

THE DESERET EVENING NEWS.

SALT LAKE CITY, UTAH TERRITORY, WEDNESDAY EVENING, AUGUST 28, 1874. NO. 235.

THE DESERET NEWS.
Published every evening except Sunday.

THE DESERET NEWS: SEMI-WEEKLY.
Published every Tuesday and Saturday.

DESERET NEWS: WEEKLY.
Published every Wednesday.

Terms for the Weekly:
One Copy, one year, $5.00
Three months, $1.50
Six months, $3.00

Office:—Cor. South and East Temple-sts.

THE NEWS BOOK AND JOB PRINTING OFFICE
Has superior facilities for the execution of all kinds of Book and Job Printing.

BOOK BINDING AND PAPER RULING
GEORGE Q. CANNON,
EDITOR & PUBLISHER.

OUR SUBSCRIBERS in the country can at any time ascertain the date on which their subscription expires by referring to the numbers attached to their names on their paper. For example, first day, fourth month, third year, or April 1st, 1874, 18-7-2 means July 15, 1874, &c.

BREVITIES.

Delphi, out in Indiana, has the following dog ordinance:

"Any dog that is not collared and labeled, nor have its narrative amputated one inch south of its ears!"

A Salisbury (Conn.) man recently hitched a yoke of oxen to a horse that was back in the harness."

"The horse was not put on firmly enough to test the question whether he or the oxen were the strongest."

An Irishman, with a heavy bundle on his shoulder, riding on the front of a horse-car, was asked why he did not get his bundle on the platform. He replied: "Be jabbers, the horses have enough to drag me!"

At a collection lately made at a charity fair a young lady offered the plate to a rich man who was noted for his stinginess. "I have nothing," was his curt answer.

"Then take something, sir," she replied; "you know I am begging for the poor."

It is said women would walk much better if they would pace up and down their room for an hour every day with a heavy book poised on their head, which it would soon give the most crooked person an erect and graceful figure.

The Sacramento Bee says that the financial condition of California was never better, and its health is excellent. Good crops and plenty of employment for all willing hands are the basis of all real prosperity, and these California is now blessed with.

At a marriage lately in Maine the bride's voice faltered, and she paused in the midst of the impressive ceremony. Her little niece, a bright little three-year old, thinking the naughty minister was compelling poor aunt to say something disagreeable, stamped her little foot and exclaimed in a tone of authority, "Aunt, don't say it!"

Till we have reflected on it, we are scarcely aware how much the sum of human happiness in the world is indebted to this one feeling—sympathy. We set ourselves to do good, and we do it, not how or when, from mere association with our fellow men, and from the looks reflected on us of gladness and keen enjoyment.

Smith thought it was morally wrong to use animals for food, and he tried to quit it and live on vegetables. One morning he gave way to temptation and walked into a butcher's shop.

"I don't know," said he, "that it's any harm to eat a piece of cow, it's dead and the matter can't be helped, but I'll be hanged if I ever eat another!"

To Remove Warts.—Take good iodine, such as is used by the laundress, work it in water, with a knife paring the surface of the wart so as to cause the blood to flow. Wipe off the blood and drop the iodine water on them. Repeat the operation until a second application. The iodine produces no pain whatever. I have used it recommended this cure to all who have warts, and have never known it to fail but once.—Rural New Yorker.

A man was urged to take out a policy for the benefit of his wife with an amount of five thousand dollars. He said, "My wife is old, and she never knew me to fail but once."

"Why my dear, you will, of course, not according to your own judgment, but in case of your decease, it would make me a most desirable widow."

A little girl came into my house one day, and some apple parings lay on a plate on the table. After sitting awhile she said:

"I smell apples!"

"Yes," I replied, "I guess you smell those apple parings on the plate."

"No, no!" said she, "I faint them I smell; I smell whole apples!"

The night is mother of the day, The winter of the spring, And ever upon the old decay, The greenest mosses cling.

Behind the clouds the starlight lurks, Through showers the sunbeams fall; For God, who loveth all His works, Has left His hope with all.

