Ephraim, Sanpete Co., Oct. 31.—Yesterday forenoon a fire broke out in the home of Rasmus Jensen, Jr. It started in the kitchen, where the stovepipe ran from the stove through the ceiling and the timber was so close to the pipe that it caught on fire. Fortunately it was discovered in time, and with the help of neighbors it was put out. Yesterday afternoon and night the public school teachers entertained the district school children of this city at the pavilion. An enjoyable time was had.

There was a time when housekeepers felt it necessary to keep half a dozen different kinds of soap on hand.

But that was before Ivory Soap was made.

Such a thing is no longer necessary; or desirable.

For the bath, for the toilet, for fine laundry purposes, Ivory Soap answers every requirement.

BUILDING COLLAPSING.

The building being constructed by Bent R. Hansen & Co. came to a sudden stop on Monday, when it was found that the walls of the cellar on the east side were weakening and had to be propped up to keep from falling in and letting down the whole east side. The work was done by contract, and it is thought the workman slighted his work. The wall of about 16 feet and basement wall are all being taken out, and as a result the building, which was to have been completed for occupancy by early winter, may not be in readiness before spring. The building is to be used for undertaking parlors.

DEATH OF DUDLEY LEAVITT.

Veteran and Pioneer Leaves Posterity Numbering 254.

Special Correspondence.

Bunkerville, Lincoln Co., Nev., Oct. 31.—

sketch at the age of 16 with his mother

24.—Dudley Leavitt, Sr., passed away at his home in Bunkerville Oct. 14, after an illness of eight days. The funeral was held Oct. 16, with a large attendance, despite the bad weather. Speakers were Bishop Abbott of Mesquite, ex-Bishop Bunker, Nephil Hunt and Bishop Joseph I. Earl, all of whom testified to the faithful life labors of the deceased, who had always been true to the faith, through a stormy life of trials, being always on the frontiers. He was born Aug. 31, 1830, at Haxley, lower Canada; was the fourth son of Jeremiah and Sarah Studevant Leavitt, who became members of the Church in 1837, at Kirtland, O. In 1840 the father died, which left the subject of this and four younger children to come to Utah as best they could. They arrived in Salt Lake City Aug. 31, 1850, later locating in Tooele, where he was called as a "minute man" to assist in guarding the families and properties of the saints from the hostility of the Indians. Aug. 31, 1853, he married Mary Hunt, man in Salt Lake City, and in 1855 was called to Dixie with his family to labor as a missionary among the Indians in company with Jacob Hamblin and others. On many occasions they met with very trying scenes, death often staring them in the face. At one time the Indians shot down and roasted his only horse, threatening to do the same with him and Ira Hatch, but before morning their hearts were softened and no harm was done them.

He has proved faithful through all the trials of the early settling of this western land, and rejoiced in a numerous posterity which consists of 49 children, 182 grandchildren and 23 great-grandchildren, nearly all of whom are following in his footsteps.

AUXILIARY CONVENTIONS.

Mutual Improvement and Primary Associations Hold Gatherings.

Special Correspondence.

Mesa, Arizona, Oct. 27.—The annual convention of the Y. L. and Y. M. M. I. A. has just concluded very interesting and instructive sessions.

The general board of the Y. L. M. I. A. was represented by Mrs. Emily C. Adams, and the Y. M. M. I. A. board by Edward H. Anderson. Separate officers' meetings were held at 10 a. m. and 2 p. m. Sunday.

Sunday night a joint session was held in the tabernacle, attended by the visitors, including Miss Maggie Hull, member of the board of the Primary associations, as well as the stake presidency, the bishops and stake officers and the greater part of the young people of the stake.

PRIMARY CONVENTION.

The Primary associations of the stake held their convention Sunday afternoon in the tabernacle, there being in attendance besides the stake and ward officers, President J. T. Losener of the stake presidency, Miss Maggie Hull, representing the general board, and a fairly large congregation of the children and parents of the Latter-day Saints.

A splendid program was rendered consisting of songs and recitations and exercises by the children, also addresses by the visitors.

On Monday morning the automobiles belonging to O. S. Stapley and Pomeroy Guthrie Realty company were placed at the service of the visitors and stake officers and a trip was made to Granite Reef, where the great diversion dam has been constructed to divert the flow of the Salt and Verde rivers to supply the great canals, one on the south side and the other on the north side of the river.

This dam is 1,000 feet long, with headgates and spillways all laid in solid cement, and capable of handling the water stored by the great Tonto dam. The return trip was made down the valley to Lehi, viewing by the way the remains of the old prehistoric canal, a part of which was utilized in constructing the Mesa canal by the early settlers, saving thousands of dollars in the construction.

