WHAT WILL THE HARVEST BE?

Rev. Elderkin on "Morals of Our High School" With its Evil Environments.

UNION MEMORIAL SERVICES

Of the G. A. R. in the Congregational Church—Address of Prof. W. M. McKendrick.

OGDEN, May 31.—At the Congregational church Sunday evening, Rev. Noble S. Elderkin read another of his pulpits editorials, in which he took another rap at the city administration. The subject was "The Morals of Our High School."

The editorial in part is as follows:

"Most of the young people in our High school are doing the impossible. They are holding to lofty ideals and high principals in the face of most discouraging circumstances. For the city which encourages them to gain a higher education also encourages every institution which seeks to undo the work of the High school."

"That big strong men with whiskers should hang around pool rooms and saloons and gambling houses, and the scarlet precincts is a matter of wonder and regret. But that drunkenness and gambling and worse vices should prevail to even the smallest extent among the pick of the city's potential citizenship is a matter of vital concern. You may not say 'wild oats,' and let it go. These young men are to reap the whirlwind to be sure. But so, too, will the city. And the city which hopes to build an enduring fabric upon the product of the saloon and gamblinghouse

Those Corpuscles

In your blood,—red and white,—keep you well if they are healthy, cause you sickness if diseased.

To make and keep them healthy and strong, is to have pure blood, freedom from disease and vigorous health.

The chief purpose of Hood's Sarsaparilla is to do this, and its success is attested by thousands of wonderful cures. Cures of all blood diseases, scrofula, eczema, rheumatism, catarrh.

Hood's Sarsaparilla effects these cures, not simply because it contains sarsaparilla but because it combines the utmost remedial values of more than 20 different ingredients, each greatly strengthened and enriched by this peculiar combination.

needs a new vision of social permanence.

"I do not condemn these young men who think the institutions which the city protects and encourages are fit places for them when out of school. I pity them. They are the logical victims of a hideous environment. The wonder is not that they have succumbed. The wonder is that any of our young life is free from pollution."

"I do not condemn the teachers of our high school. It isn't possible to gather together a group of men and women with higher moral ideals. And they are bending every effort to give moral help to those under their influence. I wish it were easier to condemn the parents. But I know some whose boys are in the wild oats business, and I know what they feel for their children. That makes it hard to condemn here. It is to the door of the parents that Chief Browning marches in commendable boldness and pauses to tell the blind and unthinking among them that if they throw about their boys and girls a more wholesome influence, the problem of human waste would vanish. That is all tremendously true. But here is chief fingers. I insist upon one further step."

"Once upon a time I had a garden. That was before I found an easier job. I don't remember what I grew but it must have been carrots. I found that when I let the weeds grow, I didn't have a promising crop of carrots. But I discovered this also that when I gave the carrots a show by pulling the weeds away from their throats, they flourished."

"Now the interpretation of my agricultural experience is here: A boy is worth more than a carrot. But he, too, needs a decent environment. You can produce a shabby crop of carrots by providing a shabby environment. And you can produce a shabby crop of boys by setting them in a shabby environment."

"I do, then, condemn the city which throws around its boys who would much rather be good than bad an environment which damns them to impotence. And I do condemn you—citizens of that city—who have never raised a protesting voice. Upon you the blame rests."

UNION MEMORIAL SERVICES.
 OGDEN, May 31.—The Congregational church was packed to the doors yesterday afternoon at 3 o'clock when, the annual union Memorial services of the Grand Army were held. Rev. Noble S. Elderkin presided at the services which were very largely attended. A feature of the services was the address of Principal W. M. McKendrick of the Weber Academy. The address was a forcible one and at times moved many of the old soldiers and ladies of the auxiliary organizations to tears.

The Grand Army and members of auxiliary organizations met at the City Hall at 2:30 and escorted by the Knights of Pythias marched to the Congregational church, which had been beautifully decorated by the ladies of the two G. A. R. organizations with flags and bunting. The services included reading of Scripture lessons by Rev. W. W. Fleetwood and Rev. H. D. Zimmerman and a prayer by Rev. G. W. McCreery. Solos, "Tenting Tonight on the Old Camp Ground" and "The Flag, O Mother of the Brave" were rendered by Miss Guntz and Mrs. Fred N. Hess. Miss Pearl LeVan Stanley, recited, "An Ante Bellum Sermon" and a hymn, "Ours is the Land of the Free" from the State Industrial school, rendered, "Lead Kindly Light." Axel Nylander accompanied by Miss Guntz rendered a fine song. Two instrumental solos were rendered by Miss Conroy.

Principal McKendrick began his address by stating that three great questions were drawn from the Civil war. He said the first was the snow of sentiment existing between the commanders of opposing forces; the second was the sentiment and feeling existing between the privates; the third the sentiment and sympathy shown by the two opposing armies on different occasions. To illustrate the last he recalled the time when the opposing armies were camped on each side of the Rapidan river. In the evening while the campfires were gleaming the Federal bands on one side of the river played "Yankee Doodle" and "Star Spangled Banner." The Rebel forces on the other side of the river immediately gave mighty cheers for the patriotic airs. Then the Federal band played "Dixie" which brought forth additional cheers. Later the bands played "Home Sweet Home."

In closing Mr. McKendrick stated that Memorial day was the nation's great sacramental day when the old battle-scarred soldiers came together in remembrance of the trials and sufferings of the four years. He said that it was more of a Memorial day than a Decoration day. That it afforded an avenue for the old soldiers to express their sympathy and feelings for the cause that is dead and gone.