Let a young man go on from fifteen to thirty-five, robbing his body of natural sleep, racking it with the insubstantial employment of convivial life, feeding his nervous system by the abuse of such narcotics as tobacco, and such stimulants as alcohol, and he will find himself, deficient in mental vigor, lacking in physical endurance, and a prey to ten thousand weaknesses of mind and muscle.—G. H. Agnew, M. D.

An enthusiastic reporter on a Pennsylvania paper, in speaking of the bell of the evening, remarked that "the profusion and color of her hair would lead one to look upon it as though it was spun by nimble fingers of the east breeze, as they glide through the bright sunny days, whose many sunny rays of light had been caught in the meshes, and were content to go no further."

This was much better than saying that her hair was red.

In the Danish West Indies, whose people are not regarded as so intelligent as our own, they seem to have made an important improvement in the administration of the law to secure justice and diminish litigation.

They have established reconciling courts where opposing parties must appear and endeavor to reconcile their differences before they are permitted to come to suit at law.

A certificate from the reconciling court that it has failed in its efforts is an indispensable preliminary to the commencement of a legal contest and without which the plaintiff is immediately non-suited.

Two separate attempts to reconcile differences are made by the judges of the law to secure justice and diminish litigation. It is said that but little expense is attached to the process, and that the courts, and nine-tenths of the cases are thus settled.

By Telegraph.

WESTERN DISPATCHES.

SAN FRANCISCO, 27.—The following mining companies were incorporated to-day: Albert Silver Mining Company, $50,000; North Fork M. Co., no location given, $500,000; and North Fork M. Co., no location given, $500,000.

At Shasta, 27.—As W. H. Duren and fifteen passengers were coming from Redding, in a carriage, last night, in descending Middle Hill Creek, the carriage capsized, throwing them out. All were more or less injured, Duren in the hip. Prior to the accident, and while the carriage was being righted, the passengers were in danger, but the others are up and around. The team took fright and ran away, smashing the carriage.

The stock market broke lower than yesterday, but the market was quiet. The stock market broke lower than yesterday, but the market was quiet.

At a collection lately made at a charity fair a young lady offered the plate to a rich man who was noted for his stinginess. "I have nothing," was his curt answer.

"Then take something, sir," she replied; "you know I am begging for the poor."

It is said women would walk much better if they would pace up and down their room for an hour every day with a heavy book poised on their head, which it would soon give the most crooked person an erect and graceful figure.

The Sacramento Bee says that the financial condition of California was never better, and its health is excellent. Good crops and plenty of employment for all willing hands are the basis of all real prosperity, and these California is now blessed with.

At a marriage lately in Maine the bride's voice faltered, and she paused in the midst of the impressive ceremony. Her little niece, a bright little three-year old, thinking the naughty minister was compelling poor aunt to say something disagreeable, stamped her little foot and exclaimed in a tone of authority, "Aunt, don't say it!"

Till we have reflected on it, we are scarcely aware how much the sum of human happiness in the world is indebted to this one feeling—sympathy. We set ourselves to do good, and we do it, not how or when, from mere association with our fellow men, and from the looks reflected on us of gladness and keen enjoyment.

Smith thought it was morally wrong to use animals for food, and he tried to quit it and live on vegetables. One morning he gave way to temptation and walked into a butcher's shop.

"I don't know," said he, "that it's any harm to eat a piece of cow, it's dead and the matter can't be helped, but I'll be hanged if I ever eat another!"

To Remove Warts.—Take good iodine, such as is used by the laundress, work it in water, with a knife paring the surface of the wart so as to cause the blood to flow. Wipe off the blood and drop the iodine water on them. Repeat the operation until a second application. The iodine produces no pain whatever. I have used it recommended this cure to all who have warts, and have never known it to fail but once.—Rural New Yorker.

A man was urged to take out a policy for the benefit of his wife with an amount of five thousand dollars. He said, "My wife is old, and she never knew me to fail but once."

"Why my dear, you will, of course, not according to your own judgment, but in case of your decease, it would make me a most desirable widow."

A little girl came into my house one day, and some apple parings lay on a plate on the table. After sitting awhile she said:

"I smell apples!"

"Yes," I replied, "I guess you smell those apple parings on the plate."

"No, no!" said she, "I faint them I smell; I smell whole apples!"

The night is mother of the day, The winter of the spring, And ever upon the old decay, The greenest mosses cling.

