

BEST FOR WOMEN AND CHILDREN.

On account of its mild action and pleasant taste, Orino Laxative Fruit Syrup is especially recommended for women and children. It does not nauseate or grip like pills and ordinary cathartics. Orino Laxative Fruit Syrup aids digestion and stimulates the liver and bowels without irritating them. Remember the name ORINO and refuse substitutes. For sale by F. J. Hill Drug Co.

POPE'S REMEDY.

A SELF-STYLED POPE.

"Pope of the Divine Catholic Church," is what August Shrader, one time of Wisconsin, calls himself and he has arrived in New York to cure all ills and incidentally to collect funds for the establishment of a church wherein his doctrines may be spread

Just a little experience and plenty of before the masses. The "Pope" claims to cure any disease. He wears in costume and bizarre adornments the commonly known portraits of Biblical prophets, wearing a black velvet gown, somewhat the worse for wear and lack of whisk-broom attentions, a good cross about his neck and a generous crop of brown hair on his head and face. His eyes are blue and his language rather primitive, the last distinction showing a disregard for public schools in his youth. If you can't visit "Pope" Shrader to be cured of your ailments, all you have to do is write them to him—not forgetting a cash enclosure of about 15 cents—and he will cure you by mail. His motto is "a square meal to the soul."

WAS WASTING AWAY.

"I had been troubled with kidney disease for the last five years," writes Robert R. Watts, of Salem, Mo. "I lost flesh and never felt well and doctors with leading physicians and tried all remedies suggested without relief. Finally I tried Foley's Kidney Cure and less than two bottles completely cured me and I am now sound and well." During the summer kidney irregularities are often caused by excessive drinking or being over-heated. Attend to the kidneys at once by using Foley's Kidney Cure. For sale by F. J. Hill Drug Co.
