

Local and Other Matters.

FROM WEDNESDAY'S DAILY, APRIL 28.

Commissioned.—Our friend, Mr. B. H. Schetler, has been commissioned a notary public, by the Governor.

Emigration Agent.—The address of the Church emigration agent at New York is:

Mr. Wm. C. Staines, Box 3957, New York.

Photographic.—This morning Mr. C. R. Savage obtained a couple of fine pictures of the residence of Mr. John T. Caine, with family group arranged in front of the building.

Departure of Missionaries.—This morning Elders Andrew Galloway, Richard Warburton, Samuel Sudbury, and John Wardrobe and some others left on missions to Europe.

Wanted the Saws.—Yesterday the highwayman Charles Williams, alias Donovan, wrote a note to a friend of his, whom he designated by the euphonious title of "Dutchy," asking him to "bring him the saws, as he wanted to again be free." He didn't get the "saws."

Clean Streets.—City Marshal J. D. T. McAllister gives public notice to all persons owning or occupying lots in the City, to forthwith clean the streets in front of their premises, and refrain from depositing rubbish therein, according to law. Hot weather is coming, and filthy streets should not be tolerated.

Pleasure Gardens.—On Saturday, May 1st, Lindsey's pleasure gardens will be opened for the season. It is an excellent place for picnics and pleasure-seekers generally to resort to. The gardens have been considerably improved lately by the erection of additional summer-houses and other attractions. A good place to spend May Day or any other holiday. Mark's advertisement will be found in another part of the NEWS.

James Thomas.—David B. Thomas, Murphysboro, Illinois, is exceedingly anxious to gain some tidings of his brother, James Thomas, or any of his family. He states that James Thomas, formerly of South Wales, is about forty-eight years of age, that he sailed from Liverpool, for America, with his wife and two children, in 1852, in a ship in which Captain Jones was commander. When last heard from he was at Boston. His destination was Salt Lake City. Anybody who can give the desired information should address as above.

New Music.—From Dwyer's book store comes No. 5 of "Peters' Household Melodies," containing the following: "Waiting, Love, for Thee," song and chorus; "Swinging on the Garden Gate," song and chorus; "O, Miss Susie," song; "Come and Meet Me, Nettie, Dear," song and chorus; "How are all at Home," song and chorus; "Thinking of Thee," ballad; and "Abide with Me," sacred. This is one of the best and cheapest musical monthlies in the country. It is published at four dollars a year, single numbers fifty cents, and the pieces in the present number, if purchased in sheet form, would cost $2.45.

City Council.—The regular weekly meeting of the City Council was held last evening, Mayor Wells presiding.

A resolution recommending the Territorial map of Col. B. A. M. Froiseth as correct, was presented and adopted.

G. W. Crocheron was allowed the privilege of erecting a flower stand over the water seat, opposite his store, First South Street.

Petition of S. P. Teasdel, asking the transfer to him of the unexpired license of Teasdel & Co.; granted.

Council adjourned till next Tuesday evening.

Shooting Scrape.—Shortly after midnight last night William Bean and Mr. W. King passed a few angry words about some old disagreement between them. It is stated that Bean immediately drew his pistol, when, quick as thought, King drew his and shot the other in the upper part of the left breast, the ball glancing upwards, passing nearly through and lodging close to the shoulder blade.

The wound was dressed by Dr. Thompson, and we understand that it is not necessarily fatal, unless inflammation should supervene.

Mr. King was taken into custody and was released on giving a bond of $1000, for his appearance, for investigation on Friday at 2 o'clock.

The Emigration.—The first company of emigrating Saints, from Liverpool, will sail on the 12th day of May. Elder H. S. Gowans, Bishop Henry Hughes, Elders L. John Nuttall and John Squires will be with that company.

The second company, Swiss and German, will probably leave June 16th, and a Scandinavian company is expected to leave on the 30th of June.

