LOCAL BRIEFS.

The recovery of Charles Stringfellow, the young man who fell into an elevator shaft, is now said to be assured.

There is a loud growl against the street department from drivers who pass the intersection of Second East and First South streets, as owing to a sudden depression in the street people are thrown from vehicles into the roadway.

The Real Estate men, at their first annual meeting yesterday afternoon, chose these officers for the ensuing year: President, J. W. Houghton; secretary and treasurer, A. Richter; the above with W. G. Tuttle, W. J. Halloran and J. Donnan Reavis to constitute the board of governors.

The Utah World's Fair commission has received word that the Utah building is ready to be turned over to the state by the contractors. The commission is also notified that the first permit to enter the general agricultural building at the great fair will be given to Utah. There has been quite a rivalry as to who should be awarded this honor first.

Mrs. J. A. Hale died yesterday, at the residence of her son, Fred A. Hale, 318 First street, at the age of 72. The deceased belonged to one of the old Dutch families of New York, and removed with her husband in 1849 to Colorado. She was a devoted mother and a devoted wife. Her husband has been in poor health for some years. The funeral services were held at 2 p. m. today, from the residence.

The Independent Telephone company established a record yesterday, when in seven hours and 40 minutes, 14,919 feet of 200-pair cable was laid by nine men. The best previous record was at St. Louis in 1898, when 7,556 feet of 120-pair cable was laid in eight hours and 30 minutes. The cable was stretched by a gasoline hoist which Chief Engineer Hall says is the best method of stretching cable known.

The Elks entertained over 700 guests last night in their lodge hall, where five large tables were spread and filled several times, and the fare was done simple justice to. Then followed a vaudeville entertainment, with Capt. L. M. Barratt as master of ceremonies, ably aided and abetted by Fisher S. Harris, and John D. Murphy, Frank M. Kelly and E. P. Gayer of the "Hollo Hullo" company, and Messrs. Wilson, Henry, Geyer and Baker of the local variety theaters. The entire program went off without a hitch, and the entertainment was voted a big success.

Street car No. 4 ran into a coal cart on south West Temple street late yesterday afternoon, smashing a wheel and throwing the driver, John C. Smith, into the street. Smith thought the cart suddenly had come to resemble a map of the Philippine islands for a minute, but presently recovered his bearings, and handed over to the motorman a large and jagged piece of his mind. The car vestibule was badly bunched up, and the motorman demoralized, but aside from this no damage was done.

MARKED WISDOM OF COUNCILMEN.

Brought About Settlement of Controversy by Flip of a Coin.

CHEAPER THAN A LAWSUIT.

Trouble Was Over a Horse That Had Wandered into the Estray Pound—Big Money for Dr. Benedict.

The city council committee on markets has devised a new plan for settling controversies arising between petitioners who appear before the committee. It has resorted to the custom of flipping a coin to determine which is right. This custom was pressed into service last night by the committee for perhaps the first time in the history of the council. The trouble arose over a horse which had been lost by its owner and taken into the estray pound by Poundkeeper Gates, who, after keeping it the customary time, purchased it from the city.

GOT HORSE ON TRIAL.
C. E. Bennett and F. M. Houghton got the horse in question from Mr. McCoy on trial on June 25, 1903. Several days later the horse either broke loose or was stolen. A search was made for it but without result. The animal was taken into the pound on Dec. 20, but it was not until Jan. 15 that Mr. Houghton learned where the horse was. He then demanded it from Mr. Gates, who refused to give it up unless Houghton paid him $5, which he paid the city for it, and $4 for its feed. Mr. Houghton refused to pay the amount claimed. He then petitioned the city council for the return of the horse. At the committee meeting last night Houghton offered Gates $11 for his claim on the horse, but Gates held out for $15. So it was finally decided to flip a coin to see which amount Houghton should pay. He won, so $11 only have to pay $11 to recover his horse.