Behind the clouds the starlight lurks, Through showers the sunbeams fall; For God, who loveth all His works, Has left His hope with all.

Let a young man go on from fifteen to thirty-five, robbing his body of natural sleep, racking it with the insubstantial employment of convivial life, feeding his nervous system by the abuse of such narcotics as tobacco, and such stimulants as alcohol, and he will find himself, deficient in mental vigor, lacking in physical endurance, and a prey to ten thousand weaknesses of mind and muscle.—G. H. Agnew, M. D.

An enthusiastic reporter on a Pennsylvania paper, in speaking of the bell of the evening, remarked that "the profusion and color of her hair would lead one to look upon it as though it was spun by nimble fingers of the east breeze, as they glide through the bright sunny days, whose many sunny rays of light had been caught in the meshes, and were content to go no further."

This was much better than saying that her hair was red.

In the Danish West Indies, whose people are not regarded as so intelligent as our own, they seem to have made an important improvement in the administration of the law to secure justice and diminish litigation.

They have established reconciling courts where opposing parties must appear and endeavor to reconcile their differences before they are permitted to come to suit at law.

A certificate from the reconciling court that it has failed in its efforts is an indispensable preliminary to the commencement of a legal contest and without which the plaintiff is immediately non-suited.

Two separate attempts to reconcile differences are made by the judges of the law to secure justice and diminish litigation. It is said that but little expense is attached to the process, and that the courts, and nine-tenths of the cases are thus settled.

By Telegraph.

WESTERN DISPATCHES.

SAN FRANCISCO, 27.—The following mining companies were incorporated to-day: Albert Silver Mining Company, $50,000; North Fork M. Co., no location given, $500,000; and North Fork M. Co., no location given, $500,000.

At Shasta, 27.—As W. H. Duren and fifteen passengers were coming from Redding, in a carriage, last night, in descending Middle Hill Creek, the carriage capsized, throwing them out. All were more or less injured, Duren in the hip. Prior to the accident, and while the carriage was being righted, the passengers were in danger, but the others are up and around. The team took fright and ran away, smashing the carriage.

The stock market broke lower than yesterday, but the market was quiet. The stock market broke lower than yesterday, but the market was quiet.

At a collection lately made at a charity fair a young lady offered the plate to a rich man who was noted for his stinginess. "I have nothing," was his curt answer.

"Then take something, sir," she replied; "you know I am begging for the poor."

It is said women would walk much better if they would pace up and down their room for an hour every day with a heavy book poised on their head, which it would soon give the most crooked person an erect and graceful figure.

The Sacramento Bee says that the financial condition of California was never better, and its health is excellent. Good crops and plenty of employment for all willing hands are the basis of all real prosperity, and these California is now blessed with.

At a marriage lately in Maine the bride's voice faltered, and she paused in the midst of the impressive ceremony. Her little niece, a bright little three-year old, thinking the naughty minister was compelling poor aunt to say something disagreeable, stamped her little foot and exclaimed in a tone of authority, "Aunt, don't say it!"

Till we have reflected on it, we are scarcely aware how much the sum of human happiness in the world is indebted to this one feeling—sympathy. We set ourselves to do good, and we do it, not how or when, from mere association with our fellow men, and from the looks reflected on us of gladness and keen enjoyment.

Smith thought it was morally wrong to use animals for food, and he tried to quit it and live on vegetables. One morning he gave way to temptation and walked into a butcher's shop.

"I don't know," said he, "that it's any harm to eat a piece of cow, it's dead and the matter can't be helped, but I'll be hanged if I ever eat another!"

To Remove Warts.—Take good iodine, such as is used by the laundress, work it in water, with a knife paring the surface of the wart so as to cause the blood to flow. Wipe off the blood and drop the iodine water on them. Repeat the operation until a second application. The iodine produces no pain whatever. I have used it recommended this cure to all who have warts, and have never known it to fail but once.—Rural New Yorker.

A man was urged to take out a policy for the benefit of his wife with an amount of five thousand dollars. He said, "My wife is old, and she never knew me to fail but once."

"Why my dear, you will, of course, not according to your own judgment, but in case of your decease, it would make me a most desirable widow."

A little girl came into my house one day, and some apple parings lay on a plate on the table. After sitting awhile she said:

"I smell apples!"

