THE BETTER WAY. the Atlantic. Doring his delightful talk at the Constituted able burgards. as well as in the Talacranch because as sought to impress this convenient apen married life, and this should be his heavers. The American Coch besaid, had been preved could to may test that can be not apon if But place in naval strangth because Cons grees refused to authorise the construction of only two ships when four were asked for. This he regretted.

And he heped that the American prople would sand men to Congress who are in favor of more ships. If we want pears. he said, give as ships and his legal course through the discourse was will guarantee than there will be shown. He thought it would be thus shough to discourse whenever we shall get word that the Millerinium has actually course the appartunity offered. Hans Percs should take a tip from him."

Now, Admiral Evans is authority on all questions relating to the navy-He efficiency and its needs-and there are, pechaps, few greater authorities on such matters, but when it comes to deciding what is the best guarantee of peace tils reasoning is not necesserily in fallshie. For instance when the necessity of keeping up with European powers is hinted at no necount is taken of the fact that these powers must be armed to the meth because they are in danger of atfacts on account of the policy of landgrabbing they have followed in times part. This country is not be danger of kitnek. Since 1784, we have had only two wars with European powers, One was with England and the other with Spain. The latter country did not altack us. We made the attack and removed our adversary from this hemisable to do so for more than a hundred years past without the aid of Dread-

That peace can be kept by an agreement to disarm, just as well as by a race for naval supremuey, was proved by the treaty entered into between Great Britain and this country regarding the naval strength to the one vessel on Lake Oblavie, not to exesed 160 tons; two vessels in the upper lakes, of the same burden; one simthat vessel on Lake Champlain; all other vessels to be at once dismunited, and no other war vessels to be built or armed along the St. Lawrence river or the Great Lukes.

After the war of 1812, the intention of both powers was to build fortifications and construct ships on the Lakes. Hundreds of men were emplayed in the navy yards. Then two men went together. One was the Quaker, Rush, of Philadelphia, acting secretary of state; the other was the British embaseador in Washington, Charles Pagest. These formulated a document that stopped at once further ship-building for war purposes and secured peace for these many yeurs along the Caratina border

It is, modoubledity, true that strong mayy is a powerful argument for peace, but it is equally true that peace can be secured by treating just no well, and that he the better way.

PREECE HEARD PROM AGAIN.

In Chicago sixty civits after a period of absence from this entered the light, and it is likely country, but many were new comets. During the first two months of 1908, thu emigrants from New York, to Europe exceeded the immigrants in number by 103,000, whereas for January and Februney of this year the arrivals have exceeded the departures by 100,600.

The principal sources of the February immigration were, Austria-Hungary, $2,000; Haly, 20,500; the United Kingdom, 8.800, and Germany, 1,186. The large number from Austria-Hungary may possibly be accounted for, partially at lang, by the report uncest in the Balkans, where war has been throatening for some time. But, asids. from that, the transportation companies have spread rumors about the return of prosperity in this country, and that always attracts laborers with low wages in the Old World.

We hope they will find ample work, for the employment of labor means prosperity. There is reason to suppose that the demand for agricultural labor will be greater than ever in the West. and South and there is promise of unusual activity in railroad construction in several parts of the country. The building reports from different cities foreshadow great activity in that line, and factories are quite generally reportpacity. With the tariff discussion out of the way, there should be a rapid industrial advance in every direction.