BIG MONEY FOR BENEDICT.
The finance committee decided to recommend the payment of Dr. Benedict's bill for $75 for services rendered to Patrolman Horace Heath, who was injured last February in a fight with three robbers. Another bill of the doctor's amounting to $169 for services rendered to city prisoners was also allowed after considerable discussion. It was contended by some members of the committee that the cases should have been attended to by the city physician, but it was stated that he could not be found when wanted. One of the councilmen was in favor of deducting the amount of the bill from the city physician's salary. It was finally decided to place the amount on the appropriation list to Dr. Benedict's credit.

EDUCATORS WILL MEET.

State Board and County Teachers to Assemble Saturday.

During the next two weeks four meetings in the interest of education will be held in Salt Lake. Two of them on next Saturday. One by the state board of education, which will convene in the office of State Superintendent Nelson at 10 a. m. This is a special session called for the purpose of acting on the educational display at the world's fair. The meeting will also include an awarding of diplomas and certificates.

At 10 o'clock Saturday morning in the L. D. S. university building, the county teachers will hold an institute, which will continue till late in the afternoon. The meeting will be addressed by City Superintendent D. H. Christensen.

On Tuesday, Feb. 2, there will be an oral examination of all the county schools given for the benefit of the parents and members of the boards of trustees. Each class in the different schools will be examined orally by the judges present an idea as to how the pupils are progressing.

Friday and Saturday, Feb. 5 and 6, county superintendents from throughout the state will meet in this city. Salt Lake City and county teachers have been invited to meet with them. They will be addressed during their two days' session by Judge W. H. King and Rev. E. I. Goshen.

FROM PENROSE, UTAH.

Word Concerning Missing Man, Now Dead, from That Town.

Friendship, Mo., Jan. 27.—After more than 30 years the mystery surrounding the sudden and unexplained disappearance of George Geyer, a prosperous young man of this town, has been partially cleared up by the receipt of a letter from George Gibson of Penrose, Utah, announcing Geyer's death in California.

The letter, which was received by Postmaster Colburn, gave no details, merely saying that Geyer, who was married, died of a heart attack. He had recently died in California, leaving considerable property, and asking if he had any relatives in Friendship.

A brother and sister of Geyer, who live here, and a brother in Somerville, Minn., have communicated with Mr. Gibson. Soon after Geyer's disappearance from Friendship in 1871 the isolated body of a man was found near the town. The authorities and Geyer's relatives decided that he had been murdered and that the body was his.

OLD SALARIES IN FORCE.

City Attorney Dot Holds That Present Officers Do Not Get Increased Pay.

City Atty. C. C. Dey has rendered an opinion in connection with the much-debated salary question. According to the opinion the old salaries are in force and the present officers do not profit by the new ordinance, in fact only certain clerks and employees are affected. The opinion which was sought by City Auditor C. B. Peit, who was in doubt as to just how the salary warrants for the first month of the new administration should be drawn, is as follows:

"In reply to your favor of the 20th inst., asking 'can this office legally issue warrants to the present city officers, deputies and clerks, in accordance with the salaries fixed by ordinance in December, 1903, on condition that section 225, revised statutes, which applies to 'all officers of any city,' and inasmuch as the state supreme court in at least three cases, on condition that section, has said: 'There is no ambiguity in the language used, it is plain that the intention of the Legislature was to prohibit any change of the salary of a city officer, after his election or appointment, to take effect during the time for which he was elected or appointed."

"By this law you are governed. All officers elected or appointed prior to Dec. 28, 1903, the date the revised ordinances went into effect, are to receive the salary in force at the time of their election or appointment, and all officers elected or appointed on or subsequent to Dec. 28, 1903, are entitled to the compensation prescribed by the revised ordinances."

"As noted, section 225, revised statutes, applies only to 'all officers.' This brings us to the further question as to the rule applicable to distinguished officers from simple servants or employees. In general any person whose duty it is to perform an agency for the city is a city officer. All deputies of city officers, stenographers are not; and should the question arise as to clerks of boards and other doubtful positions in respect to this question, I would like to be advised before venturing an opinion."

