SENATE.

House bills introduced and referred.

Ramsey presented the credentials of O. P. Stearns, elected by the legislature of Minnesota for the unexpired term of Hon. D. S. Norton, deceased, ending March 4th, 1871. After reading the credentials, Stearns presented himself and took the oath of office.

Sumner presented, and had read, a joint resolution of the Indiana Legislature, instructing the Senators of that State to vote against the annexation of San Domingo.

The following House bills were introduced and referred:

One by Mr. Starkweather for a committee to determine the claims for damages to American commere by Confederate privateers.

One by Williams to establish shipyards to facilitate transportation and to promote commerce.

One by Niblack, the resolution of the Indiana Legislature on the subject of annexing San Domingo.

ILLINOIS.

Improved telegraphic situation—No Steamship subsidy bill can pass Congress.

CHICAGO.—The telegraphic situation here is rapidly improving, under the energetic measures adopted by the Western Union Co., and all the lines will, in a short time, be in as good condition as before the storm.

The Tribune's Washington special says: Some of the best informed members of the Senate express the opinion that no steamship subsidy bill can get a favorable action at this session, and they think that all the time spent in discussing such schemes will be without a practical result. But if such a measure should get through the Senate it has scarcely a chance of being taken up in the House. No member of that body ventures to expect the passage of a subsidy bill. The sentiment of Congress is strongly hostile to all schemes which look to the national treasury for aid. Nothing can be effected except by such a compromise and combination of interests as are not likely to be brought about.

WASHINGTON.

Indian Attorneys—Business for Congress.

WASHINGTON, 23.—Only thirty-six working days, counting Saturdays as such, are left for the present Congress, during which to act upon the great number of bills, etc., now upon the calendars. The Senate general orders show a total of 342 bills and resolutions awaiting action, some of which have been hanging over since the first session, in 1869; of general orders there are 182; of private and personal bills, such as pensions, relieving accounting officers, claims, etc., there are sixteen; railroad land grant bills, and seven for grants to aid the construction of canal and irrigation ditches; five other bills for railroad incorporations for various projects, nominally, belonging to this district or the Territories or, as in the case of one bill, for the Tehuantepec railroad and ship canal to carry out the project in foreign territory. Besides these 325 bills and resolutions there are a half-dozen special orders and fourteen resolutions reported from committees. The apportionment bill will be an occasion for a very sharp fight in the House. The Western members are determined to press an amendment, authorizing the election of additional Representatives next fall in the States which now have less than the number they are entitled to by the new bill. The demands of the Western States for the representation of their population entitle them to is a question which has a more important bearing than upon the 42d Congress; for if the apportionment does not go into effect until 1873, after the Presidential election, the electoral college will be chosen under the present apportionment, which, if the States are represented in the college according to their present population, will result in an election that might be defeated by the refusal of Congress to make a new apportionment at once.

Secretary Delano has ordered that no person, claiming to act as an attorney on behalf of any Indian tribe, or any member or members thereof, shall be recognized as such by the Interior Department or Indian office, unless said person is possessed of a duly executed power of attorney from the chiefs of the tribes or nation acknowledged by the agent of the United States for such tribe or nation. The agent, before taking such acknowledgment, is to be satisfied by a personal investigation that such power was fairly and duly obtained. The order applies to all persons claiming to act as attorneys for Indians, whether by power heretofore given or otherwise.

The special committee on alleged outrages in Southern States will commence its investigations to-morrow. Several witnesses from North Carolina, including the son of Ex-Governor Holden, who was speaker of the former House of Representatives of that State, were summoned to-day.

NEW YORK.

Irish exiles being entertained—Condition of Paris—Forger arrested.

NEW YORK.—Louis Vanettan, alias Livingston, the forger, who, among other similar operations, swindled the Bank of California out of $97,600 on stolen and altered registered bonds, was brought here yesterday from New Orleans in custody of a U. S. detective, and committed to a cell in the police quarters.

NEW YORK, 23.—The Irish exiles visited the grand opera house on Saturday night on a special invitation to hear some music; they went, but discovering, early in the evening, that the invitation was merely a stroke of the politicians to win them over to one side, they withdrew. A banquet has been prepared and it was the intention to have the exiles attend, but this offer was firmly declined by O'Donovan Rossa and the rest.

