

CLIPPINGS.

—Bayard Taylor, the traveler, gave a course of four lectures before the Mercantile Library Association of San Francisco, for which they paid him $1,500.

—Fever and ague prevail to an alarming extent in the mining communities bordering on the plains, particularly about Placer and El Dorado counties.

—Putrid sore throat was prevailing in San Francisco. Scarlet fever had also made its appearance.

—The late earthquake in San Francisco not only shook the inhabitants, buildings, &c., in a manner not quite agreeable, in some instances cracking the latter from the foundation to the reef, but jolted a large frame building so badly that after resisting the influence of the shock for a day or two, it fell down.

—By an order which passed the Board of Supervisors, the San Francisco Railroad Company is authorized to construct three distinct lines of railroad, to run through the main traveled streets, from north to south, in traverse directions.

—The News, of Santa Cruz, Monterey county, states that the average yield of wheat on the Pajaro bottom lands is sixty bushels to the acre, but the profits to the producer are small.

—The Marysville Express says that Dr. Triezer, of that city, has a living rattlesnake which has been for twelve months without food, and although, as a general thing, it is inactive and lies motionless, yet at times it is very lively, and will not allow you to approach near without rattling away at a furious rate. The doctor has also what he calls a ground snake, which has been in his possession about five months, and has never tasted anything since he has had it.

—A London letter writer says that Charles Dickens is about worn out; fast breaking up. His cares, his troubles, his habits, and incessant labor to make both ends meet, have taxed his mental powers till they are breaking down. In his reading he looks like a decayed beau, a patched, painted, peruked he-dowager.

—The Empress Eugenie, it is stated, has just presented the dress worn by her on her first appearance at church, after the birth of the Prince Imperial, the embroidery of which cost 25,000fr., to the statue of the Virgin on the altar of Notre Dame de la Garde, at Marseilles.

—The inhabitants of Paris have recently presented the Empress Eugenie two superb vases of gold weighing 180 ounces. They contain flowers of gold, each flower emitting an odor similar to the natural one of the flowers which its form represents.

—There was a severe snow storm in the White Mountain district, New Hampshire, Sept. 28th, and the snow is a foot deep in some places above the ledge, on the path from the glen. The old residents say that never, since 1816 and 1817, has there been weather of equal severity at so early a period in the season.

—The ship nearest in size to the Great Eastern was built about thirty years ago. She was called the Baron of Renfrew, was six hundred feet long, and was composed of large logs clamped together in the roughest manner. It was predicted she would not steer, but she did, and crossed the Atlantic. She was nothing more than imported timber patched together to avoid the timber duty, and was broken up immediately on her arrival. The Government did not approve of the arrangement, and prevented a repetition of the experiment.

—An attempt at economy by one of the Rothschilds, is told in a French paper. Going to Paris he registered eight trunks at Metz, but only seven arrived. He was very anxious, telegraphed to Metz and learned that the eighth had been left behind on account of its excessive weight. In reply to a question, he said it contained a million twenty-franc pieces. The price of registering was at once augmented from 100 fr. to 625 fr., much to the capitalist's chagrin, though he got the valuable baggage.

—On the 13th of September the Bank of England had in circulation notes to the amount of $21,060,360.

—It is stated that the King of Sardinia contemplates conferring the Order of the Annunziata on those French Marshals who commanded in the late war. This Order is one of the oldest and most distinguished in Europe, and is generally accorded only to princes. There are in all, at present, only thirty four members. It gives the possessor of it the title of "Cousin to the King," and confer upon him the privilege of sitting near his Majesty in all official dinners at Court.

—The Russian Government has undertaken again the project of joining the Black Sea with the Caspian Sea by the Sea of Azof. The project has been entertained before and abandoned, but there is at present very strong prospects of its realization.

—A man in Milwaukee shot a wild cat within the city limits. Stretched at full length it measured five feet, while the actual length of its body was nearly three feet. It was very lank and poor, although possessed of great muscle, and was doubtless driven from its usual haunts by the pangs of hunger.

—The Augsburg Gazette calculates that, by account of the late war, a sum of £52,000,000 sterling was directly expended by the different Powers. France and Austria each figure for £20,000,000; Piedmont, £4,000,000; Germany, £5,000,000; Russia, £1,200,000; various Italian States, £800,000, and England, £880,000.

—At a meeting in Paris of the shareholders of the proposed Italian railway by the Simplon, it was stated that upon the completion of the proposed tunnel under the Simplon, the Alps, that formerly took 12 hours to pass, will be passed over in half an hour. In that short time the traveler will pass from the valley of the Rhone to the valley d'Ossola, and the Lake of Geneva will be only four hours from the Lago Maggiore.