The through fares from Copenhagen to Ogden, so far as now known, will be as follows—

	£	s.	d.
Adults	-	-	15 5 0
Children, between 5 and 12	-	-	7 12 6
Children, between 1 and 5	-	-	2 2 6
Infants under 1 year	-	-	1 0 0

Who are the Bigots?—Bigotry and prejudice take many forms and shapes, and by none are they more strongly manifested than by those who accuse the "Mormons" of showing it. If, as is happily comparatively a rare case, a person professing to be a "Mormon" commits a breach of the laws, the cry of, "He is a 'Mormon,' horrible system, etc.," is immediately raised by a certain class. If the "Mormons" were to say, in speaking of criminal offenders, "He is a Methodist, he is a Presbyterian, he is a Catholic, he is an infidel, etc.," it would look quite different, wouldn't it? It would be bigotry, prejudice and inconsistency then, but it doesn't seem to occur to some people that bigotry is all the same, whether displayed by a "Mormon" or those who differ from "Mormons," religiously or otherwise.

Bazaar of all Nations.—A novel and attractive public entertainment is now in progress at the Horticultural Hall, Philadelphia, mention of which will prove specially interesting to the horticulturists of the Territory, in view of the contemplated exhibition. All the important nations of the world are represented by characteristic buildings, and the products of such countries are disposed of by ladies dressed in the respective national costumes appropriate on such occasions. The stage represents Syria and the background shows a part of the wall of Jerusalem; while all the other leading ancient and modern nations are represented with their customs, merchandise, fruits, flowers, products and culinary skill. The bazaar was formally opened on the 16th inst., by ex-Gov. Andrew G. Curtin, and will remain open for a month.

Artistic.—A number of oil paintings from the brush of the progressive young artist, Mr. Alfred Lambourne, are on exhibition at Savage's gallery. One of the most striking of the collection is a scene in that part of southern Utah, where the line is located which divides this Territory, Arizona, and Nevada. In the foreground is a lava bed, peculiar to that region, and a growth of several varieties of cactus. The details of the picture are boldly and judiciously rendered and the sky, being rich in color and beautifully blended, gives a fine effect. It is a "Dixie" picture, and that part of the Territory has a scenery which is strikingly peculiar to itself. The time of day represented in the painting is early morning, when the sun is casting his first "glint" on the tips of the distant mountains. There are other pictures from sketches taken by Mr. Lambourne while he was in the East, not long since, possessing commendable merit.

Class to Learn Spanish.—About sixty or seventy persons met in the Seventies' Hall last night, to hear Mr. Dan Jones explain his method of and terms for teaching the Spanish language, and before adjournment quite a number gave in their names to form a class. The first lesson of the course will be given to-night. The class will meet three times a week—on the evenings of Monday, Wednesday and Friday, from half-past seven until nine o'clock. It is expected that the course will continue about eight weeks, by which time Mr. Jones intends to have all diligent pupils so far advanced as to be able to pronounce the language with facility, and to have such a knowledge of its general principles as to be able to continue their studies without further aid from a teacher. The terms are moderate, fifty cents per week, and every gentleman paying that amount to have the privilege of taking a lady free. All who wish to join the class can do so this evening.

FROM THURSDAY'S DAILY, APRIL 29.

Valuable.—We understand that Dr. Williamson paid $7,500 for the horse that was stolen from him night before last, and not $1,000, as heretofore stated. It was one of the best blooded horses in this part of the country.

Claiming Them.—Yesterday the claimants of eighteen of the horses which Deputy Sheriff Florida brought from the north on Tuesday night came forward, proved property and recovered their animals.

Stealing Blankets.—This morning F. P. McElwly and James Brown were each fined $30, for stealing blankets, the property of the City, from the stable on the City Hall lot. They will work it out.

A Standing Excuse.—Customer to storekeeper—"Have you got any so and so?"

Answer—"No, I am sorry to say we are just out of that, but have got any amount of it in the block-ade; we have got plenty of "such and such, though."

Go For Them.—In fixing up the grape vines in his orchard, Mr. C. R. Savage found the codling grubs abounding in the rough wood trellis work, and other nooks or corners where they could find a suitable lodging place. There should be a universal attack on the pests.

Sanpete Narrow Gauge.—We learn from a gentleman from Salt Creek, that about two miles, including the largest fills, of the proposed narrow gauge railroad between that place and Sanpete, have been graded. A force of about twenty men are at work on it now, in Salt Creek Canyon.

The Canine Question.—This morning no less than five persons were fined $5 each, by Justice Pyper, for keeping unlicensed dogs. Some of the parties appeared as if they wished the canines that had led them to the necessity of paying $5 in these dull times had long since been subjects of the dissecting room of the sausage maker.