The Herald has a cable dispatch from Paris, dated the 13th, which says:

"It is a significant fact that now, for the first time since the commencement of the siege, the question has been heard 'How long can we hold out?' The people commence to talk of a cessation of operations, although professedly only with the object of getting time to recuperate, and then to commence a war of revenge. A feeling of distrust is spreading against those who command and conduct the defense. It is certain that at the present moment Paris would accept a dictator cheerfully, if one could be found equal to the situation. The fault of General Trochu is lack of self-reliance. Now that the news from the outside is scarce, he hardly seems to know what to do. If no speedy relief comes, a climax must soon be reached inside the city. Either sorties must be made on such a scale, on every side, as will throw all on the hazard of a single effort, or capitulation must be sought for on the best terms obtainable, or there will be a terrible row inside the city.

So far as provisions are concerned, although the report shows enough 'grub' for two months, yet a few facts prove their scarcity, and the suffering of the poor classes. For instance, the price of rabbits is thirty-five francs, chickens 55, geese 70, turkeys 90, butter 30 per pound, eggs 2 per dozen, dog 8 francs per pound, prime parts of elephant 20 and horse flesh 10 francs. In addition to the hospitals, the church of St. Sulpice and the Odeon have been partly destroyed by shells. The museum of Luxembourg received twenty shells. The exasperation of the people so great that a French [illegible] would bring results fearful to contemplate. Since yesterday bread has been made of a minimum quantity of flour mixed with rice and other ingredients. There is not sufficient flour for bread after the 19th of this month. The troops have received biscuits for the last five days in order to save the bread for the population. Horse flesh will last yet thirty days. A moveable ambulance has been established in quarters open to fire, and stretcher bearers are waiting night and day at the guard houses. The splendid conservatories of the Jardin des Plantes, which cost six hundred thousand francs, have been destroyed with the specimens of exotic plants.

FOREIGN NEWS.

FRANCE.

Losses in the Sortie—Gambetta speaks—Panic at Lille—Sortie with great loss to the French—Captures by the Prussians—Montretout retaken—General Panic.

VERSAILLES, 20.—A dense fog prevails. The French massed near Valerien, have attempted nothing further. Montretout was surprised yesterday by the Prussian ninth division, and was retaken. The Prussian loss, altogether, was twenty officers and two hundred men. The prisoners say there will be other attacks, but the nationals will not fight.

LILLE, 21.—The utmost consternation prevails here; women and children are flying; the troops are arriving in a pitiable state. The Bavarian regiments were represented in the ceremony of crowning the Emperor.

CAMBRAI, 20, evening.—The panic is general. The Germans are approaching. The cannonade is audible. Faidherbe and his staff have gone to Bouai. Favre has gone to Lille. The whereabouts of one division is unknown. Gambetta has arrived at Lille.

Everything is quiet. The Prussian loss in the sortie was four hundred; the French loss was so heavy that they asked an armistice of forty-eight hours.

LILLE, 21.—Gambetta addressed an enthusiastic crowd to-day, and advocated resistance to the bitter end, and denounced partisan peace at any price and repudiated the dictatorship. He urged them to do their duty and prophecied a final triumph.

PARIS, 17.—The bombardment has killed and wounded 39 children, 49 women, and 92 men. Favre has consulted with the mayors upon a trip to London; but the mayors were divided and the matter was settled.

A sortie from Valerien was made by forty battalions west of the fortress, but was faintly carried out. The French suffered great loss. Five hundred unwounded men were captured by the Germans. General Trochu asked for an armistice, but was refused. The German advanced posts were authorized to grant a temporary truce to permit the French to collect their wounded.

Up to the present 7,000 unwounded men and six guns have been captured from the French army of the north.

ST. MALO, 20.—Gambetta arrived here from Laval last night, and left for Cherbourg.

CAMBRAI, 20.—Gen Faidherbe has arrived here with his staff. The army of the north is in full retreat. The Prussians shelled St. Quentin before its evacuation, firing the houses in several places.

BELGIUM.

Details of Faidherbe's defeat.

BRUSSELS, 21.—The details of Faidherbe's defeat show that the army of the north suffered a terrible blow, and can hardly recover. The retreating army at Cambrai was a sad scene of disorder; the troops shoeless and in rags and the army fragmentary.

Longwy is in flames. The country around Valenciennes is inundated, the Germans being expected.

The mobilized guards behaved badly at the battle of St. Quentin; 17,000 were panic stricken.

GREAT BRITAIN.

Captured at St. Quentin—Loss of the French—The Queen will open Parliament—Bombardment and incidental manœuvering—Cabinet difficulties.

