

UNION DEPOT UP ONCE MORE

Meeting of Geo. Gould and E. H. Harriman May Take Place In Salt Lake.

GOSSIPS DRAW CONCLUSIONS

Believed That One Station After All Will Serve Four Railroads Here As First Intended.

Is Salt Lake going to have two depots or one? For months and months after the Gould and Harriman systems selected Salt Lake as a strategic point and admitted they believed it to be the railroad center of the west this question was asked and reasked and never answered point blank. True Gould bought some ground and had it cleared and laid some track for freight cars to move and back over in bringing in material and carrying out dirt, but there has been no real construction work done. A hole has been dug which can hardly be termed a piece of excavation for after digging the company allowed it to fill with water and the weeds are high and rank on the depot site. Now the light is beginning to break on some people. The appeal made by Gould for assistance from Harriman begins to make certain people sit up and take notice for it now looks like a big get-together scheme. Gould has had trouble with his railroads because of financing. His systems have been pegging along with less equipment than needed and what he had was not up-to-date. Harriman is vitally interested for it may mean great change from announced plans for this city. The Harriman depot may serve four railroads and if this is to be, Salt Lake will have one of the most elegant depots in the United States. The Gould depot site can be used for Rio Grande yards. And with Harriman having a word to say in Gould matters the appointment of officials for the Western Pacific is going to be thrown in doubt. The whole railroad history of the west is going to receive a jolt and a jar but not necessarily for bad. In fact, Harriman makes a railroad out of almost everything he takes under his magic spell, perhaps for better. Salt Lake may be the scene of a meeting between Gould and Harriman for the two magnates are both bound for the west and both are certain to come to this city and in all probability, together. Small wonder Salt Lake is on tip-toe with expectancy.

TRANSCONTINENTAL RATES.
San Francisco, Aug. 1.—The Santa Fe and Southern Pacific roads have begun the printing of their transcontinental freight rates as ordered and will have them ready to go in force Nov. 1. Officials of the roads explain that these rates will make the charge on hauling goods consigned to the coast as the same for the trip to the coast as that on goods consigned to Pacific coast points. Goods inbound from the coast, however, will go east from the coast at a lower rate than that paid by domestic shippers using the railroads only as there can be no question of the discrimination of rates raised. Steamship company officials say that in order to hold the Asiatic trade they must have the power to work with the railroads in cutting rates. Without this, and with the railroads taking a fixed charge on all freight from the coast, they declare that they cannot meet the competition of foreign steamers.

PAYMENT DEFERRED.
Chicago, Aug. 1.—Payment of interest due today on the first mortgage bonds of the Southern Indiana Railway has been deferred. The amount needed to meet this obligation is $150,000. The notices of the default in the interest payments state that owing to the general depression in railroad business during the last six months which has been especially severe on coal carrying roads, the Southern Indiana Railway company is compelled to defer payment of the interest. Aug. 1, 1908, on its first mortgage bonds.

MORE PROBING DUE.
Government About to Go Into Railroad Combinations and Cliques.
Los Angeles, Cal., Aug. 1.—That the government intends to include southern California in its projected investigation of railroad combinations is inferred from the sudden call received by R. B. Duncan, special agent of the attorney general, to return at once from here to Washington. Duncan has spent several months here gathering evidence of alleged rebating on the part of the Southern Pacific, Santa Fe and the Salt Lake roads. It is understood that a report has been in the possession of the department of justice for some time concerning Harriman's control of the Salt Lake road and his interests in the Santa Fe.

"AFTER FORTY YEARS."
San Francisco, Aug. 1.—Major J. M. Hanford, of the Southern Pacific Railroad company, has tendered his resignation to take effect Aug. 4, on which date he will have completed his forty year of service in the company's employ. His action is entirely voluntary.

O. S. L. IN IDAHO.
The Oregon Short Line is planning to build at some future but undecided date, a three mile extension from Mackay to the dam to eliminate wagon haul from Mackay to the dam. All materials are now handled by wagon—a slow and expensive process. Rumor has it that the Mackay branch will be extended to the Salmon river eventually.

Anthony is wondering what 23 surveyors are doing in that territory. The surveyors will not tell but it is rumored that the Northwestern has got hold of some woods from which ties are to be obtained. This forest is south of the national park and rumor has it that a force of 300 men will be making the chips fly before long. It is also reported a force is at work cutting the along the Buffalo river—all of which is taken to mean that extension work is being planned by the C. & N. W. on a rush order.

SPIKE AND RAIL.
Traveling passenger agent of the Rio Grande, Harry Cushing, is home from Denver.

It is pointed out that a traffic agreement between Harriman and Gould arising from the Lake Erie & Wheeling note would be of benefit to both magnates as the Wheeling would give Harriman an entrance into Pittsburgh and for his Harriman would let Gould have an entrance into New York over the Erie system. That this agreement has been reached may be expected.

