EDITORIAL NOTES.

—The Montana New North-West says, "We have never yet been able to see why an Indian has any more right to be deprived of his liberty of person, or any more right to steal, burn and murder than a white man. If the United States is not able to administer justice to 300,000 Indians, it had better take down its shingle as a great power and buy a sheep ranche."

—The Christian Weekly says, "Rev. Dr. Field, of the Evangelist, in describing a visit to Brigham Young, says that he has a good, honest, Scotch face, and if he had seen his head in the Moderator's chair of the Scotch General Assembly he should have felt how Scotchmen choose, as by instinct, a man whose natural gravity gives dignity to their public deliberations."

—An Englishman, it is said, is travelling by bicycle from Cologne to Vienna.

—The Philadelphia Ledger says "Bob" Ingersoll's speeches are characterized by "low buffoonery, flippant scurrility, and that ribaldry which shocks the moral sense of people by rushing to the verge of blasphemy."

—Speaking of the proposed removal of the Sioux to the Indian Territory, the Oklahoma Star cries, "Save us from our friends!"

THE TIMBER QUESTION.

AT the late Territorial Convention a resolution was adopted that the Delegate to Congress be requested to endeavor to procure such amendments and modifications of the timber law as would relieve the inhabitants of the Territories from the impositions of the stumpage system.

More than half a century ago laws were passed by Congress concerning timber on the public domain. By reading these statutes it will be discovered that the object of these laws was principally to preserve the live oak and red cedar for the use of the United States navy, iron vessels being then practically unknown. A few years subsequently other laws were made on the same subject, which incidentally mentioned "other timber" than live oak and red cedar as similarly forbidden to be cut and carried away. But still the principal weight of the law applied to ship timber. The penalty for the breach of this law was fine and imprisonment.

This might be all very well, past a certain point of use necessary to settlement of the country, in flat, or rolling, or slightly mountainous, thickly wooded regions, where one had nothing to do but drive one's wagon or sleigh right into the timber and cut and haul away the same without any other trouble or expense. But that situation does not exist in this region.

In the first place, this whole Territory and mountainous region, when those laws were made, was considered waste, desert, scarcely habitable land.

In the second place, costly experience has proved that in regard to that matter those early views of this region, if not wholly, were very largely, true.

In the third place, there is no timber in this Territory of easy access, excepting in a very few instances, and that is scarcely fit for anything but firewood and a little perhaps for fencing, and consequently can hardly be dignified with the name of timber.

In the fourth place, such timber as there is in this Territory, and can properly be called such, is situated, in almost every instance, on the precipitous sides of the mountains, up steep and rugged cañons, inaccessible except at the outlay of enormous means to make roads and keep them in repair for many miles up the cañons.

The Pacific railroads are accounted a wonderful triumph of the ingenuity and enterprise of man. Why? Surely not because miles and miles of track were laid across the plains with scarcely any grading at all! No. But because of the difficulties encountered in crossing the mountains and going through the mountain defiles. Now all these difficulties, to a very great degree, were previously encountered and overcome by every city and settlement in Utah, merely to obtain firewood to keep the settlers warm, and such knotty, gnarled, scrubby timber as the adjacent mountains afforded to build houses and bridges and make fences. In consequence of this condition as to the timber supply, the ancient timber laws in question were considered hereabout, in courts and out, as practically obsolete, dead, inapplicable to this region. There is hereabout no live oak or red cedar, no timber suitable for naval purposes, no timber to export, not timber enough to supply the settlers with fuel, fencing, and houseroom. Millions of feet of lumber have been imported to Utah, and much is imported every year.

This virtually obsolete and really inapplicable old law, however, it appears, has been resurrected by the land office, and by the spite of federal officers who have been sent here, but who have no sympathy with the struggles, trials, welfare, and prosperity of the citizens, nor any interest in common with them in building up and developing this naturally forbidding and inhospitable portion of the country.