RAILROAD NEWS.

T. C. Peck, general passenger agent of the Salt Lake Route, has been holding long and fearful sessions with the Clark road's operating department for the past year in an effort to get an annual dividend out of the Los Angeles Limited. Mr. Peck pleaded, threatened, argued and finally his persistence won out. Increasing travel westbound in the fall will be taken care of by good shape on and after Nov. 1 through the addition of a 12-wheel drawing-room sleeping car.

The new and third class sleeping car is limited to seven cars. But the concession obtained by Mr. Peck there will be plenty of accommodations for all. The new (and third) class will be attached to the Limited as planned. This train leaves Salt Lake for the coast every evening at 10 o'clock, and in eliminating the two necessitated upon the part of those who have been unable to get space on the Limited heretofore, means a saving of several hours.

Local offices of the Salt Lake Route report travel to the coast from and through the city on a steady increase. The limit placed on the Limited has been falling behind demands steadily and the addition of a sleeper is good news to the passenger boys as well as the traveling public generally. T. M. Sloan, assistant general freight agent of the Clark line, is in the city today, and reports freight traffic holding its own. Elections and campaigns see a general easing up and this fact is advanced by railroads as an item.

D. J. Patterson, Esq., architect and architect for associated lines generally, was in this city Saturday. He came from San Francisco to go over depot matters with the local building officials of the O. S. L. It was explained that the visit was made to go over various details of the changes are contemplated in the depot. The word given out: "The adopted plans will be carried out."

E. B. Boyd, assistant to the vice president of the Missouri Pacific, with headquarters at Chicago, and a big Gould man generally, was in Salt Lake for a few hours Saturday. Mr. Boyd went into conference with S. V. Derah, immediately upon arriving in the city and the two officials, accompanied by local Western Pacific officials, started out on a trip over the Western Pacific.

COUNCIL MAY NOT MEET.

Heat of Campaign May Prevent Members from Attending.

An effort is being made by some of the members of the city council to get enough members to the meeting tonight to make a quorum for the transaction of business, but from present appearances it is doubtful if this can be done. And why? Oh, politics. Politics permeates anything and everything. It is impossible to take two steps along the street without hearing, seeing, feeling and smelling politics. City councilmen, grave and revered senators, might be supposed to be above the turmoil and strife of ward politics, but are they? The session tonight, if it convenes at all, will last probably half an hour—long enough to authorize the payment of the half monthly city payroll; for if any city business is in urgent need of attention, as one of a great election it is that the city employees have their half monthly money. The mere matter of whether the year-old wooden bridge across Jordan should be supplanted with a modern, safe iron bridge, can go over to some future date; but the election—that must go off tonight, and naturally the council want to get in the game and see the fun.

Thus, for these and various other reasons, the city council may not meet tonight.

Probably the largest crowd that ever gathered at the Auditorium pavilion attended the big mask ball on Halloween night. While hundreds were on the floor the seats outside the enclosure were crowded with interested spectators. The big building was decorated with Japanese lanterns, Jack-o'-lanterns and hundreds of colored lights. Almost every conceivable character was represented by the dancers and the sight was a dazzling one.

The following were prize winners: Miss M. R. Donaldson, lady's best costume, first prize, silver toilet set; Mr. M. Phee, man's best costume, first prize, silver toilet set; Miss Belle Kale, lady's most novel costume, pair of shoes; G. L. Nay, man's most novel costume, silk umbrella. The usual concerts and dances will be given each night this week.

NEW INCORPORATIONS.

Schumacher is president of the company. H. Bradford, vice president, and Linna Schumacher, secretary and treasurer.

The Beehive Coal company of Hoytsville, Summit company, has filed articles of incorporation with the secretary of state. The capital stock of the company is fixed at $10,000, divided into shares of the value of 10 cents each. H. H. Wilson is named as president. John Sargent, vice president, and William A. Shepard, secretary and treasurer. The purpose of the company is to conduct a coal mining business in Summit county.

LEAP YEAR.

The somewhat elderly but still handsome and well-preserved bachelor had long been an admirer of the young lady, but never had dared to tell her so. At last, however, he mustered courage to do so.

"Miss Jessie, I wish I were 20 years younger."

"Why not?" she asked.

"Because then I should be bold enough perhaps to ask you to marry me."

With a charming smile she shook her head.

"It should have to tell you no, Mr. Baxter," she said. "If you were 20 years younger, you would be—or a great deal too young for me."

He took the hint—and a little later the young lady, too—Youth's common.