LONDON.—The Observer says the Queen will personally open Parliament.

The rumor that the Conference will again be adjourned is untrue.

The Bavarian Chamber of Deputies sanctioned, to-day, the federal treaties, by 102 votes against 48.

The Vienna correspondent of the Prussian Gazette reports, that at the preliminary meeting of the Conference in London, Austria proposed a protocol, condemning the principle of one-sided repudiation and renunciation of treaties. Russia at first demurred to the protocol, but was finally persuaded by England and Prussia to consent to it.

M. Favre is expected at London, on Monday, to attend the conference.

The ship International, with the French telegraph cable on board, was seized, but on the representation of the Prussian minister here, has been released, each party paying the legal costs.

LONDON, 21.—The St. Quentin Railway Station was stormed by the 9th Regiment. The town was afterwards occupied. Two thousand wounded were captured together with six guns. The Prussians occupy the approaches to Longwy. A French shell destroyed a farm house and burned forty Prussians. It is said that the fire of the garrison has since silenced the battery. Nothing new up to the 18th, in Paris. The damages by the bombardment are a few killed. Droves of oxen, intended for Paris, have passed through Rheims, ready for the advance of Chanzy, who has received reinforcements. The bombardment of Longwy is vigorously continued; the town is on fire. The Prussians have requisitioned forty thousand francs at Yvelotte, to punish the sympathy displayed. Mayor Balbeck was taken as a hostage.

LONDON, 22, 6 p.m.—The Emperor William telegraphs to the Empress Augusta, under date of Versailles 21st: Yesterday the enemy entirely withdrew into Paris. Fifteen officers and 250 men were captured at St. Cloud. The number of unwounded prisoners captured at St. Quentin is 9,000, besides 2,000 wounded taken in the town. The total loss of the French is 15,000. The enemy has withdrawn.

There is much commotion in political circles caused by the rumored difficulties in the cabinet. Although the statement that Childers has resigned is officially contradicted, his retirement is only a question of time on account of his health. A bitter attack will be made at the meeting of Parliament on the administration of the army and navy, and the cabinet, unable to defend the army, have determined to throw Cardwell overboard like Jonah; but believe they are able to successfully defend the navy, by showing it is in a high state of efficiency. If they succeed in their claim it will be a drawn battle and the cabinet will be saved by the sacrifice of Cardwell.

The Conference is regarded here as a stupendous farce, designed to blind the people to the fact of England's humiliation before Russia.

BREVITIES.

A young man at New Orleans who had been driven out of the house of his lady love by her cruel parents, because he was poor, recently drew a prize of several thousand dollars in the Louisiana State Lottery, and in his altered circumstances readily obtained consent, and was united to his adored.

"You have lost your baby, I hear?" said one gentleman to another. "Yes, poor little thing! It was only five months old. We did all we could for it. We had four doctors, blistered its head and feet, put mustard poultices all over it, gave it nine calomel powders, leeched its temples, had it bled, gave it all kind of medicines, and yet, after a week's illness it died."

The Detroit Free Press tells of an Indian vagrant committed to the lock-up, slightly intoxicated, as jolly as a porcupine, who had no sooner laid down than he commenced to warble a song that all the other vagrants had to sit up on end and hold on by the cracks in the floor. It was high, "lo," guttural, piercing, and falsetto, and as the fellow refused to stop for breath anywhere, the janitor took the poker and tenderly soothed him to sleep. "Lo" will probably come back from the "echoless shore."

S. Bogue, who is perhaps the oldest man in Indiana, resides near Hopewell, Henry County. He is in his 108th year, can neither read nor write, but, being possessed of a remarkable memory, can relate incidents of the Revolutionary War, and can repeat many passages of Scripture, most of which he learned at his wife's knee when he was a young man. His sight and hearing have almost failed.

The editor of the Willimantic Journal has received the following epistle for advocating town assistance to the Air Line Railroad: "Windham, Ct., Sept. 18, 1870.—Editor; I want my paper stopped I can't stand it to have you telling me how to spend my money nor I won't. When you told folks to vote YES you over-stepped your oribority. As a public journalist I hold you've no rite to advocate what you do. Napolin you say is a grate man and I say he ain't, and your pinion ain't no better an mine. Railroads is a humbug. Taxes is a burden and yare a fule. Stop mi paper I'll never pay a nother cent. Yours, etc."