We said resurrected the old, obsolete law. But such does not appear to be strictly the case. Rather have a series of regulations been instituted which allow private persons to take timber for their own individual use, and provide stumpage rates for timber cut and sawn for sale. But these stumpage regulations are not administered with fairness and impartiality. They are rather administered with irrational partiality and fitful spleen, made the means of venting partisan spite, the basis of oppressive exactions and mean official tyranny.

The attention of Congress, therefore, to this subject is really demanded by the exigencies of the situation, so that legislation may be had of a nature more fitly applicable to the character of the country, and which shall be shaped in a manner to give less opportunity for the infliction of the oppressive exactions, the manifestation of the petty tyranny, and the playing of the fantastic tricks of men dressed in a little brief authority.

TO-DAY'S DISPATCHES.

EASTERN.

Suicided.

COLUMBUS, 14.—Frank Deshler, teller of the Franklin National Bank, committed suicide a few moments ago by shooting himself through the heart. No reason is given, as yet, for the deed.

Death of Rufus King.

NEW YORK, 14.—General Rufus King, formerly minister to Rome, died in this city last night of pneumonia, aged 62 years.

Ten Car Loads of Honey.

J. S. Harbison, of San Diego, Cala., arrived in this city yesterday with ten car loads of honey, each car containing 20,000 pounds. This vast aggregation of bee labor was taken from Harbison's apiaries, Harbison says, notwithstanding the great crop he has brought to this market, he will probably not realize more than $10,000 after deducting expenses and the interest on the capital.

An Actor Stricken with Paralysis.

The World's Baltimore special says the well-known actor, John C. Ferres, was stricken with paralysis last night while acting. It will probably prove fatal.

Governor Chamberlain's Application for Troops.

A Herald special from Washington says: The written application of Governor Chamberlain for troops to aid him in enforcing the law as chief magistrate of the State of South Carolina, arrived yesterday, and was placed before the authorities by a delegation headed by Senator Patterson. The answer of the Secretary of War, after consideration, was, that he should await the return of the President.

Gold Importations.

The importations of gold this week are $1,400,000. A German steamer just coming up has on board $250,000.

Condition of Business Generally.

Dun & Co.'s mercantile agency have just issued their quarterly circular, presenting the business outlook from a statistical stand point. It shows over 7,000 commercial failures in America during the last nine months, of which 2,450 were during the last quarter. The average is over one per cent of the total business firms. The average for the years 1873 and 1875 was barely one, and prior to that only a half per cent, but the average of last quarter's liabilities, per insolvent, is over a third, a reduction from the average for the corresponding quarter of last year. The average indebtedness of insolvents outside of New York, has increased about as it has increased here. A large decrease is reported for California and Pennsylvania.

La Circular further shows that the business improvement did not begin until two-thirds of the quarter had expired, and was then too restricted to materially influence the affairs of the embarrassed parties. Evidently failures are more numerous among the smaller classes of traders, and fewer larger disasters are reported. The lines of credit have been gradually lessened, and the losses by bad debts are reduced in proportion to the number succumbing. Indications are marked of a general improved condition. There is everywhere a decided increase in confidence. All the conditions favor a considerable movement in those branches based upon the necessities of the people, especially in the articles to eat and drink. There are many proofs, also, that a lengthened depression has not produced a general exhaustion. When better times arrive trade will be found in a healthy condition, while it will not do to take the indications of the past few months' revival as a harbinger of the next, their conclusion is universal that trade has turned, and the future will witness a steady, though gradual, improvement in numerous business interests hitherto depressed and profitless.

Yacht Race.

The race for the Cape May challenge cup, surrendered to the New York club by J. H. Labus, was brought to a close this morning by the arrival of the Atalanta, at Sandy Hook light ship, two hours and fifty six minutes in advance of the Idler. The Atalanta is owned by Wm. Astor, and the Idler by Sam. J. Colgate.

The Court Upholds the Order.

The general term of the Supreme Court of Appeals upheld the order of arrest against Wm. Butler Duncan and others in a suit against them by Washington A. Roebling, upon a bill of exchange purchased of Duncan, Sherman & Co., for collection just before their failure.