Stockton.—Messrs. Morris and Evans have been awarded a contract to construct, at Stockton, for a company composed of gentlemen from Michigan six charcoal furnaces, each to be 26 feet in diameter at the base and 26 feet high.

The Chicago and Waterman smelting furnaces are running. The stages to and from Stockton are crowded daily, and considerable bullion is being shipped from that District.

Lamanites Enquiring.—Last Sunday three Indian Chiefs, from the Bannock and Snake tribes, arrived in this city, having travelled from the part of the country where they are located, for the purpose of learning from the "Mormons" something concerning baptism and other principles and ordinances of the gospel. The desired explanations were given them by Indian Interpreter D. B. Huntington, and they departed apparently perfectly satisfied with what they had heard.

Killing Lucern.—J. J. McClellan writes from Payson, under date of April 28th—

"I see in your daily of the 10th an item in regard to killing lucern. I think that stacking on one-third of the ground the whole crop, for two or three weeks, in hot weather, will kill it. Last year I left two or three good bunches on one patch for only five or six days, in August, and those patches did no more good last year, and are still lighter than the rest of the patch."

Lost Three Hundred.—Last night a Chinaman was running around upon the streets in a state of excitement, in search of policemen and lawyers. He had lost three hundred dollars in gambling, and he wanted the party who had mulcted him arrested. When he returned to the house where he had lost his money, with the policemen, the other Chinaman, who got away with the spoil, had gone to other parts, and could not be found, and it is presumable that the despondent "Celestial" is still mourning over his departed three hundred.

The gambling occurred in a house on Commercial Street.

A Curious Phenomenon.—About ten o'clock this morning the attention of people in the vicinity of the Z. C. M. I. building, First South Street, was attracted by a whirlwind, which started on the opposite side of the street and kept revolving with great velocity, carrying scraps of paper and other light articles upwards hundreds of feet into the air, and from the ground the course of the whirlwind, which was serpentine in form, could be seen distinctly, as it formed a thick core of dust which it carried up from the dry street. After playing some peculiar freaks on the north side of the street, it slowly moved across to the south side, where it suddenly expired.

Opened.—The retail department of Z. C. M. I. opened this morning, with a splendid display of goods. The alterations necessary to prepare the premises for this kind of business have been rushed up in double quick time, by Mr. Peter Reid and a number of assistants.

The saleroom is 83 feet long by 41 feet wide, with the exception of a square piece at the south-east corner, still retained for wholesale purposes. The groceries, cutlery, tinware, etc., are neatly arranged on the west side; on tables in the middle of the room are queensware and clothing, while the dry goods are on the east side. Considering the brief time in which the change has been made the arrangements and display are exceedingly creditable.

AMERICAN.

NEW YORK, 27.