R. S. Lovett, head of the Harriman legal force was in this city yesterday en route to headquarters in the east. Mr. Lovett and family would let Gould have an entrance into New York over the Erie system. That this agreement has been reached may be expected.

J. H. Burner, district freight and passenger agent of the Salt Lake Route is home from a trip to Juab where he went to look over oil conditions there. Prospects for a strike in the well down 20 feet were good as the drill was going through a soft shale when Mr. Burner was there.

The Rawhide-Western railroad being built from Schurz to Rawhide is almost in the latter camp and is being completed in fast shape. It will be ready for service by Oct. 1. Schurz is a station on the main line of the Nevada & California line and about 30 miles in a northeasterly direction from Rawhide.

DRUNK FOULS FLY PAPER.

Unrehearsed Comedy Turn on First South to Appreciative Audience.

A drunken man came ambling, rambling, shambling along west First South street this morning, with just equilibrium enough left to keep on a tolerably level keel. In the center of the sidewalk lay a sheet of "tanglefoot" flypaper "battered side up." As a matter of course the "drunk gentleman" in "put his foot in it" or rather, in "stepped on it." He fell on it, and the sticky paper kept even pace with him along the sidewalk. The man was too drunk to reach down and tear off the flypaper, so he wiggled and wriggled along as best he could, and finally, bracing up against a building, managed to get his hand on the flypaper. The paper remained stuck to his hand, and then got on to his clothes, while a good sized crowd managed to get a good deal of enjoyment out of the affair. The drunk and his flypaper finally disappeared up street, apparently inseparable.

GROWING ALL THE TIME.

Stork Brings About Ten Packages a Day During the Week.

In the matter of births, the reports for the city, for the week ending today, showed that males predominated by only one, the figures being, males 31, females 30. Other items of the weekly report are as follows: There were reported during the week 19 cases of contagious and infectious diseases, consisting of three cases of smallpox, one case of scarlet fever, two cases of diphtheria, nine cases of whooping cough, one case of measles and three cases of typhoid fever. Three houses account of smallpox, five houses account of scarlet fever and six houses account of diphtheria remain in quarantine at the ending of the week.

MURRAY BOUND OVER.

James Murray, charged with burglary in the third degree, was given a preliminary hearing this morning before Judge Diehl. He was held to answer to the district court but was released on his own recognizance as the case against him is rather weak and there is little probability that an information will be filed against him by the district attorney. Murray is accused of entering a room in the Empire roominghouse and trying to steal a pair of trousers from a roomer. He was not identified by the prosecution and there is considerable doubt as to whether the police got the right man.

COURT NEWS.

JEWELS RECOVERED.

Former Captain of Police J. B. Burdette, and former Officer Jim Taylor, two men removed by the so-called "American" party bosses "for the good of the service," are highly elated today by the recovery of about $800 worth of jewelry stolen from Mrs. F. J. Quareau, who was stopping at the Cullen. The jewels were stolen by a boy named Pennell, who shipped them to Toledo, O. The property was located there by Burdette and Taylor of the Intermountain Detective agency, and this morning the valuables were received by them through registered mail.

The property consisted of a diamond ring, a diamond and pearl pin and a ruby. They will be sent to Mrs. Quareau, who is now in San Francisco. Young Pennell was arrested by Capt. Burdette and lodged in jail on the charge of vagrancy. He confessed to the theft and told the detectives where the property could be located.

TIME IN HIS FAVOR.

Ike Wright, an old time offender, who has occupied a seat on the mourners' bench in the police court many times, faced Judge Diehl again this morning on the charge of drunkenness. He explained that he had not been there before for four or five months, and upon promise to "make it longer" was discharged.

SPEEDY JUSTICE.

An instance of the short disposition of a case was witnessed in the district court today when the district attorney's petition was filed for the appointment of a guardian ad litem for Frank E. Holladay, a minor, and almost immediately thereafter an order was signed by Judge Diehl appointing Mary A. Holladay, his mother, as guardian. Then a complaint was filed against the Rio Grande Western Railway company, asking for damages in the sum of $150 for negligence which resulted in physical disability to Franklin E. Holladay, nine years of age. It was alleged that plaintiff, who had a broken arm, was riding on defendant's line, and was carried a distance of two miles beyond his destination and had to walk said two miles late at night, from which exposure he suffered the disability of which he now complains. Answered, denying most of the allegations, but afterwards offered to compromise, which was accepted. The papers already mentioned were added to the petition for authority to compromise, an order of the court authorizing a compromise, and a stipulation for judgment in the sum of $150, with costs of suit added, all of which took place within one sitting of the court.