WOMAN SUFFRAGE MEETING

Annual Convention of the Association To Be Held Next Month.

The Thirty-sixth annual convention of the National American Woman Suffrage association will be held in National Rifles' Armory hall, Washington, D. C. February 11 to 17 inclusive. A program of unusual interest has been prepared consisting of an evening with the national officers, one with philanthropists and one with socialists when men and women foremost along these various lines of thought will be heard.

There will be an afternoon and evening devoted to Colorado speakers. Mrs. E. L. Merrieth of Colorado, one of the cleverest newspaper women in the United States, will respond to a question box, when opportunity will be given to all present to ask any questions they may desire concerning the operation of woman suffrage in Colorado.

Woman suffrage has been tried for ten years in Colorado, and some of the state's most eminent citizens are coming to Washington to this convention to tell how it has worked.

Congressional hearings will be given woman suffrage on the morning of the 14th.

On Monday afternoon at 2:30 there will be a reception to the delegates at the White House by President and Mrs. Roosevelt, and at 4 o'clock on the same day the delegates will be received by Miss Clara Barton, at her own home. Miss Barton has a large collection of medals and flags which have been presented to her for her services by many nations which will make a visit to her home of special interest.

The hotel headquarters will be the Shoreham.

SOME SUGGESTIONS

As to How to Preserve the Public Domain for the People.

Special Correspondence.
Pleasant Grove, Jan. 22.—A great deal has been said and written of late in regard to preserving the timber, but very little in favor of the range in this western country. In this Rocky mountain region there is only about 1 per cent of all the country fit for anything but range, for there is very little timber on it, although I believe what there is ought to be preserved. But what about the range? It was said in an address before the livestock convention at Portland some time ago, that it is best to sell the land, range and all of course, to rich men, as no others can afford to buy land for range purposes. But what about the poor man who has a small bunch of sheep or stock, and of course not able to buy range? According to the above idea he would have to sell his livestock and go to work for men who own the soil. By following this plan it would mean that the livestock of the poor man would be owned by a few rich men to the detriment of the great majority of the people. On the other hand, would it be to the detriment of the range if the land were sold to the range? No, for if so it would only be a question of time before it would be trampled out and destroyed. According to Jessie M. Smith's reasoning before the livestock convention, the best way to preserve the range is to have it owned by the people. Let us see: Two years ago some of the men of the livestock convention, including their sheep to tramp out their own range, came north to Wasatch county and would have helped do the same for the people in the section had it not been for the forest reserve plan, for the Indian reservation covers a great portion of the range in Wasatch county outside of the Indian reservation. I want to state right here that it is a well known fact that sheepmen only get the range for the timber reserves, still they are of great benefit to the sheep and stockmen in the range. If the government is to preserve not only the timber but the range also, it should have the range sold to the people, and the sheep and stockmen should be allowed to sell or lease, or give to any state or railroad company, or any other company or individual, and let them have their private benefit, the country would have been a great deal better off today.

If the government had sold the range to a state with funds for schools or any other purpose, let it give her money and keep the land for the people. For instance, here in Utah the Indian reservation has been about to be thrown open, and it is right. This great country has been held too long by the savages to turn over but it is to be gobbled up by a few rich men better let the Indians keep it. No, for if the government had sold the range to the people, the Indians would have their share of the range, and the range would be better off. Let only the homestead right prevail; then the rest to be taken care of by the government. As there is some good timber on it, let our western desert remain as it is, as only sheep can winter on it successfully. Horns and horses should be fed in winter in this country.

If, as proposed, if this plan is adopted, the government to say how and where individuals should graze their herds in summer, meat could be taken to town, and the rest of their herd somewhat and keep a better grade of sheep. The farmer doesn't pretend to increase the number of his acres every year, but he improves the quality of his soil by cultivation and care. Let the sheep and stockmen do likewise, and all will be well. If the government would adopt this plan in regard to the range for sheep and cattle men would cease. Along the other plan, let the state sell all the range and the stock and sheep industry would practically be ruined.