Thousands of spectators gathered at St. Patrick's Cathedral this morning to witness the ceremony of conferring the Beretta on Cardinal McCloskey. There had been an enormous demand for tickets, and numbers who had them found great difficulty in gaining an entrance through the crowd. The streets in the immediate neighborhood were packed with human beings, all anxious to even get a chance of seeing the portals of the church. The interest manifested was so great, that representatives from every part of the Union were present. A number of front seats were reserved for invited guests, and among those seated in them were Chief Justice Daly, Judge Donahoe, District Attorney Phelps, Sinclair Tonsey, Collector Arthur, Hon. Thos. Murphy, and many other well known citizens. At 10:40 a.m. the head of the procession emerged from the vestry, acolytes leading and bearing the cross and tall taper; then followed long lines of clergy who, after making genuflections before the high altar, passed down the centre of the aisle, which was soon packed. When the surpliced priests had all taken their places, the representatives of the various religious orders in the diocese began to emerge from the vestry in their picturesque habits. When the procession had all been arranged in their proper places, there was an interval of ten minutes, during which the church was filled with music from the choir. The procession of prelates at length emerged from the vestry, with slow and measured tread. The audience rose as the magnificent spectacle began to unfold itself, and the scene was one which New York will probably never again witness. Boys with picturesque robes, and swinging censers, and dignitaries in purple preceded the archbishops and bishops, and the procession was closed by the celebrants of the mass, Bishop Loughlin, of Brooklyn, Rev. Dr. McGlynn, Assistant, Rev. Father McGean, deacon, and Father Kean, sub-deacon, then Cardinal McCloskey, the Papal envoys, Dr. Maldi, Monsignor Roncetti, and lastly the tall figure of Count Marafoschi, of the Pope's noble guard, in a dazzling uniform. Cardinal McCloskey, wearing his rochet, purple cuserik and mattleta knelt at the epistle side of the altar; the archbishop of Baltimore sat on his throne on the same side, the officiating bishop and clergymen stood at the altar steps, and mass was commenced. The Cardinal stood up and proceeded to his throne, at the gospel side, he alone of all the prelates present having the pastoral staff, which was carried by an assistant. The officiating bishop, after incensing the altar three times, sat down with the deacon and sub-deacon. Bishop Loughlin read the introit, recited the kyrie, and intoned the gloria in excelsis, which was afterwards sung by the choir. Collects were read by the celebrant, and the epistle by the sub-deacon, and while bishop Loughlin read the gospel the entire congregation rose to their feet. He then chanted the words of the Credo in unum Deum, and in a low voice recited the remainder of the Nicene creed. When it was concluded the celebrant, together with the assistant deacon and sub-deacon sat down until the choir had finished. Bishop Loughlin returned to the altar, where, after the customary Dominus vobiscum and Oremus, he proceeded to read prayers at the offertory. The deacon and sub-deacon then prepared the sacred vessels, and bread and wine. The Mercandantes quam dilecta was sung, and during this period the acolytes again advanced with censers, and the altar was incensed, by the celebrant archbishop and bishops rising and removing their mitres, the priests and the entire congregation also rising. At this time the church was a level sea of heads, from right to left, from sanctuary to door; the right, left and centre aisles were packed as full as they could hold with people, who were glad to get standing room. When the bell tinkled to announce the opening of the canon or solemn part of the ceremony, the people standing made an attempt to kneel, but were unable to do so, they were massed so tightly together, and the very unusual spectacle was witnessed of hundreds standing up during a consecration. Towards the end of the mass was introduced the curious ceremony of "giving the kiss of peace." It is not exactly a kiss, but an inclination of heads together while the hands rest on each others arms. The kiss was given from one to the other, until it passed along through to the right and left, all through the crowded sanctuary. When the mass was finished the interesting part of the ceremony commenced, and Cardinal McCloskey rose and knelt at the left hand side of the altar. The Archbishop of Baltimore stepped down from his throne, and knelt at the epistle. The audience rose with perceptible excitement, and some had the bad taste to crowd up amongst the clergymen in the sanctuary. The ablegate, Monsignor Roncetti, stood beside Archbishop Bayley and, in a loud, clear voice, read a message in Latin from Pius Papa, to his Venerabilis Frater the Archbishop of Baltimore, setting forth the reasons which induced him to confer the Cardinalate on Archbishop McCloskey, and at the close handed him a brief, authorizing him to confer the beretta on this newly appointed prince of the church. The archbishop having replied in Latin, passed the brief over to Father McLean, deacon of the mass, who then read it. Count Marafoschi then surrendered the beretta to M. Roncetti, who handed it to Archbishop Bayley, who then walked up to the cardinal and placed the cap on his head at the same time addressing him in Latin as Eminentia Tua. The cardinal made a suitable reply, also in Latin, and after intoning the Te Deum retired to the vestry and put on the crimson robes of his office, and returned to the altar, while the choir sang the Te Deum. At the close of the hymn the cardinal gave the pontifical benediction, and the ceremonies were ended, and the vast congregation passed out of the cathedral.

Just before intoning the Te Deum Cardinal McCloskey unexpectedly commenced an address in English, saying that he had two duties to perform, first to return thanks to the papal delegates, and to the people who had attended in such numbers, and he continued—"It is also our duty to make acknowledgements to you, venerable brethren and prelates, to you the reverend clergy, to you, distinguished officials, for the State and city, to all, to all for the honor that has been conferred upon us by your presence here this day. It would be proper for me to make this acknowledgment, and proper to say something of the solemn and interesting occasion which has been the cause of attracting within the walls of this venerable Cathedral, such an august assemblage; but I regret to say that my feeble strength forbids it and that I would be unequal to the task; and besides, the ceremony has been protracted, and is not yet brought to a close,
