There is to be a grand Democratic rally at the Theatre this evening at 7.30. The Sixteenth Ward Brass Band has been about town this afternoon working up the enthusiasm of the party with some lively airs. The News was favored by them with a serenade.

There was a large audience at the Fifteenth Ward Music Hall last night to witness the entertainment given there under the management of Prof. Jos. J. Daynes. Several pieces were deservedly encored, and the puns and local "hits" were duly appreciated and received liberal applause. Altogether it was a very enjoyable affair. The same company have in preparation "Pirates of Penzance."

LOCAL NEWS.

The Daly's.—The Daly Vacation Company opens on Monday next at the Salt Lake Theatre, and will give three night performances, also a matinee on Wednesday. The troupe was billed for one week in Denver, Pueblo and Leadville. They had immense houses in Denver and was persuaded to play the second week, and in consequence were compelled to withdraw other engagements in order to get here on time. They come well recommended, and will no doubt give the Salt Lake Theatre goers a grand treat.

Returned.—Bishop F. A. Hammond, who left here on the 16th ult., to explore southeastern Utah, with a view to settling in the region of Bluff City, returned to-day without having reached his destination. From Durango the farthest point on the railway which he reached, the snow was so deep that he found it useless to attempt the remainder of the distance. However, his trip was not in vain, for he met many men who were well acquainted with the country he desired to visit, and obtained much valuable information concerning it. He comes back with a ruddy, weather-bronzed appearance, and seems favorably impressed with the country.

SUICIDE.

[SPECIAL TO THE NEWS.]

Silver City, Jan. 6, 1885.

Jerry Griffin shot and killed himself at Eureka this morning early. The ball entered the middle of his forehead and caused immediate death. He had been at work on the nigh shift, and told his companion at quitting time he was afraid to go home, as he feared people were trying to kill him. He did go home, however, and after getting there, took a pistol and shot himself. He has been looked upon as peculiar for some time, and has frequently told people that there were men after him, trying to kill him. He has two brothers at Butte, Montana.

THE SCHOOL TAX QUESTION.

JUDGE ZANE'S RULING FILED TO-DAY.

HE DECLARES THE PROCEEDINGS OF THE TRUSTEES REGULAR AND THE TAX VALID.

L. S. Stevens et al.
Isaac M. Waddell et al.

This is a bill for an injunction by L. S. Stevens and thirty-six other residents and taxpayers of the Seventh School District of Salt Lake County, against the trustees of school and the assessor and collector of that district and the county collector; praying that the assessment of a tax purporting to be for the purpose of building a school house in the district, be annulled, and that the defendants be perpetually enjoined from collecting the same. In view of the charges in the complaint, the investigation of evidence on the trial has necessarily taken a wide range. Among other things the allegations are that the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints dominates this Territory, with respect to political and educational matters; that according to its doctrines, the head of the Church and those in authority have a right to counsel and advise the action of its members in secular as well as spiritual matters; and that it is their duty to yield obedience to such counsel and advice; that the trustees of schools, or the majority of them in each district are members of this church, and in nearly all cases select teachers of their own faith; that in obedience to the counsel and advice of the church, they teach its doctrines and tenets, and that such has been and will be the case in the Seventh District; that because the complainants and other residents and tax payers of the district will not permit their children to be taught the Mormon religion, they are deprived of the benefits of the school. The effect of the allegations is that the law intended to provide a tax to support common schools, is being used to furnish funds to erect a sectarian school building. To use the law for such a purpose would be a fraud upon the taxpayer, and for that reason ought to be enjoined. It would also be a violation of the principle of the first amendment to the Constitution of the United States, which declares that "Congress shall make no law respecting an establishment of religion, or prohibiting the free exercise thereof." If Congress could not do this, it cannot delegate the power to the Territory. A tax for such a purpose would be a violation of the fundamental principles of free government, because the State consists of all of us, and it cannot settle all those controversies which have split mankind into innumerable sects; nor can it determine which one of those various creeds all shall support. In the presence of just laws all men possess equal rights; justice in its last analysis is equalness. The great end of municipal government is the protection of rights, and were it to use the taxing power, or permit it to be used, to extort money from one class of people in order to appropriate it to the support of the religion of another class, it would violate the rights it was intended to protect: it would trespass on that freedom which it was commissioned to guard—it would betray its trust. The allegations in the complaint with respect to the doctrines and tenets of the Church, and the claims of its head and others in authority, are substantially proven. And the weight of the evidence shows that as a general rule, though not in all cases, Mormons are employed to teach the public schools. But it does not show that sectarian instruction is given in such schools as a general rule—it does show that it is given in some.

