BREVITIES.

The king of fun—Jo-king.

Board Wages—Directors' fees.

The fourth of a man—a quartermaster.

The hardships of the ocean—iron clads.

The beggar's avocation—praying for his daily bread.

Boston thinks of sending female physicians to China.

Seaside sentiment—The Atlantic Ocean; long it may wave.

Life is a poem, and pure and happy love is the sweetest of its stanzas.

A tired oysterman discouragingly says that life is mere dredgery.

What kind of riches can not "take to themselves wings and fly away? Why ost-riches, of course!

If mankind are animals, can fashionable ladies be called "trained" animals?

Careless musicians will never get rich—they are constantly dropping notes.

How menny people thare iz whose souls lay in them like the pith in a goose quill.

Which can travel the fastest heat or cold? Why heat, of course—anybody can catch a cold.

There is no book like the Bible for excellent learning, wisdom and use.—Sir Matthew Hale.

A Montana gallows is three rails, set up like a tripod, with a man hanging between like a pot.

It is estimated that there are 2,000 news boys and 300 news girls in New York.

Large horses are generally most admired by farmers; but farmers are most admired who Pony up.

Bouquets are now made more expensive by placing humming birds or a rich colored butterfly among the flowers.

There is no readier way to bring your own worth into question, than to detract from the worth of other men.

It has been ascertained that some ladies use paint as fiddlers do rosin — to aid them in drawing a beau.

"Why don't you ask me how I am?" smilingly said a lady visitor to a four-year-old girl. "I don't want to know," was the little innocent's reply.

Hailstones measuring three inches in length, and one inch in thickness, fell at Newton Falls, Massachusetts, recently.

The London Spectator calls Mr. Evarts "a lawyer, a politician, and an honest man, a rare combination in the United States." Or anywhere else.

Because a man who tends a flock of sheep is a shepherd, makes it no reason that a man who keeps cows should be a cow-ard.

Dexter, the famous horse, owned by Mr. Bonner, of the New York Ledger, recently trotted a mile in two minutes and fourteen seconds, on the Fashion Course, Long Island.

De Foe had great difficulty in finding a publisher for "Robinson Crusoe;" Thackeray for "Vanity Fair;" Charlotte Bronte for "Jane Eyre," and Emerson for his first essay on nature.

A clergyman was one day talking to his landlord, a Universalist, on the personality of the devil. A little incredulous, the gentleman remarked:

"I should like to see the devil."

"Can't you wait?" was the reply.

John Allen, "the wickedest man," upon retiring from the dance house business, was told by some of his Christian friends, that in his efforts to lead a better life, he would be sorely beset by the devil. His reply was "I don't mind the devil, Iv'e cut him, and hereafter shall do business with his boss."

A Frenchman, being hard up for a dinner, stole a pig. He was caught in the act, taken before a magistrate, and called upon for his defence, when he thus delivered himself: "O, mon Dieu! I steal ze pig? No, sar, I never! Aha, you shall see. I tell ze pig, will he go wiz me? He says, 'Oui! Oui!' and zen I take him. Is zat vot you call steal ze pig, ven he go viz his own consent?".

A sea captain, trading regularly to the African coast, was invited to meet a committee of a society for the evangilization of Africa. Among numerous questions touching the habits and religion of the African races, he was asked: "Do the subjects of King Dahomy keep Sunday?" Keep Sunday?" he replied; "yes, and every other darned thing they can lay their hands on."

The following is a sure remedy for poison oak. Its efficacy is increased by steeping wormwood in the water before applying it:

"Hot water, as hot as can be borne, will infallibly destroy the effects of poison oak. Cloths dipped in scalding water, and laid over the surface, cause an exquisitely itching sensation, which is followed by immediate relief. For those to whom it is convenient, the steam bath, causing profuse perspiration, will soon prove a cure."—[Ex.

A writer in the London Times says that meat may be preserved in the hottest weather, in the following manner: The meat should be placed in a wooden box on a metal grating about three inches from the bottom. Under this grating should be burnt about an inch of sulphur stick, as often as a joint is put in, the lid being immediately closed. It is convenient to have a sliding bottom to the box, for facility of cleaning when required.

Meat thus preserved is perfectly good at the end of a week, and entirely free from any unpleasantness.
