Tanner Holds That the Proposed Act Measure Prohibiting the Use of Trading Stamps Promptly Slaughtered Without Further Ado,

Whitney's Senate joint memorial for universal suffrage throughout the Unit. ed States, without respect to sex, was the first business of any importance that came up in the House this morning. An attempt was made to tide it over as a special order for Monday; but the sentiment of the House was in favor of immediate action, and the memorial was passed by a vote of 23 to 16-a bare majority of the members elected. Hewlett's bill to prohibit trading stamps was reported unfavorably and killed without future ado. House bill No. 235, by the committee in highways and bridges, was introduced after a protest by Mr. Smith that two-thirds vote had not been obtained. The vote was obtained and the bill introduced. It is a substitute for all the other House bills introduced on highways and bridges, and calls for a total of appropriations of $44,650. Under suspension of the rules the bill was put through its second reading so that it might be referred to the committee on revenue and appropriations. But little interest seemed to be taken in the reading of the bill, which was merely an itemized statement of the various county expenses for roads and bridges. When the clerk had read about one-fourth of the bill Mr. Smithmoved that further reading of the bill be dispensed with. The motion was voted down and the reading proceeded with, while the House again converted itself into a conversazione. Under suspension of the rules the bill was next placed on final passage after the adoption of the amendments, one by Stuart for $1,000 for repairing the road from the smelters to the mines in Little Cottonwood, and the other by Axton for $750 for the building of a road through City Creek and Hard Scrabble canyons, uniting Salt Lake and Morgan counties. Mohr's amendment, calling for $2,000 for the building of a road for the transportation of ore from Moab and Grand county to the Colorado State line, provided that the Lasalle Copper company give guarantee that it will build a road that would protect the jobber against the dishonest retailer he would support it, but he thought the law would work a hardship on the honest retailer. He also thought that it would injure the credit of the State, when it went out that such a law had to be passed. I would support the measure if it applied only to the insolvent ratailer." Senator Love took issue with Senator Thomas, in regard to the latter's fears concerning the havic the bill would play Love said that every jobber in the country supported the bill, as did also the Credit Men's association, which was made up by representatives from jobbing houses, and as soon as they would learn that Utah had passed such a law, it would strengthen the credit of the State. Senator Howell did not think the bill should pass. He said that in substance it places a chattel mortgage on the stock of every retailer in the State. The stock of every retailer in the State. The jobbers, further urged Senatof Howeil, should bear the responsibility of in-quiring into the business condition of those they deal with. Senator Tanner also opposed the bill, taking the ground that the commercial agency obviated the necessity of its passage, and further, it would not prevent the dishonest retailer from taking advantage of the jobber if he felt so disposed. It would be just as useful to try to pass a bill preventing murder. Senator Allison said that the bill should properly be entitled "A bill to decrease the business of lawyers, as it would certainly very materially do it." But he affirmed that it was a good bill. It would be just as reasonable to say that there should be no law against larceny, because most people are hon-est. Laws, said he, are made for the few who are dishonest. Senator Allison went on to make a legal argument in favor of the measure It seemed imminent that action on the bill would be deferred for a day or two. when it was announced that Senators Klesel and Barnes were on their way to the chamber, having been detained. When they arrived they both announced themselves in favor of the bill. The vote was taken on the motion to strike out the enacting clause and was lost. The vote on the passage of the bill was immediately taken, and strangely enough the measure was killed for the need of one vote. Senator Lawrence then gave notice of a reconsideration.

Frederick W. Schoenfeld, bishop of the Brighton ward, was next called on to make a report of his ward. He stat-ed that conditions in his ward were similar to those in the ward just repre-sented. The people of his ward, he said, were much scattered, but still they had their labors so organized that the people were brought together. They are all united in their efforts in doing good and for the advancement of the good and for the advancement of the Bishop Robert T, Burton was the next speaker who spoke of the neces-sity of members in the Church on re-moving from one ward to another to take a recommend with them. He also made reference to the collection of fast offerings and said there should be an awakening among the different stakes in this duty: that the people might receive the benefits of paying this offer-

Senator Thomas moved to strike out Apostle Cowley was the closing speaker and made a few remarks en-dorsing what had been said regarding the importance of taking recommends ed by Senator Smoot. The motion was when leaving one ward to go into an-other. He also dwelt upon the principle the author of the bill. He contended that it would improve the credit of the of paying tithing and said he felt that the Latter-day Saints had, as a whole, State in the East, and that many of very generously come up to the call made by President Snow. The people, the States have a similar law. The bill, he said, could not enjoy the blessings that follow the keeping of this law except they lived up to this principle to the very letter. The Saints have been blessed in their ob-servance of this law, he said and would be blessed in their obber and manufacturer in Salt Lake and Ogden. It would prevent the fraudulent sale of stock, which now occurs eral instances where stock had been be blessed more abundantly in the future by obeying the same. After singing the hymn "On purchased and it afterwards developed

The bill recommends a salary of each commissioner of $1,200, with $1,500 for the secretary. The Senite amended these figures to $1,000 and $1.800. In the House the original figures restored to the bill in compliance with the recommendation with the House committee, and the bill thus passed by a vote of 28 to 2. The enacting clauses of House bills Nos. 10 and 20 were stricken out, two of Glasmann's original tax bills, for which substitutes have been passed in the House.

It was then discovered that 28 ayes were not sufficient to pass Senate bill No. 73, which has an emergency clause, and on motion of Mr. Van Horne the vote was reconsidered. Mr. Wells took the opportunity to move as an amend ment that the secretary's salary be raised to$1,800. Kelly, Hatch and others objected. D. C. Johnson explained that the bill as it had just been voted on left the salaries of the commissioners and secretary as they had always be since there was a state land board. Mr Page was in favor of a raise. He thought that it was inconsistent in members who had voted for raises of thousands of dollars in the salaries of state officers recently to vote against that for a paltry $300. He thought it ould hardly be because the present in cumbent was a Democrat and sought re-election. The amendment for the $1,800 salary was voted down, and the went over as unfinished business

FISH AND GAME BILL.

The joint committee on fish and game reported unfavorably on Senator Allison's famous fish and game bill. No. 17, and offered a substitute bill No, 118, and recommended that it be passed. Senator Smoot, who is the Senate chair. man of the committee served n tice that he had another substitute bill to offer, and moved that the report be made the special order for Monday night. The salaries committee reported favorably on House bill 63, providing for the mileage of district judges and attorneys.

Senate bill 87, a measure calculated to clear up the ambiguities that appear in the present law relative to parties in civil actions, was passed,

EXTEND SHERIFF'S TERMS

By unanimous consent Senator Smoot was permitted to introduce Senate bil 119. The measure provides for the elec. tion of county sheriff's for four-year terms instead of two.

A discussion was awakened in the chamber when Senate bill 72, providing for the payment of necessary and ac tual expenses to district judges came up for its second reading. Ser Johnson moved that House bill 63, Senator viding for mileage for the district judges be substituted for the Senate bill, Senater Allison opposed the motion. He said that he was absolutely against mileage. If the judges ride on the rail-roads on passes the State should re-ceive the benefit of it. Smoot suggested that the mileage system was inequita-ble, because in some cases it did not cover the expenses of the judges, while in other cases it was profit. The House measure was decapitated and Senator Johnson moved an amendment extending the mileage to the stenographer. That also was opposed by Allison. Te bill was passed with slight amendment