While the evidence is conflicting as to the Seventh district, the weight is against the proposition that sectarian doctrines have been and are now taught therein. The evidence does not raise a sufficient probability that such doctrines will be taught in the house to be erected with the tax in question. The tax is in pursuance of a valid law, and the building is to be erected on a lot of ground, the title to which is in the school trustees. The evidence fails to show that the tax is being raised to build a sectarian school house.

A common school where needed is an object of taxation in which all have an interest, and which all must support. For the social forces affect each member of the social organization, and the causes that make society better benefit us all. The perfection of society depends upon the perfection of its units. The common school is a means of perfecting society. The education which it affords strengthens the mental and moral perceptions and adds weight to the obligations of duty; it cuts out the venom of superstition which vexes and torments humanity, and persecutes and tortures truth; it enlightens the mind, elevates it from groveling things and widens the field of thought.

If at any time hereafter it shall be made to appear that the house erected with this tax, or any other erected with a like tax within the jurisdiction of the court, is being used for Church purposes to the injury of the school, or that the school therein is being taught the creed of any sect, it will be the duty of the court to prevent by injunction such use and such instruction.

Another ground alleged for the injunction is that the notice of the meeting to equalize the assessment is insufficient, because the particular assessment is not described with sufficient certainty. The purpose of the meeting is stated to be to hear and determine complaints, if any, in regard to the assessment, valuation of any property in the district and to equalize and correct the same. The notice should be interpreted in the light of the circumstances under which the taxpayers must have read it. The trustees are described in the notice as school trustees; as such they could have no right to equalize any other than a school tax. And the evidence is that the tax in question was the only school tax assessed last year; therefore the notice could have referred to no other.

It is also claimed that the tax should be enjoined, because the law under which it is assessed authorizes the trustees to remit the taxes of any indigent person to any amount not exceeding five dollars on any assessment. If this provision was of no force, it is not so connected with the others as to vitiate them. Were any abatement to be made and the assessment of other taxpayers raised, it may be that they might decline to pay the increased amount; but the fact that certain needy persons are not required to pay it, does not authorize the Court to restrain the collection of the entire tax.

The complaint also alleges that the school in question is only partially supported by a public tax—that tuition is also exacted from its patrons, and that, therefore, it is not a common school. To the extent that it is supported by a public tax it is a public school. The patron might have just grounds of complaint because he is required to pay tuition, but the taxpayer as such should not complain because he is not required to pay more. This is a tax to build a house, and there is no sufficient evidence to show that a tuition fee will be charged when the school gets possession of it.

The prayer for a perpetual injunction is denied, and the temporary restraining order is dissolved and the bill is dismissed.

C. S. Zane, Judge.

Woman's Exponent.—The Exponent for January 1st, contains the usual quota of interesting matter. Its contents are: "The Christmas Gift," by A. J. Crocheron; "Christmas Day," by H. T. King; "Autobiography of Emily D. P. Young;" "Mormon Women," by Aunt Hannah; "The Dead Year," by Susannah J.; "Farewell of the Old Year," by F. W. B.; "Scenery of the D. & R. G.," by Wandering Boy; the Editorial entitled "Christmas;" "Home Affairs;" "Extracts and Remarks;" "Christmas in Berne," by A. W. C.; "Peace," by Ann Gell; "Another Testimony of the Gift of Healing;" "A Reverie," by Aunt Em; "A Well Dressed Woman;" Society Reports, etc.

Accidentally Shot.—Yesterday afternoon, at half-past one o'clock, while out hunting rabbits, on Cedar Mountain, about five miles north of Fillmore, Utah, Lon Huntsman was accidentally shot in the head by his companion William King. Doctor Pike, of Provo, was immediately telegraphed for, but the wound was of too severe a nature to admit of the young man living. He died at half-past eight last night. He was 23 years of age, and leaves a young wife.

TERRITORIAL ITEMS.

CULLED FROM LATEST EXCHANGES.

—Last Saturday W. W. Bolton, of Leadville, charged with robbing Anton Hankey of a gold watch worth sixty dollars, was taken before Judge Krell for examination. By some means the charge was reduced to petty larceny, and Bolton was given sixty days in the county jail.

—Mike McCarthy, night foreman of one of the mines near Leadville, had a narrow escape last Monday morning. He was engaged in adjusting some timbers in the shaft when the earth began to crumble and fall upon him, and the unfortunate man was buried before he could get out of the way. The miners hastened to extricate him, and when hoisted to the surface it was found that a broken arm was the only serious injury he had received.