"Yes," I replied, "I guess you smell those apple parings on the plate."

"No, no!" said she, "I faint them I smell; I smell whole apples!"

The night is mother of the day, The winter of the spring, And ever upon the old decay, The greenest mosses cling.

Behind the clouds the starlight lurks, Through showers the sunbeams fall; For God, who loveth all His works, Has left His hope with all.

Let a young man go on from fifteen to thirty-five, robbing his body of natural sleep, racking it with the insubstantial employment of convivial life, feeding his nervous system by the abuse of such narcotics as tobacco, and such stimulants as alcohol, and he will find himself, deficient in mental vigor, lacking in physical endurance, and a prey to ten thousand weaknesses of mind and muscle.—G. H. Agnew, M. D.

An enthusiastic reporter on a Pennsylvania paper, in speaking of the bell of the evening, remarked that "the profusion and color of her hair would lead one to look upon it as though it was spun by nimble fingers of the east breeze, as they glide through the bright sunny days, whose many sunny rays of light had been caught in the meshes, and were content to go no further."

This was much better than saying that her hair was red.

In the Danish West Indies, whose people are not regarded as so intelligent as our own, they seem to have made an important improvement in the administration of the law to secure justice and diminish litigation.

They have established reconciling courts where opposing parties must appear and endeavor to reconcile their differences before they are permitted to come to suit at law.

A certificate from the reconciling court that it has failed in its efforts is an indispensable preliminary to the commencement of a legal contest and without which the plaintiff is immediately non-suited.

Two separate attempts to reconcile differences are made by the judges of the law to secure justice and diminish litigation. It is said that but little expense is attached to the process, and that the courts, and nine-tenths of the cases are thus settled.

By Telegraph.

WESTERN DISPATCHES.

SAN FRANCISCO, 27.—The following mining companies were incorporated to-day: Albert Silver Mining Company, $50,000; North Fork M. Co., no location given, $500,000; and North Fork M. Co., no location given, $500,000.

At Shasta, 27.—As W. H. Duren and fifteen passengers were coming from Redding, in a carriage, last night, in descending Middle Hill Creek, the carriage capsized, throwing them out. All were more or less injured, Duren in the hip. Prior to the accident, and while the carriage was being righted, the passengers were in danger, but the others are up and around. The team took fright and ran away, smashing the carriage.

The stock market broke lower than yesterday, but the market was quiet. The stock market broke lower than yesterday, but the market was quiet.

At a collection lately made at a charity fair a young lady offered the plate to a rich man who was noted for his stinginess. "I have nothing," was his curt answer.

"Then take something, sir," she replied; "you know I am begging for the poor."

It is said women would walk much better if they would pace up and down their room for an hour every day with a heavy book poised on their head, which it would soon give the most crooked person an erect and graceful figure.

The Sacramento Bee says that the financial condition of California was never better, and its health is excellent. Good crops and plenty of employment for all willing hands are the basis of all real prosperity, and these California is now blessed with.

At a marriage lately in Maine the bride's voice faltered, and she paused in the midst of the impressive ceremony. Her little niece, a bright little three-year old, thinking the naughty minister was compelling poor aunt to say something disagreeable, stamped her little foot and exclaimed in a tone of authority, "Aunt, don't say it!"

Till we have reflected on it, we are scarcely aware how much the sum of human happiness in the world is indebted to this one feeling—sympathy. We set ourselves to do good, and we do it, not how or when, from mere association with our fellow men, and from the looks reflected on us of gladness and keen enjoyment.

Smith thought it was morally wrong to use animals for food, and he tried to quit it and live on vegetables. One morning he gave way to temptation and walked into a butcher's shop.

"I don't know," said he, "that it's any harm to eat a piece of cow, it's dead and the matter can't be helped, but I'll be hanged if I ever eat another!"

To Remove Warts.—Take good iodine, such as is used by the laundress, work it in water, with a knife paring the surface of the wart so as to cause the blood to flow. Wipe off the blood and drop the iodine water on them. Repeat the operation until a second application. The iodine produces no pain whatever. I have used it recommended this cure to all who have warts, and have never known it to fail but once.—Rural New Yorker.