—The experiment of lighting by gas manufactured from water, has recently been tried at Wilmington, Del., with apparently good success. The gas is made according to the patent of Prof. Sanders of Cincinnati, and is said to be very pure and brilliant, and much superior in color and strength of flame to that produced from coal, while its odor is rather agreeable than otherwise. Its cheapness is a great recommendation, as it can be furnished at a cost of from 30 to 50 cents per thousand feet, a clear saving of more than $2 on the current prices in New York. On the annual consumption of gas in Philadelphia, estimating it at 600,000,000 cubic feet, the saving would be $750,000; and allowing New York double that quantity, the saving to the public would be $1,800,000 per year. The gas is stated to possess 10 per cent. greater illuminating power than that made from coal.

—A case in which the sum of fifteen cents is involved, was recently brought before the Police court in Claremont, N.H., and after learned and able arguments on both sides, the case was decided against the plaintiff. An appeal was taken to the Supreme Judicial court. The action was brought to recover the value of braiding nine woodchuck skin whiplashes.

—Among the many reforms contemplated by the Emperor of Austria, is one which will place all forms of religious worship upon an equally free basis, removing all the restrictions placed upon Protestants and Protestantism. The number of Protestants in Austria is estimated at about three millions: two million two hundred thousand of whom are in Hungary, or about one-fourth of the people of the kingdom. This is a much larger number than is generally supposed to be there, and the reform will be hailed with delight by them.

TABERNACLE.

SUNDAY, NOV. 20, at 10 A.M., Elder W. G. Mills addressed the congregation, selecting, as a foundation for his discourse, the words contained in 1 John, 3 chap. the latter clause of the 8th verse:

"For this cause the Son of God was manifested, that he might destroy the works of the devil." He spoke of the elevating tendency of contemplating and understanding the wisdom and power of God as displayed in the works of creation around us and meditating on the designs and purposes of our Father in the creation, existence and salvation of the human family; that man were too prone in all ages to look at God and his purposes through narrow creeds and conceive that they alone are the favorites of heaven and that salvation is offered for their individual society alone; but that Jesus' atonement was so extensive and effectual, that wherever in creation among men, in death, the grave and hell, the works and influence of the devil or evil are felt and exercised, there would it be ultimately successful to destroy them. He then showed,

1st. What were the works of the devil:

2d. That God designed to destroy those works; and,

3d. The means appointed to destroy them.

He discoursed on the efficacy of the great sacrifice of Christ, the revelation of the gospel, and the salvation of the whole human family—Jew and Gentile, bond and free. That the wicked should hear and receive the gospel, if not in time they would in eternity. Showed the charitableness of our holy religion compared with the creeds of men; and exhorted the Saints to works of charity, liberality to all men, and by faith and humility work out their salvation which Christ had in his mercy purchased for all men.

At two o'clock, p.m., Elder Geo. D. Watt spoke of the present practical duties of the Saints. The glories of the future as shown by the gospel, and to be obtained by obedience; the universal atonement of Christ, and the designs of God in relation to the salvation of all men, were themes that inspired us to persevere in the path of life; and were calculated to show to the sinner his position and privileges; and that the only true riches were those of eternal life. While, however, we can view the curtain of futurity unfolded, and can anticipate its glories, we must not forget the present duties, temporal and spiritual, incumbent on us to perform; that the Saints must remember that to-day leads to to-morrow, and the duties of the present properly attended to have a bearing upon the future. He exhorted the Saints to be careful and economical; to seek to clothe themselves with the workmanship of their own hands, and to turn the products of our mountain home to our benefit. He felt happy in the religion he professed, and wished himself and others to walk in life so as to meet men and God without a blush of shame.

Elder Erastus Snow followed in the same strain and showed the danger of neglecting our home produce; and recklessly dispensing with our grain, corn, &c., for the gay trappings of life, and gew-gaws, ere we had secured to ourselves sufficient against any failure of crops, to which we in this region, and barren country are liable. Advised the saints to do all things for their comfort at home, and avoid all waste and uncleanness. That God would bless his people by attending to their necessities, and beautifying with our own labor and produce our persons and homes; and that we should be diligent in business, fervent in spirit, serving the Lord.

Married:

In this city, Oct. 29, 1859, by Pres. Brigham Young, Elder JOHN COULAM, Jr., of this city, and Miss SARAH JANE ORTON, of North Ogden.

[Millennial Star please copy.]

We join with those who have, ere this,
Expressed the heartfelt joy,
In wishing them eternal bliss—
A love that ne'er will cloy.

Died:

In Ogden city, on the 7th Nov. inst., of a scald, EMMA FRANCELLE, daughter of Wm. H. and Ellen S. McGary—aged 2 years and 6 months.

Like a fair flower blighted in the germ,
Thou wert smitten, fond one, in life's dawn;
How my sad aching heart for thee doth yearn
When that solemn thought tells "thou art gone."
Yet methinks with the pure and the blest thou dost dwell—
My innocent, beloved Emma Francelle.
