James Alexander Lusk died at a private residence in San Francisco, and will be buried Saturday afternoon at the cemetery. His remains were transported to Salt Lake City by express. He suffered a fatal heart attack, which developed into acute pneumonia. The deceased was 42 years old and served two terms as police judge in the city, the last term as a member of the state legislature. He had been a member of the state legislature for 10 years.

Mrs. Robert Black, who lives north of San Diego, Cal., has died from glioma after a long suffering for several months. She was 60 years old. Her husband is a brother of Mrs. Wilson. The woman was feeding a new puppy when she died when her face was white and swelled. Her eyes were tightly closed and appeared slightly downward and evidently converged into an aggravated case. The best medical aid failed to stop the progress of the disease.

It is reported that Frederick Barth of Chicago has just secured the important railroad concession in Mexico, state of the Mexican Central, says the Denver, Nov. 11, Headlight. The railroad will have a right to provide for a standard gauge road to run from some point in the state of Chihuahua, on the Mexican Central railroad, westward, with branches between the state and the various mining regions on the gulf and southwest along the Pacific coast. The subsidy on the road amounts to $5,000 per mile.

Colly O'Neill, a celebrated Indian, who was indicted at Cheyenne with William Danvers and Frank O'Neill for the murder of Major John W. Evans, chief of staff of the Post, Washakie reservation, in the United States court, plead guilty in the charge of manslaughter, says the Los Angeles Times. The trial of Colly O'Neill has been delayed since the time the murder was committed until his execution date. He was sentenced to the state prison for life, and went to the penitentiary for four years. In consideration of his voluntary surrender Judge Ritter made O'Neill sentence three years.

A. M. Hansen, a bookseller at the Emporia, Kan., Post Office, says he has sold 100,000 books with credit. He, in company with his son, has built a library of 100,000 volumes, and holds a register of all sales and total amount, which total was $10,000. Mr. Hansen's office clock struck nine. It seems that Mr. Hansen was in the act of closing the books when he tripped over the tip of the table, when some way, lost his balance and fell to the ground—a distance of fifty feet—and was severely injured. Dr. Clegg, Dr. Clark and Dr. McClure were summoned at once, and it is thought the man cannot recover. In the fall, two thousand timbers were taken in two by the weight of his body.

The third annual fair of the Colorado River Agricultural and Manufacturing Association was held on September 25 and 26 last and was a great success, says the Denver, Oct. 11, Headlight. The fair was given by the Colorado River, and held at the state fair and state fair grounds, which, itself, was a great success. Mr. F. W. A. Page, Mr. H. W. Johnson, office clerk at the fair, says that Mr. Page was in the act of closing the books when he tripped over the tip of the table, when some way, lost his balance and fell to the ground—a distance of fifty feet—and was severely injured. The attorney general of Oregon has stated that the death of Zion Smith, killed by an Oregon street car on Tuesday, was accidental.

Murray American There is scarcely a night in the week, but a lot of young men are congregated around the Opera house block, singing, dancing, laughing and swearing, making it difficult for ladies and little girls to get in the stores and shop.

The preliminary hearing of William Thompson, accused of killing his wife, Elizabeth, was held at Ogallala, Monday, Oct. 13. He is the second man who has stood trial at Ogallala since the shooting of his wife.

George Washington Hunt, E. M. Atkinson Jr., and the other defense exponents met the magistrate in the canyon on Monday. Mr. Atkinson, a very modest man, the most modest of them all, was the first to speak. He said he came to Ogallala with Child Development, then known as the Home Department, were making up on the trail to the west.

On the first night, while he was in town, he heard the railroad whistle, the clatter of hoofs, was surrounded by Indians, and the speech was, "Run away, man, get off to a water hole." The first thought of the Indian was to get out of the way.

Mr. Atkinson, however, did not run away, but, instead, he turned to the Indians and said, "I am a friend of the white man, I am a friend of the Indian, and they are my people."

He was then told to go away.
