BREVITIES.

A German proverb says that poverty is the sixth sense.

The Chicago Republican is coming out as a two cent folio.

Vulgar ruffians in London drug their victims with snuff in their beer.

Theodore Nunneman was cooked in a sugar vat at St. Louis the other day.

One firm in Portland, Main, have manufactured 24,000 planchettes.

Train writes to the Revolution, "Charge, Susan, charge! On, Stanton, on!!"

The California steam plow costs $10,000, it requires men skilled in mechanics to run it.

A New York church proposes to have a full band, strings and brass, in the place of an organ.

Fifty years ago not a pound of fine wool was grown in the United States, in Great Britain, or in any other country except Spain.

An exchange says, two posts split from the same log were set for gate posts, one top end in the ground, the other butt end in the ground; the first lasted seventeen years, and the other ten.

Buckwheat has been found useful in dyeing wool. The dried flowers yield different shades of green, and the succulent stems and blossoms, with the addition of bismuth of tin, produce a beautiful brown.

A clock having struck the hour of one a tender hearted woman exclaimed, "Oh! what a cruel clock! "Why so?" asked a friend. "Because it struck its little one!" answered the tender-hearted mother.

In celebrating Franklin's birthday the printers of Buffalo had a good time, and among others the following toast was drank: "Printer's Wives—May they always have plenty of Small caps for the heads of their little 'original articles."

If a man all his life long should do no other good thing than educate his child right in the fear of God, then I think this may be an atonement for his neglects. The greatest work which thou canst do is even this—that thou educatest thy child well.

New York sporting men have raised money to release Wormald, the bruiser, and thus save a trial in January. They say that the trial of O'Baldwin and Wormald must not take place in Massachusetts, as their conviction and sentence would ruin the pugilistic business in America forever.

The lessons of adversity are often the most benignant when they seem the most severe. The depression of vanity sometimes enobles the feelings. The mind that does not wholly sink under misfortune, rises above it more lofty than before, and is strengthened by affliction.

A French paper announces that "the too celebrated Marchioness d'Orvault" has entered the convent of the Ursulines of St. Fitomena, as a novice, and relates as apropos the story of a libertine who began his will: "I bequeath my soul to God"—when he was interrupted by a friend, with "what can God do with it?"

The weight of a gross of steel pens is but a few ounces, and it is not difficult to believe that it would take a great many boxes to make a ton. The largest pen factory in the world, on the French coast, uses sixty tons of steal a month in this manufacture, and there are a dozen other houses whose product is not very much smaller.

At a recent fire in Philadelphia, Forepaugh's menagerie was partly destroyed, and several of his four-paw'd animals were burned. Some got into the street, causing great alarm, but no damage. A large African lion was caught in the street by throwing over him a box used for mixing mortar. A leopard rushed into a house where there were several women and children, but the beast was as much frightened as the humans, and took refuge in the cellar without biting any one.

The Dubuque (Iowa) Times relates the following curious story:

"A few days ago three maimed brothers from Minnesota crossed on the ferry to this side. One had lost both arms and legs, and the other two both legs. They related to Commodore Yates the following fearful incident:

Last winter, the three brothers started to singing school with three young ladies, in an ox sled. On the way a heavy snow storm came on, and caused them to lose their way. After wandering about for hours, they were finally "snowed in" on the prairie. Locked up in that snowy prison, the three women were frozen to death, and the three brothers were so badly frozen as to result in their present maimed condition."

A few days since, a gentleman found himself on the Orleans railway in a carriage with six smokers, all puffing away. He said nothing until the train started, when he drew out of his pocket a vial, which he uncorked. Instantly, the carriage was filled with a horrible odor, half ammoniacal and half sulphurous. All the smokers cried:

"Do cork that vial; you will suffocate us!"

He replied: "Beg your pardon, gentlemen; but as you did not ask my permission when you lighted your pipes, which suffocate me, I did not think it necessary to ask your permission when I resorted to the antidote against tobacco smoke."

The smokers said nothing for five minutes, when they all gasped (they were really suffocated):

"If we extinguish our pipes, will you cork that vial?"

"Certainly."

The pipes were at once put out.
