The Work in the South.

HAYWOOD VALLEY, Georgia,
April 30th, 1878.

Editors Deseret News:

Spring opened earlier here this year than is common, but for all that the farmers, owing to rain, are behind in their planting. Wheat is beginning to head out, but the rust is striking in and a large crop is not looked for. In the most favorable of seasons wheat only averages seven to eight bushels per acre, corn from 15 to 30 bushels per acre. Cotton varies from 300 to 1,000 lbs. per acre.

Though there is no finer country, in the production of berries, which grow abundantly all over the mountains, yet the people never can any, but subsist year in and year out on corn bread, sorghum, hogs' meat, with now and then wheat bread and a mess of potatoes. Coffee straight, that is without sugar or cream, is the usual drink at table, unless one prefers buttermilk.

Many of the farms are on the sides of the mountains, and the mystery is how anything will grow on account of the rocks being so thick. It seems incredible that people can content themselves living on such farms, when the great West, with its thousands of rich acres, can be so easily settled and obtained.

A person travelling among the Southern people realize that though they have been whipped by the North, yet there is a feeling of enmity existing in their bosoms, which only needs a little breeze to inflame their passions to deeds of carnage and strife.

Brother A. W. Sabin and myself have been traveling together several days. At Trion Factory we called on Mr. Allgood, who owns the factory and employs 250 hands, and asked him the privilege of looking through the building. This he refused, asking us at the same time where we were from. We informed him. He then said that he owned the church and all the other buildings in town and he allowed the ministers of all denominations to preach there except "Mormons," for them he had no use.

After all is it not strange that men should be so, if it were otherwise it would not be in accordance with the Scriptures. Christ himself was called a wine-bibber by those who thought they had no need of present revelations. How some men will hug the New Testament to their bosoms, claiming it to be the word of God and that it will lead them into all truth, yet denying the necessity of having the gifts of the Holy Ghosts. Darkness indeed covers the minds of the people. When light and life come into their midst, yet will they allow themselves to be turned from it and will grasp with avidity every idle story that is circulated against God's anointed.

Brother R. Rogers has just arrived in this valley from Alabama. Brothers Williams and Johnson are going to labor in Alabama. Brother Morgan is well and full of energy and is visiting among the branches of the church. All are well and desirous of spreading truth. That we may be able to do the same we ask for the prayers of the Saints.

Yours in the gospel.

Cure for Throat Disease.

FILLMORE CITY,
May 7, 1878.

Editors Deseret News:

Dear Sirs—Having had considerable experience in cases of diphtheria or putrid sore throat, and noticing the numerous deaths caused by this fatal disease, I forward you the following receipt, which please insert in the columns of your paper.

When there appears swelling at the roots of the ear and glands of the throat, attended with pain in the head, and chilly sensations, make a poultice with the leaves of wild sage, boiled in water and thickened with bran, place in a thin cloth and apply to the throat. The poultice should be long enough to reach to the top of both ears, and about four inches wide and one inch thick. Change every twenty-five minutes, having another poultice in readiness, being careful lest the air should strike the throat, five or six applications will be sufficient, after removing the poultice scrape some salt pork, sprinkled with mustard or ginger, apply to the throat, keeping the ears and throat warm. This will draw the disease out, and prevent its going to the vitals. Next prepare a gargle, a half pint of strong vinegar and a handful of garden sage steeped together and strained, to this add  $\frac{1}{4}$  oz. alum,  $\frac{1}{4}$  oz. borax,  $\frac{1}{4}$  teaspoonful cayenne, sweeten almost to a syrup with sugar, gargle this every two or three hours, or oftener if necessary. For a child, use ginger instead of cayenne. One dose of pills or rhubarb to cleanse the stomach. Kerosene oil, camphor, hartshorn and turpentine, should never be applied outwardly to the throat, as these will drive the disease to the lungs and heart, and still these driving medicines are recommended by many of our skilled physicians, and this is the cause of so many dying of this disease. If ulcers form back of the palate, which will be known by the palate coming down on the tongue, take equal quantities of borax, alum, and sugar, pulverized, snuff through the nostrils every hour; this will remove the ulcers. If the patient has a cold on the lungs, and this disease at the same time, give inwardly from ten to twelve drops of turpentine in warm water and sugar. Mix turpentine and oil in equal quantities, put under the armpits on the breast and between the shoulders, to drive the disease from the lungs, the above receipt, if taken in time, has never been known to fail.

LUCINDA H. DAME.

The late Bishop of Winchester, Dr. Samuel Wilberforce, commonly called "Soapy Sam," could say a smart thing now and then. He was travelling by rail one day, when a lady, verging on the sixties, asked him how it happened that the Psalmist, in the following verse: "Young men and maidens, old men and children, praise the name of the Lord," neglected to mention ladies of her particular age. "Oh my dear lady," said the bishop, "if you will read a little further you will find it says 'All ye dragons and evil spirits praise his holy name.'"

GANG &amp; SULKY PLOWS.

IMPROVEMENTS are constantly being made in all kinds of labor saving machines, and more especially in farm implements, and farmers are learning that the saving of time and labor can best be accomplished by using the best implements manufactured. In this connection we wish to speak more particularly of the

GANG &amp; SULKY PLOW

made by Avery & Sons of Louisville, Ky., which we have recently examined at the sales-rooms of

J. W. LOWELL &amp; CO.,

of this city. About 60 of these plows have been sold by them in the last few weeks, probably a larger number than has ever before been sold in this Territory since its first settlement. Farmers are getting tired of being jerked and twitched around all day by following the old style of plows, and find that by using the

AVERY GANG OR SULKY PLOW,

which is a beauty to look at, as neatly built as a carriage and about as comfortable to ride on, they can do their plowing with comfort, and even a child can handle it and do a man's work. We do not wonder that scarcely any other style of GANG OR SULKY PLOWS are sold in this market, for the Avery is unquestionably the BEST manufactured, as hundred of the leading farmers of Utah will testify.

We give below a letter from Mr. John Rouse, of Goshen, known as one of the oldest settlers and leading farmers of this Territory, who has tested the AVERY PLOW and knows its merits.

GOSHEN, Utah,
Feb. 19, 1878.

J. W. Lowell & Co.,

Gentlemen.—A twelve year old son of mine plowed 60 acres last fall with the Avery Gang and Sulky Plow, eight acres of which were plowed 12 inches deep and laid level and better than any other plowing I have seen since I left England; and I consider myself a judge of such work. My boy can handle the plow with ease. As for the draft, three horses can handle it readily in breaking with the sulky plow, and the same team is sufficient for the 12 inch gang plow in old land. I am well pleased with the plow, and do not know where it can be improved.

Yours respectfully,
JOHN ROUSE.
