SUES FOR HEAVY DAMAGES

Administrator Asks Big Compensation From Diamondville Coal Co. for Death of Miners.

Mercy Shown to Malicious Mischief Maker—Caine-Anderson Nuptials—Christmas Cheer to "Hello" Girls.

A suit on the result of which some twenty-five causes of action are involved, came up before Judge Rolapp yesterday afternoon. The action was entitled the Utah Savings and Trust company as administrator of the estate of Joel Lathi et al, against the Diamondville Coal and Coke company. This action is brought to secure damages in the sum of $15,000, alleged to be due for the accidental killing of Joel Lathi on February 25, 1901, at the coal mine of the defendant, causing the death of twenty-nine persons, that the fire was caused by negligence of the coal company.

The matter taken up yesterday for disposition was the demurrer of the plaintiff to the amended or supplemental answer of the defendant. The case was thoroughly gone into by the attorneys for both sides, who brought forth a great amount of law bearing on the action. Their arguments were very lengthy. Judge Rolapp took the matter under advisement until Saturday when he will render his decision.

CAINE-ANDERSON NUPTIALS.

Marriage license was granted to Charles W. Anderson, 35 and Miss Ida L. Caine, 39, both of Grand Junction, Colorado.

TELEPHONE GIRLS REMEMBERED

The eight telephone girls at the Ogden Telephone station, whose melodious voices ring out "hello" so many times each day, were not forgotten on Christmas by the business men of Ogden, who have cause to appreciate their kindness and sweet disposition. Those who remembered them are:

Ables & Rapp, one pound box of candy to each girl; Mr. Hill, the lineman, gave each one of them a box of candy; The porter of the Weber club gave a half pound box of candy to each; The McDonald Candy company sent each a one-pound box; R. B. Lewis sent each one two 3-pound boxes; Edgar Jones gave a one-pound box to each; Kuhn Brothers sent one 3-pound box of candy; The Elite Cafe sent, one 3-pound box of candy, and treated the two girls on duty at 6 p. m. to supper.

Cashier Hutchinson of the Pacific hotel sent a 1-pound box of candy to each girl.

MERCY TO MISCHIEF MAKER.

John Newman, the young man who was arrested Christmas eve on the charge of malicious mischief, was given a hearing in police court at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon. The testimony introduced went to show that he had got into bad company and became intoxicated and while in that condition smashed the door and windows in J. K. Gullihur's place of business, and caused a general disturbance in that neighborhood by his improper conduct. Other evidence introduced went to show that young Newman had never been arrested before, and was considered a comparatively good young man. These facts were taken into consideration by the court who suspended sentence during good behavior and on his promise to pay $25 damages for the repair of the windows and doors he had broken.

BRIEFS AND PERSONALS.

Jesse G. Stratford, one of Ogden's oldest and most efficient furniture men, has accepted a position with the Dinwoodey Furniture company of Salt Lake City.

Miss Jennie Walker, of Salt Lake, is spending a few days in Ogden with her sister.

Mrs. W. C. Camp has returned to Ogden from Anaconda, where she has been visiting.

About one hundred of the Ogden City and Weber county school teachers are in Salt Lake in attendance at the State Teachers' association.

Misses E. Schulte and L. Buckle, of Salt Lake, are visiting in Ogden for a few days.

The Colorado College Glee club will no doubt draw a large audience Saturday evening at the Congregational church. The club is composed of twenty-five fine musicians.

W. C. White, of Anaconda, superintendent of the Diamondville Coal mine, is in Ogden on business.

Miss Mary Breckenridge, who has been visiting in Ogden, has returned to her home in Kansas.

Miss Nellie Bennett of Ogden, is visiting in Salt Lake with friends.

Willard Snow, manager of the Ogden Furniture and Carpet company, was presented with an elegant gold chain and locket with a diamond by the employes.

DISTRICT COURT HEARINGS.

Fire Scare—County Infirmary Threatened — Wedding Bells.

Special Correspondence.