A man was urged to take out a policy for the benefit of his wife with an amount of five thousand dollars. He said, "My wife is old, and she never knew me to fail but once."

"Why my dear, you will, of course, not according to your own judgment, but in case of your decease, it would make me a most desirable widow."

A little girl came into my house one day, and some apple parings lay on a plate on the table. After sitting awhile she said:

"I smell apples!"

"Yes," I replied, "I guess you smell those apple parings on the plate."

"No, no!" said she, "I faint them I smell; I smell whole apples!"

The night is mother of the day, The winter of the spring, And ever upon the old decay, The greenest mosses cling.

Behind the clouds the starlight lurks, Through showers the sunbeams fall; For God, who loveth all His works, Has left His hope with all.

Let a young man go on from fifteen to thirty-five, robbing his body of natural sleep, racking it with the insubstantial employment of convivial life, feeding his nervous system by the abuse of such narcotics as tobacco, and such stimulants as alcohol, and he will find himself, deficient in mental vigor, lacking in physical endurance, and a prey to ten thousand weaknesses of mind and muscle.—G. H. Agnew, M. D.

An enthusiastic reporter on a Pennsylvania paper, in speaking of the bell of the evening, remarked that "the profusion and color of her hair would lead one to look upon it as though it was spun by nimble fingers of the east breeze, as they glide through the bright sunny days, whose many sunny rays of light had been caught in the meshes, and were content to go no further."

This was much better than saying that her hair was red.

In the Danish West Indies, whose people are not regarded as so intelligent as our own, they seem to have made an important improvement in the administration of the law to secure justice and diminish litigation.

They have established reconciling courts where opposing parties must appear and endeavor to reconcile their differences before they are permitted to come to suit at law.

A certificate from the reconciling court that it has failed in its efforts is an indispensable preliminary to the commencement of a legal contest and without which the plaintiff is immediately non-suited.

Two separate attempts to reconcile differences are made by the judges of the law to secure justice and diminish litigation. It is said that but little expense is attached to the process, and that the courts, and nine-tenths of the cases are thus settled.

By Telegraph.

WESTERN DISPATCHES.

SAN FRANCISCO, 27.—The following mining companies were incorporated to-day: Albert Silver Mining Company, $50,000; North Fork M. Co., no location given, $500,000; and North Fork M. Co., no location given, $500,000.

At Shasta, 27.—As W. H. Duren and fifteen passengers were coming from Redding, in a carriage, last night, in descending Middle Hill Creek, the carriage capsized, throwing them out. All were more or less injured, Duren in the hip. Prior to the accident, and while the carriage was being righted, the passengers were in danger, but the others are up and around. The team took fright and ran away, smashing the carriage.

The stock market broke lower than yesterday, but the market was quiet. The stock market broke lower than yesterday, but the market was quiet.

At a collection lately made at a charity fair a young lady offered the plate to a rich man who was noted for his stinginess. "I have nothing," was his curt answer.

"Then take something, sir," she replied; "you know I am begging for the poor."

It is said women would walk much better if they would pace up and down their room for an hour every day with a heavy book poised on their head, which it would soon give the most crooked person an erect and graceful figure.

The Sacramento Bee says that the financial condition of California was never better, and its health is excellent. Good crops and plenty of employment for all willing hands are the basis of all real prosperity, and these California is now blessed with.

At a marriage lately in Maine the bride's voice faltered, and she paused in the midst of the impressive ceremony. Her little niece, a bright little three-year old, thinking the naughty minister was compelling poor aunt to say something disagreeable, stamped her little foot and exclaimed in a tone of authority, "Aunt, don't say it!"

Till we have reflected on it, we are scarcely aware how much the sum of human happiness in the world is indebted to this one feeling—sympathy. We set ourselves to do good, and we do it, not how or when, from mere association with our fellow men, and from the looks reflected on us of gladness and keen enjoyment.

Smith thought it was morally wrong to use animals for food, and he tried to quit it and live on vegetables. One morning he gave way to temptation and walked into a butcher's shop.

"I don't know," said he, "that it's any harm to eat a piece of cow, it's dead and the matter can't be helped, but I'll be hanged if I ever eat another!"

