NASHVILLE, Tenn.,
November 12, 1875.

Editor Deseret News:

We left home on Monday morning, the 1st inst., and were joined at Ogden by several more en route to Europe and the States. Their names were T. McKean, Erastus W. Snow, Jr., J. R. Winder, Jr., Mathoni Pratt, Jos. F. Simmons, J. R. Larson, Enck H. Larson, E. F. Brenting, Jos. Standing, Moroni H. McAllister, Hans Jorgensen, N. Bayberry, John D. H. McAllister, Walter Thompson, D. M. Stuart, Junius F. Wells, Jos. F. Young, Lorenzo Snow, Jr., Eli H. Pierce, D. P. Rainey, James Wordworth, Elmer Taylor, Martin Taylor, Louis Anderson, B. F. Taylor, Soran Nielsen, D. H. Peery, J. C. Sandberg, John Masters, Jas. W. Bay, Chas. N. Smith, and myself, in all thirty-two.

We had a very pleasant trip to Omaha. The weather was unusually fine. Our old friend, W. C. Staines, passed us on the way, he returning from his valuable labors, we on the way to ours. We were a very happy, sociable party. I messed with Bros. McKean, Junius F. Wells and Jno. R. Winder, Jr. There were two consumptives on the cars—a gentleman and lady, in pursuit of health. The lady had to be taken out at Grand Island, the gentleman had to return to his own home.

We arrived at Omaha all well, and here we separated. Those going to Europe and the Eastern states continued their journey east. Elders D. M. Stuart, Peery, Winder, L. Snow, Jr., Jas. G. Young, Standing, J. D. H. McAllister, Rainey, Junius Wells, Jos. Simmons and myself staid at Omaha, and put up at the St. Charles Hotel and were published the next day among the arrivals, Dr. Miller giving us quite a notice. We were waited upon by some who wished to know if we were going to stay there, &c. We informed them who had the charge of that place, but we were for going on. We obtained our tickets for St. Louis. We were courteously treated by the R. R. officials. In the evening we crossed over to Council Bluffs and took train to St. Louis, Elders Rainey, Winder, J. D. H. McAllister, and Standing and myself. We did not arrive there until dark. I had along with me some views of Salt Lake City, through the courtesy of Bro. C. R. Savage, and I made good use of them, got into conversation and bore my testimony of the truth. The hearers were much interested and we were advised to put up at the Southern Hotel. We did so. The next morning we were published in the "personals" and having the addresses of some of our friends in St. Louis visited them, who desired we should spend our time with them. They had a hall, and they advertised in two papers that we would lecture. Afternoon and evening, visited around the city and on the Sabbath were introduced to the president of the branch. In the afternoon meeting Brothers J. D. H. McAllister, Standing, Winder, Rainey and myself spoke. The evening meeting was the largest in numbers. Bro. Rainey and myself preached, enjoying much freedom. At the close we were asked many questions and interviewed by a reporter of the St. Louis Daily Times, who the next day gave us quite a notice. He got things rather mixed, but when you consider we had two hours meeting and about ten minutes interview, and that he took no notes, it was pardonable if he did.

Mr. Kershaw and Burnham were very kind to us, and their wives did all in their power to make us feel at home. Bros. Standing and McAllister stopped at Bro. Standing's uncle, and Bro. Winder was invited to a friend of his, who treated them very kindly. Mr. Norton, of Dodd, Brown & Co., treated us with great courtesy.

We proceeded south to our own field of labor. We arrived here in good health and spirits and had the experience of the preserving care of our Heavenly Father. On the road between Union and Nashville, a few miles from Waverly, three miles west of Gilleim, the cars nearest the engine, by some means, ran off the track and were bounding from side to side in a terrible manner, until the coupling broke and the force threw the first car right off the track to the right, and the second car was badly broken at the hind end by being run into by the third car, that was likewise off the track. We were shaken, but not badly, enough to experience the feeling that comes with more serious accidents. We got out of the train and saw the wreck and were thankful for the all preserving care of our Heavenly Father.

On our arrival at Nashville on Wednesday evening we put up at the St. Charles, and yesterday were interviewed by a reporter of the American, a very pleasant gentleman, who has represented us very fairly.

Bros. Rainey, Standing and McAllister have gone futhersouth, to meet with Bro. H. G. Boyle. We shall stay here, Bro. Winder and myself, over Sunday. We are trying to get a hall to meetings. We are two thousand miles away from home surrounded by strangers in a strange land, and yet we feel first rate. Our trust is in God, and we are willing to work as he shall open up our way. Let our friends remember us in their prayer. We send kind love from all to all.

Yours very faithfully,

GEO. TEASDALE.

KAMAS CITY,

Nov. 16, 1875.

Editor Deseret News:

Our day and Sunday schools are doing well and are very well attended. The scholars feel very much encouraged, as we have just had a visit from Prof. Riggs, and also from Mr. Charles Mills, County Supt. Prof. Riggs gave us a very interesting discourse on education, its uses and abuses, and its necessity. He also explained some very useful branches, simplifying them in such a manner that they were easily understood. He claimed that they were branches that were not taught in the schools of this Territory as much as should be. The whole of his discourse was highly entertaining and instructive. All seemed well pleased, and we trust that the visits of Prof. Riggs may be more frequent and his stay while here prolonged, that he may impart to our youth more of his valuable instructions.

Mr. Mills followed in a short and instructive discourse, praising the trustees in their good work in constructing so large and comfortable a house for the schools.

Our valley is covered with about six inches of snow. Still we trust that a long and dreary winter has not set in upon us. Our crops were good, especially roots, which any one would naturally infer from the statement in a late issue of the News in reference to the Kamas Prairie Grangers selling potatoes at Echo for fifteen cents per bushel. Please allow me to state that your informant was laboring under a grand mistake, as our grangers have done nothing of the kind. The same article is selling at home for twenty-five and thirty cents.

Health and good feelings prevail. The United Order is progressing slowly but surely, and all seems to move along favorably. We still have room for more good saints and to such we offer a kind invitation to come and settle with us.