Provo, Utah Co., Dec. 27.—The following business was transacted in the Fourth district court yesterday:

Milton E. Price, et al. vs Mount Nebo Land and Irrigation company et al, defendants' motion to dissolve injunction granted on plaintiffs' supplemental complaint; an amended complaint was at once filed and on that complaint the motion to dissolve was denied. This gives plaintiffs 700 weir inches of water for thirty days in September and 300 inches for fifteen days thereafter for irrigating their meadow land and pasture.

Estate of George C. Young, deceased; Laura Y. Foote and John Foote appointed executors without bond; C. D. Glazier, Silas Allred and Willard Ward appointed appraisers.

State of Utah vs Francis Taylor; defendant entered a plea of not guilty to an information charging adultery.

Estate of Wm. Morgan, deceased; J. W. White, E. L. Thomas and George White appointed appraisers.

Estate of Peter H. Davis, deceased; Angeline Brimhall appointed administratrix, bond $75.

Estate of R. S. Hines, deceased; report of executor approved and $400 allowed executor on account of services.

A FIRE SCARE.

The fire bell startled the quiet of the city last evening about 6 o'clock in response to an alarm telephoned from the county infirmary to the effect that the building was on fire. Arrangements were made to send a large force of men out to accomplish what could be done by a bucket brigade to extinguish the fire, for there is no water of sufficient quantity to put out a fire near enough to the infirmary to be reached by the hose of the fire department. Fortunately the fire turned out to be nothing more serious than soot burning in the chimney, and this discovery was made and telephoned to Provo before the fire department and citizens had started. The lack of water, which has caused great inconvenience at the infirmary, promises now to be overcome. Two artesian wells have been driven in the field below the county road and it is intended to force the water up to the building with a ram. The attempts to drive artesian wells on the high ground near the building has been abandoned, on account of the pipe breaking in the rocky formation before a sufficient depth can be made.

LICENSES TO WED.

Marriage licenses have been issued to the following couples:

Samuel H. Hoggan, 23, and Cora A. Greenwood, 22, both of American Fork.

E. T. Haughney, 51, of Ouray, Colorado, and Mary F. Goforth, 41, of Cedar Rapids, Iowa.

Wm. L. Mathews, 30, and Lizzie Wilson, 37, both of Scofield.

Autna G. Johnson, 22, and Hannah J. Douglas, 27, both of Spanish Fork.

DEATH OF MRS. CARSON F. WELLS

Succumbs to a Brief Illness — The Poor are Remembered.

Special Correspondence.

Willard, Boxelder Co., Dec. 26.—Another sad death has occurred in our midst. Monday morning Sister Sarah Wells passed away, after an illness of about a month's duration. She was the wife of Elder Carson F. Wells, and leaves a family of four boys and three girls. She was a much respected member of the ward, and her untimely death (she being but 44 years of age) has caused deep sorrow to be felt by all who knew her, and the sympathy of the people goes out towards the bereaved husband and children. Her funeral services were held Tuesday afternoon and many kind and consoling words were spoken by Elders M. W. Dalton, Peter Lowe, D. C. Hubbard, A. Zundel and Counselor Cook. The cortege was a large one that accompanied her remains to the cemetery.

Our good Bishop and his counselors are doing the right thing among the poor and aged of the ward at this season of the year, by distributing coal, beef and many other things among them, so that their hearts, as well as ours, who are blessed with more, will rejoice, and be glad during the holidays now at hand.

VICTIM OF CROUP.

Little Son of Mr. Henry Hodson Dies Suddenly—Pigs Poisoned.

Special Correspondence.

Layton, Davis Co., Dec. 26.—Warren, the 18-months-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Hodson, died suddenly yesterday of membranous croup. The funeral was held today at 12 noon.

Mr. and Mrs. John Ekins returned on the 23rd inst, from Canada, where they had been visiting relatives. Their home coming was hastened by the serious illness of John Weaver, who is a brother of Mrs. Elkins's. Mr. Weaver, however, is much improved, and is now in a fair way to recovery.

C. W. Robins is charged with the offense of poisoning pigs that belonged to J. I. Adams. Mr. Robins will have a hearing in Justice Ellis' court next Saturday at 10 o'clock.