The entire congregation arose and sang "America." And all remained standing while the G. A. R. and auxiliary filed out. After the service the G. A. R. and the ladies of the G. A. R. and the Relief corps visited the two cemeteries where the graves of departed comrades were decorated.

RESCUED FROM DROWNING.

OGDEN, May 31.—Late Saturday afternoon, Police Officer John Conney and Special Officer Shumaker of the Harrison lines rescued a Mexican from drowning in the Weber river, after he had been hanging to shrubbery in the stream for some time. The man was taken to the police station, where he was provided with dry clothing and a warm bed.

HUSLER'S FLOUR

The development in fine food products since the world began has finally culminated in

According to the man's story he had been drinking and went to the Oregon Short Line bridge at the foot of Thirty-second street and sat on the bridge abutment. By looking into the water for a few minutes the man became dizzy and fell in. The stream was so strong that he was carried down stream several hundred yards before he could catch hold of some tree roots that were projecting into the stream. To these he clung until his cries brought Conney and Shumaker, who pulled the almost exhausted Mexican from what had seemed an almost certain watery grave.

PREST. G. H. BRIMHALL ADDRESSES STUDENTS

Baccalaureate Sermon Before Graduates of the Brigham Young University.

(Special Correspondence.)

OGDEN, May 31.—A large audience met in College hall last night to listen to the baccalaureate sermon delivered by President George H. Brimhall. He took for his text the nineteenth verse thirty-seventh chapter of Genesis: "And they said one to another, 'Behold this dreamer cometh.'" President Brimhall referred to the great work of the world and for the redemption of the race that had been accomplished by men who were dreamers—day dreamers—and encouraged the graduates to dream noble dreams and to do noble work. Above all he retold their faith in God and to let the divinity within them respond to the divinity without. The sermon was replete with beautiful and helpful suggestions to the students.

ANOTHER BACCALAUREATE SERMON.

PROVO, May 31.—Rev. J. Chaffin Smith delivered the baccalaureate sermon to the Proctor academy graduates in the Congregational church last night. He took for his text the following from the one hundred and eleventh sonnet of Shakespeare: "My nature is subdued to what I work in like the dyer's hand." Mr. Smith impressed upon the graduates the necessity for earnest application to one thing in order to make a success in life.

PROVO, May 31.—Suit has been commenced by George T. Hall and Daniel Silas Hall through their guardian ad litem, Almida Hall, against Nephi City for the death of George Thomas Hall, father of the minors. He came to his death from an electric shock while employed by the Rocky Mountain Bell Telephone company in Nephi City, Aug. 28, 1908. The complaint charges that the city failed to properly protect the wires. Plaintiff have already secured judgment against the telephone company for $700.

CITY AND COUNTY SCHOOL PROGRAMS

Brigham Young College Closes Successful Year With Banquet and Ball.

(Special Correspondence.)

LOGAN, May 30.—The Cache county eighth grade graduating exercises were most successfully carried out yesterday at the Agricultural college. During the forenoon the program was rendered at the college chapel and the afternoon was devoted to field sports on the athletic field. The address to the graduates by Dr. John A. Whitsee was an able and scholarly one, and was one that was driven home to the student with much force. The other features of the program were well received.

Yesterday afternoon in the Nibley Hall the city schools held their graduation exercises. The program being carried out as heretofore published. A large attendance was present.

B. Y. C. CLOSES YEAR.

LOGAN, May 30.—With the banquet and ball by the alumni association Friday evening the school year activities at the Brigham Young college passed into history. The appreciation of the exercises of the institution of the town folk can be best understood when it is stated that at several of the programs the large hall was unable to accommodate the applicants for admission. On the program of the Nibley being unable to deliver the address to the degree students, Prof. W. H. Chamberlain ably filled his place. There were no members of the board of trustees present on Friday, so the degrees and certificates were conferred by President James H. Linford. The students are rapidly taking their departure for their respective homes.

HOTEL PROJECT.

LOGAN, May 30.—That Logan is to have a hotel this summer seems to be certain as the Logan Booster club has taken up the project with a view of establishing a large hotel in the immediate future. It seems that the Salt Lake capital that was to be used in traveling over land between Pleasant Grove and Provo with sheep herds, was argued Saturday afternoon in the Fourth district court and taken under advisement.

LOGAN BRIEFS.

are natural flavors, obtained by a new process, which gives the most delicate and grateful taste. Dr. Price's Flavorings can be conscientiously commended as being just as represented, perfection in every possible respect. One trial proves their excellence.

Whitney of Salt Lake and her company in "The Sub," were given a most hearty welcome at the Thatcher opera house last evening. The house was a capacity one and was composed of the society of the town, which gave frequent expression of appreciation through loud applause. The opera is one of the best presented on the local stage and there is every reason why Miss Whitney and Salt Lake should be proud of this new production.

With the closing of school at the U. A. C. the course in veterinary sciences will be discontinued. Most of the students taking this course have decided to go east next fall to the Pennsylvania and Columbia universities.

The recent heavy storms have been a boon to the Cache valley farmers.

said recently: "When you feel down and out, feel there is no use living, just take your bed thoughts with you and walk them off. Before you have walked a mile things will look different. Just try it." Have you noticed the increase in walking of late in every community? Many attribute it to the anti-sleeping powder to be shaken into the shoes, given to the millions now using it. As Weston has said, "It has real merit."