To Remove Warts.—Take good iodine, such as is used by the laundress, work it in water, with a knife paring the surface of the wart so as to cause the blood to flow. Wipe off the blood and drop the iodine water on them. Repeat the operation until a second application. The iodine produces no pain whatever. I have used it recommended this cure to all who have warts, and have never known it to fail but once.—Rural New Yorker.

A man was urged to take out a policy for the benefit of his wife with an amount of five thousand dollars. He said, "My wife is old, and she never knew me to fail but once."

"Why my dear, you will, of course, not according to your own judgment, but in case of your decease, it would make me a most desirable widow."

A little girl came into my house one day, and some apple parings lay on a plate on the table. After sitting awhile she said:

"I smell apples!"

"Yes," I replied, "I guess you smell those apple parings on the plate."

"No, no!" said she, "I faint them I smell; I smell whole apples!"

The night is mother of the day, The winter of the spring, And ever upon the old decay, The greenest mosses cling.

Behind the clouds the starlight lurks, Through showers the sunbeams fall; For God, who loveth all His works, Has left His hope with all.

Let a young man go on from fifteen to thirty-five, robbing his body of natural sleep, racking it with the insubstantial employment of convivial life, feeding his nervous system by the abuse of such narcotics as tobacco, and such stimulants as alcohol, and he will find himself, deficient in mental vigor, lacking in physical endurance, and a prey to ten thousand weaknesses of mind and muscle.—G. H. Agnew, M. D.

An enthusiastic reporter on a Pennsylvania paper, in speaking of the bell of the evening, remarked that "the profusion and color of her hair would lead one to look upon it as though it was spun by nimble fingers of the east breeze, as they glide through the bright sunny days, whose many sunny rays of light had been caught in the meshes, and were content to go no further."

This was much better than saying that her hair was red.

In the Danish West Indies, whose people are not regarded as so intelligent as our own, they seem to have made an important improvement in the administration of the law to secure justice and diminish litigation.

They have established reconciling courts where opposing parties must appear and endeavor to reconcile their differences before they are permitted to come to suit at law.

A certificate from the reconciling court that it has failed in its efforts is an indispensable preliminary to the commencement of a legal contest and without which the plaintiff is immediately non-suited.

Two separate attempts to reconcile differences are made by the judges of the law to secure justice and diminish litigation. It is said that but little expense is attached to the process, and that the courts, and nine-tenths of the cases are thus settled.

By Telegraph.

WESTERN DISPATCHES.

SAN FRANCISCO, 27.—The following mining companies were incorporated to-day: Albert Silver Mining Company, $50,000; North Fork M. Co., no location given, $500,000; and North Fork M. Co., no location given, $500,000.

At Shasta, 27.—As W. H. Duren and fifteen passengers were coming from Redding, in a carriage, last night, in descending Middle Hill Creek, the carriage capsized, throwing them out. All were more or less injured, Duren in the hip. Prior to the accident, and while the carriage was being righted, the passengers were in danger, but the others are up and around. The team took fright and ran away, smashing the carriage.

The stock market broke lower than yesterday, but the market was quiet. The stock market broke lower than yesterday, but the market was quiet.

At a collection lately made at a charity fair a young lady offered the plate to a rich man who was noted for his stinginess. "I have nothing," was his curt answer.

"Then take something, sir," she replied; "you know I am begging for the poor."

It is said women would walk much better if they would pace up and down their room for an hour every day with a heavy book poised on their head, which it would soon give the most crooked person an erect and graceful figure.

The Sacramento Bee says that the financial condition of California was never better, and its health is excellent. Good crops and plenty of employment for all willing hands are the basis of all real prosperity, and these California is now blessed with.

At a marriage lately in Maine the bride's voice faltered, and she paused in the midst of the impressive ceremony. Her little niece, a bright little three-year old, thinking the naughty minister was compelling poor aunt to say something disagreeable, stamped her little foot and exclaimed in a tone of authority, "Aunt, don't say it!"

Till we have reflected on it, we are scarcely aware how much the sum of human happiness in the world is indebted to this one feeling—sympathy. We set ourselves to do good, and we do it, not how or when, from mere association with our fellow men, and from the looks reflected on us of gladness and keen enjoyment.

Smith thought it was morally wrong to use animals for food, and he tried to quit it and live