PRESTON, IDAHO.

Sunday School Entertainment — Married in Salt Lake Temple.

Special Correspondence.

Preston, Oneida Co., Idaho, Dec. 26.—The Sunday school children under the direction of Miss Nellie E. Thomas gave an interesting cantata Christmas eve. The proceeds of the entertainment are to be used for the benefit of the kindergarten department of the Sabbath school.

The health of the people is good at present. The ground is partially covered with snow.

On the 27th of last month Bryant C. Mecham and Miss Fenretta Thomas and Claude Hawks and Miss Alice A. Meikle were married in the Salt Lake Temple.

MINK CREEK, IDAHO.

SCHOOL CHILDREN'S BALL.

Crop Shortage — Successful Co-op. Creamery—Returned Missionaries.

Special Correspondence.

Mink Creek, Idaho, Dec. 24.—The teachers of the Mink Creek schools, Mr. and Mrs. George H. Fisher, closed their term's labors Friday afternoon, the 20th inst., by treating their pupils, one hundred and five in number, to a dance at the meeting house in the afternoon and furnishing each one with a neat little colored bag of "sweet-meats" as a token of esteem. A grand ball was also given the adults in the evening and immensely enjoyed by all present. The schools here are in excellent condition and well attended. They will commence again Monday, January 6.

CROP SHORTAGE.

The crops of this section of the country were far below the average this year, only about 7,000 bushels of grain being shipped out, while few potatoes more than required for local consumption were raised.

SUCCESSFUL CREAMERY.

The creamery promises to be a paying institution and a great benefit to the people. During the greater part of the past year it was owned and managed by Thatcher Bros. of Gentile valley, there being a little in excess of $3,000 dispensed among the ranchers during the season. The business has recently changed hands, being known now as "The People's Dairy company," and is under the able management of Mink Creek's "wide-awake" merchant and ex-state representative, Hon. Ephraim Peterson. The present company expects to increase the industry so as to distribute at least $8,000 among the people the ensuing year.

There was sufficient snow for fair sleighing from Sunday 15th to 22nd inst.

RETURNED MISSIONARIES.

The following named Elders of the Mink Creek ward have recently returned home from missions: Andrew Larsen, Illinois Conference; Wm. Bird Indiana; Neils Roholt, Denmark.

SHEEP FEEDING EXPERIMENT.

To Test Value of Grain on Range Muttons.

Fort Steele, Wyo., Dec. 25.—A band of 2,000 sheep, owned by Curry Bros., of this place, will be fed this winter by the Wyoming experiment station at Laramie. They will be fed on the range with different grains. These grains have already been contracted for and will be weighed out and their relative chemical values will be ascertained before feeding begins. The sheep will also be weighed before feeding begins, and again after the experiment has been completed.

If the sheep show marked gains in weight of flesh and weight and increased fineness of wool, large numbers will hereafter be fed in the same manner by the flockmasters of the state.

CLOSE CALL FOR ED. JAMES.

Attempted Murder During a Saloon Brawl.

Rock Springs, Wyo., Dec. 25.—Tuesday night, William Richards pulled a gun on Ed. James, during a quarrel in the Eagle saloon, and but for the action of James, who struck the gun just as it was discharged, he would have been killed or injured. As it was his fingers were powder-burned. Richards was arrested and fined for carrying concealed weapons. James refused to appear against him and no case for the state could be made out.

SUITED ROOSEVELT.

Why They Could Not Knock Out Old Pat Garrett.

President Roosevelt appointed a man after his own heart when he designated Patrick J. Garrett of Las Cruces, N. M., to be collector of customs at El Paso. There is probably not a man in New Mexico or western Texas—unless he is a disappointed applicant for the place—who will not applaud the choice. It has been nearly fifteen years since "Pat" Garrett, by the unerring aim of his six-shooter, put an end to such a carnival of lawlessness as that section of the country never encountered before or since. It was Garrett who killed "Billy, the Kid," scattered his band of murderers and cattle thieves and restored tranquility to the territory.