—Last Saturday night a tramp was found drunk and nearly frozen, lying across the railroad track near Leadville. He was taken to a house and restoratives were successfully used. He gave the name of Henry Sebor, and said he was looking for work. It was lucky for him he was found, for if he had not been cut in two by a passing train he would certainly have been frozen to death before morning.

A Thief Captured.—Wm. H. Jones and John O'Reily, employees on the D. & R. G. were chums until last Saturday and had together been saving their earnings to go to California. They started on the day mentioned, but lay over one night at Grand Junction where O'Reily got drunk, and Jones, taking advantage of the situation, relieved him of about $200 in cash, and departed, leaving word that he would meet O'Reily in this city. The thief, however, went west, and the victim reported the occurrence to Captain Hawley, who immediately took measures to have Jones stopped. The latter was arrested in Nevada, and as no provision was made to pay for his return to Colorado, where the crime was committed, he got off by simply surrendering the $200, which was returned to its owner yesterday.

CORRESPONDENCE.

San Raphael, Emery County,
Dec. 31st, 1884.

Editor Deseret News:

Although we number but few—living 100 miles southeast of Salt Lake City—we passed a very pleasant Christmas. We were awakened before the break of day on the morning of the 25th, by the loud explosion of anvils and other small fire-arms. The far renowned Santa Claus found his way to our Mountain homes, and made glad the hearts of the little ones by his gifts of numerous toys, candies, nuts, etc. On the night of the 25th we had a nice supper and a dance, and enjoyed ourselves very much, in fact everything passed off very pleasantly.

We have had a very mild winter so far, raining at intervals and green vegetation is peeping up.

There are many acres of fertile land in the San Raphael Valleys. We have almost completed a canal which will irrigate several hundred acres. Persons desiring a good home would do well to visit this portion of country before settling elsewhere. They can purchase an interest in the canal at very reasonable figures. For any one wishing to see this country, the best route is through Spanish Fork cañon, thence through the mountains from Fairview, Sanpete County; or, by the way of Salina, Sevier County. The mineral resources in this portion of country we think, are very good.

Yours truly,
Thomas Tidwell.

Huntington, Emery County,
Utah, December 27th, 1884.

Editors Deseret News:

Thinking a few items from Huntington would not be amiss, I will say that the year 1884 has been a favorable one for this place and for the whole valley. Although the grain crop was not as good as it was in 1883, mostly on account of a great many thinking that late grain was the best, this year has proven that when put in during March is a safer crop than that sown in June.

A great many people have located in Huntington this year, and improvements have been made at a lively rate, so much so that a person that was here a year ago would hardly know the place now. Consequently real estate has in the past twelve months

MORE THAN DOUBLED IN VALUE.

We look for more improvements, and better ones, in houses and fencing, to be made in the coming year than ever before, as it has always been very hard to get lumber heretofore, it having to be hauled from forty to eighty miles, but there has lately been a steam saw mill put up in Huntington Cañon, that is expected to make all the lumber needed for building and fencing purposes for some time to come.

We have had and are going to have again immediately after New Year's taught by Brother Terry, who seems to be well qualified for teaching the young. Our Sunday School is also in a very flourishing condition, and I may say the same of all the other organizations of the Ward, namely: Seventies, Elders, Deacons and Y. M. M. I. Association; also Relief Society, Y. L. M. I. and Primary Associations.

A VERY GOOD DAY SCHOOL,

The Spirit of the Lord has shown itself and been with the authorities of this place, and with the Elders who have from time to time been called upon to address us in our Sabbath meetings, and I believe the people never felt better spiritually. Notwithstanding this, there has been lately, caused by sickness and death. For the past several weeks the weather has been very changeable—cold, warm and stormy; and as a consequence a great many children have been very sick, and the following deaths occurred: On the first of this month, Brother Chalk buried a little child; on the 18th, Brother Chris. Johnson buried a child; on the 23d, Bishop Chas. Pulsipher buried two children in one coffin, both having died the night before. One of them died through the effects of the epidemic that seemed to prevail among the children, the other from the effects of a scald it got through falling into a pot of boiling water. On the 24th Brother D. Washburn buried a child, and on the 26th Brother Clark Brinkerhoof buried one. As a consequence our Christmas festivities were of rather a gloomy nature. At the present writing those that are sick seem to be improving, and it is to be hoped that the hand of the destroyer is stayed. They were mostly young babes that died, and the people feel to say, especially those that have been called upon to part with their children, "Rather, thy will be done."

Wishing all Israel a merry Christmas and a happy New Year,
I remain, your respectfully,
W. H.