The Pacific Mail Steamship Co.

At a meeting of the directors of the Pacific Mail Steamship Company, to-day, G. G. Miller was elected first vice-president to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of George Scott, in March last, and Amos Rogers was elected second vice-president in place of J. B. Houston, who resigned to take another position in connection with the company's business. City Marshal Hayes and his men were at the Pacific Steamship Company's dock early this morning to seize the steamer Colon, which is expected to-day, for non-payment of more than $100,000 taxes for 1874.

Incendiarism and Murder.

BOSTON, 14.—News of the probable triple murder has just been received from Bucksport, Maine. The victims are an aged man, named Trim, and his daughter, Mrs. Thayer and her little girl. Trim's house and buildings were burned last night, his charred remains were found in the debris of the carriage house, a bloody trail was found leading from his house to the rear of the barn, and it is supposed that Mrs. Thayer and her daughter were murdered, and the bodies dragged to the barn, though they have not been found. Mrs. Thayer was known to have had $6,000 in the house, and plunder is supposed to have been the incentive.

Dismissed From the Naval Academy.

ANNAPOLIS, 14.—The cadet midshipmen, Wm. King, of Georgia, F. B. Parsons, of Massachusetts, Geo. A. Scott, of Indiana, J. F. Leeby, N. Y., and W. W. Russell, Maryland, have been dismissed from the Naval Academy for refusing to tell who hazed the plebs. The expelled students refused to testify to save the other students from being expelled for hazing, for which there is the additional penalty of being cashiered. The expelled cadets may be reinstated; a cashiered hazer cannot.

Sale of Short Horn Stock.

CINCINNATI, O., 14.—Among the sales of shorthorns yesterday on the farm of J. V. Grigsby, Winchester, Ky, were the following: Sharon Rose to Archie Hamilton, Mount Sterling, Ky., $3,400; Geneva Rose, to E. W. Simmons, Paris, Ky., $2,900; Rose of New River, to W. C. Vonmeler, Winchester, Ky., $2,200; Ruby Duchess, to Abner Strawn, Altoona, Ills., $1,300. Eighty animals were sold and $45,000 realized.

FOREIGN.

GREAT BRITAIN.

War Notes.

LONDON, 14. — A dispatch from Belgrade reports that the Turks are planning an attack on Diena.

A Vienna telegram states that a courier from Lovidia arrived, bearing a letter from the Czar to the Emperor of Austria.

A correspondent at Paris telegraphs that an uneasy feeling regarding the eastern question prevails. He is informed, on good authority, that the French foreign office considers a war inevitable. Germany is the only power that can prevent it.

A telegram from Constantinople announces that at the request of the British Embassador, the Sultan has caused the arrest of Chefket Pasha, who took a leading part in the atrocities in Bulgaria.

The Times, in a leader, declares if Russia refuses an armstice, or is the means of its refusal, she becomes the enemy of Europe.

A Berlin correspondent says Italy, in her alliance with Russia, has in view also the acquisition of Tunis.

The Eastern Question—Conciliatory Notes.

A dispatch from Vienna says the understanding on the eastern question, between Russia and Austria, is considered certain, notwithstanding the contrary rumors.

A telegram from Constantinople says the Porte's notes to the ambassadors are very conciliatory. The proposal for a five months' armistice is merely a wish and not a condition.

A New Viceroy for Ireland.

The Times confirms the announcement of the resignation of the Duke of Abercorn as Viceroy of Ireland. The Duke of Marlborough is his successor.

Russia Rejects the Six Months' Armistice.

PARIS, 14.—Russia rejects the six months' armistice decided upon by Turkey, and demands afresh that the six weeks' armistice should be imposed upon the belligerents, the proposal originally made by England to Turkey.

—The ex-Sultan Murad is said to have bought a barrel of 1861 Johannisburg from the cellars of Prince Metternich at the highest price ever given for that kind of wine—£3.5s a bottle, and there are 1,400 bottles.