In those early days outlawry was triumphant, and "The Kid," the murderer of twenty-one men, was its recognized chieftain. Cattle thieving was the occupation of the band, which occasional raids upon towns by way of diversion. On both sides of the Rio Grande for hundreds of miles, from Albuquerque down into Texas and Old Mexico, "Billy" and his gang levied tribute. Among the native "greasers" and vicious whites who flee from civilization their allies were many. Occasional attempts to check "Billy" and his gang always resulted disastrously to those who tried it. When this lawlessness had become insufferable, General Lew Wallace, then governor of the territory, sent for "Pat" Garrett. He had been an officer of the law on the Texas frontier. No one else wanted the job, because marshals were "Billy's" favorite targets.

Garrett accepted the assignment, and his first act was an announcement to "all to whom those presents came, greeting," that he was going to kill "Billy, the Kid," who sent word to Garrett to have a six-foot-three coffin in readiness for his own funeral.

The story of Garrett's pursuit of "Billy" would fill a magazine. In fact, it has filled magazines. In the last chapter of "The Kid's" career he went to say goodby to a sweetheart before starting on a raid which he had planned. Garrett heard of it, went to the house and overpowered its occupants and lay in wait for the visitor. The house was in darkness, and as the outlaw's figure was silhouetted in the open door Garrett shot him through the heart. The instant in which the revolver flashed was, however, sufficient for "Billy" to draw his weapon and fire in the direction of the hidden enemy, for no "swifter man with a gun" ever terorized the southwest.

With their leader dead, the outlaws scattered, and New Mexico became peaceful and secure. Ten years ago there was an outbreak of lawlessness in Donna Ana county between the cattlemen and "rustlers," and Garrett was sent for and given the office of sheriff in order to restore order. The campaign was brief and the sheriff won it. Persons with an inclination for brigandage have a wholesome respect for "Pat" Garrett. He is a quiet, modest man, with a tall and gaunt figure. He is a Democrat, but has been elected sheriff many times on the Republican ticket. It is another one of the President's own appointments, and the most "strenuous" one of them all.—Kansas City Star.

SCIENTIFIC MISCELLANY.

Physique and predisposing conditions would mark the Jews as probably the most consumptive of European peoples. They are the shortest in stature and the most narrow-chested, they live mostly in towns, they are especially exposed to infection from second-hand clothing, they are weakened by consanguineous marriages, and they suffer from poverty, anxiety and persecution. Yet statistics in Europe, America and Australia show that the Jews are almost exempt from tuberculosis. How to account for this striking immunity is a problem of the greatest importance in the present war against this disease, but one whose solution is not easy. Lombroso explains that the Jews are exposed to the weather in their usual occupations. Dr. Maurice Fishberg, a late writer, accepts the view of Behrend that the careful selection of meat prescribed by the Jewish religion is the chief reason why they have no more consumption, but believes that abstinence from alcohol is a contributing cause.

As the five great scientific discoveries of the nineteenth century, Sir William Preece mentions—the principle of evolution; the atomic structure of matter; the existence of the ether and the undulatory theory of light; the principles of electromagnetic induction and electrolysis; and the principle of the conservation of energy. At the beginning of the twentieth century, the trend of research is to prove that the basis of all matter is fundamentally the same, the true atom being not yet reached. We want better warning of approach to land, and better communication between ships and shore, and the century will see great developments in this direction.

The blood corpuseles of animals are found by a Swiss biologist to vary enormously at different times. He concludes that life forces ebb and flow in daily and yearly periods from outside changes, and monthly from vital processes.

The new artificial stone industry of Germany is claimed to have important advantages over brick-making. The output is larger with a given investment, production can be continued throughout the year, and the stone is harder and stronger than brick. The ingredients are 4 to 6 per cent of lime and 94 to 96 per cent of sand. These are mixed and shaped into blocks, then placed in a boiler and exposed for ten hours to steam at a pressure of 120 to 150 pounds per square inch. Pressure and chemical action combined bring about a union of the calcium and silica, forming, it is stated, a much more flint-like compound than results from the hardening of mortar.

A summary of the British climate for 1900, as reported from 18 stations in all parts of the empire, shows that the hottest place was Adelaide with a shade temperature of 112.20 degrees on January 1, and a sun temperature of 170.50 degrees. The coldest place was Winnipeg, which registered 34.8 degrees below zero on February 9, and had a range for the year of 153.50. The highest temperatures of London (95.5 degrees on July 16) and Toronto (98 degrees on August 6) exceeded any before recorded. The greatest rainfall was 89.3 inches at Calcutta, and the least was 16.1 inches at Malta.

The solid matter deposited by a London fog has been found by Sir W. Thistleton-Dyer to reach 6 tons in a week on a single square mile. Injurious hydrocarbons were included, as well as soot.

Our senses are made unreliable by both normal and abnormal variations. Treating of fairies, apparitions, visions and hallucinations, Sir Lander Brunton lately pointed out the great differences in the acuteness of the senses, some persons seeing blue flames in the fire in winter, and some hearing the shrieks of bats and myriads of other sounds on summer evenings, while others perceive neither. Similarly, there are peopeople who feel what others do not feel. Apparitions are probably due to abnormal conditions of the apparatus for receiving impressions. The internal vessels of the brain may contract, like those outside, and thus give anaemia of parts of the brain, and consequent affections of vision, hearing, smell and taste. Psychologists conect epilepsy with the form of headache known as migraine. Migraine is often preceded by a vision of zigzags, and a troop of spirits in this form with which Dore illustrated the "inferno" suggests that both he and Dante suffered from this headache. Stories of fairies may be referred in part to visions. Hallucinations of sight glide naturally into hallucinations of hearing, and both into epileptic visions. To such vision the "koran" of Mohammed seems to have been due, and it is curious to speculate upon the changes in history a thorough dosing of the prophet with bromide of potassium might have wrought.

The fall of red dust that covered most of Europe a few months ago is proving unexpectedly useful. Meteorologists had proposed coloring parts of glaciers so that their movements might be more apparent, and the dust storm has supplied the desired colored stratum, and made it practicable to observe the movement and fracture of the glacial surface on a scale much grander than could have been attained by artificial means.

The blood pressure in lunatics has been measured by two French physiologists. They find a distinct connection between the blood pressure and mental troubles, and that there is also a change in the blood pressure corresponding to different states of mind in the same patient.

A COMMON TROUBLE.

Thousands Suffer From It Without Knowing Its Real Character.

No trouble is more common or more misunderstood than nervous dyspepsia. People having it think that their nerves are to blame, are surprised that they are not cured by nerve medicines and spring remedies; the real seat of the mischief is lost sight of; the stomach is the organ to be looked after.

Nervous dyspeptics often do not have any pain whatever in the stomach, nor perhaps any of the usual symptoms of stomach weakness. Nervous dyspepsia shows itself not in the stomach so much as in nearly every other organ; in some cases the heart palpitates and is irregular; in others, the kidneys are affected; in others, the bowels are troubled, with loss of flesh and appetite, with the accumulation of gas, sour risings and heartburn.

Mr. A. W. Sharper of No. 61 Prospect St., Indianapolis, Ind., writes as follows: "A motive of pure gratitude prompts me to write these few lines regarding the new and valuable medicine, Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets. I have been a sufferer from nervous dyspepsia for the last four years; have used various patent medicines and other remedies without any favorable result. They sometimes give temporary relief until the effects of the medicine wore off. I attributed this to my sedentary habits, being a bookkeeper with little physical exercise, but I am glad to state that the tablets have overcome all these obstacles, for I have gained in flesh, sleep better and am better in every way. The above is written not for notoriety, but is based on actual facts."

"Respectfully yours,
A. W. Sharper,
"61 Prospect St. Indianapolis, Ind."

It is safe to say that Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets will cure any stomach weakness or disease except cancer of the stomach. They cure sour stomach, gas, loss of flesh and appetite, sleeplessness, palpitation, heartburn, constipation and headaches.
