

Infirm, believed Mrs. Stewart was sincerely charitable in making the donation. The trouble was, she said, with Judge Hilton. He took advantage of his position to cast an insult at the Hebrews.

FOREIGN.

LONDON, 17.—A communication from the admiralty declares that there is no truth, whatever in the report of an interview with the Duke of Edinburgh, while at Halifax, published recently in a New York journal, in which his royal highness was made to say that he looked upon the author of England's new policy with feelings of the utmost disgust; that the acquisition of Cyprus was in no sense a gain, and that the 101st regiment was nearly all sick since it went there and lost a great many men in consequence.

LONDON, 18.—During the final debate in the House of Commons, last night, Sir Stafford Northcote said he considered that under ordinary circumstances India should bear the expense of the hostilities with her immediate neighbors, but the case would be different if a distant enemy was moving on India, because that would be hostility to the empire. He trusted that the war was nearly concluded. They would be better informed in a month as to its real extent and significance.

A St. Petersburg dispatch says: The Russian mission at Cabul has been formally and officially withdrawn.

Lahore, 18.—Lord Lytton, yesterday, reviewed 3,000 auxiliaries furnished by native princes. He made a speech, in which he declared that Great Britain was never an ungenerous foe, but justice must precede generosity. He hoped the Ameer, warned by his ministers, would render unnecessary further operations. The auxiliaries will go to Peshawur on Saturday, to guard the communications of the Khyber column. The Cashmere contingent is absent. He said they are required for the annexation of Chitral or Little Cachaga, and portions of Bajour and Swat, which is sanctioned by the British.

It is reported that General MacPherson's brigade has occupied Jellalabad.

A correspondent at Dadur says: General Stewart has sent pressing orders for all the troops to advance as speedily as possible. This probably means an advance on Candahar.

Zubina & Company, iron ore importers, of Cardiff and Newport, have failed, in consequence of the stoppage of the tin plate works of Booker & Company, near Swansea, whose bills Zubina & Co. held in large amount. This failure will considerably increase the liabilities of the West of England and South Wales District bank.

The Times says: The firms which have lately failed are believed to have been kept going by the banks long after they should have gone into liquidation. A rather better feeling prevails in Sweden now, but it is feared the bank managers there have been no wiser than in other parts of Europe, and hold too many securities and too small a proportion of capital.

CONSTANTINOPLE, 18.—The American consul will wait some days for the Porte's reply to his call for charges against Romer, and then, if he fails to receive an answer, will release Romer.

The Servians and Montenegrins have concentrated on their respective frontiers. The Turkish commanders have been ordered to watch their movements.

Correspondence.

N. Y. Dec. 9th, 1878.

Editors Deseret News:

I have been in New York for ten days past, for the purpose of attending the sale of the genealogical library, referred to in a former communication. It proceeded every afternoon from Dec. 2d, to Dec. 6th inclusive, during which the books were rattled off at a surprisingly lively rate. All genealogical works brought good prices, about the same as they can be bought for at private sale. I bought a number for my Utah correspondents.

On yesterday (Sunday) morning, Elder Orson Pratt, accompanied by Elder B. S. Young, arrived in New York. During the day, I called upon them, finding them in good health and spirits. They secured excellent quarters in the Wyoming, to-day, and were to go aboard to-night, as the vessel will sail before day-break to-morrow morning, on account of the tide.

The weather is rainy, but not rough, and I trust the brethren will have a pleasant voyage.

I have heard of a good opening for missionary work in New Jersey, and, by Elder Pratt's advice, will, before returning to Boston, take a trip to Monmouth County, that State, and see what can be done in the way of preaching the gospel to the people. I also wish to search some records in that State.

Your Brother,

B. F. CUMMINGS, JR.

The old routine in Congress—The fiery oration that Senator Blaine did not make—A dry speech on a wet day—Solid work in the House—The President and a Senator shake hands across the chasm—Both the Army and the Indian Bureau worsened—Who shall have the Attorney General's place?—Senator Thurman's coup d'etat.

WASHINGTON, D. C.,

Dec. 11, 1878.

Editors Deseret News:

Congress has settled down to its regular gait, and jogs on toward the holidays, now passing solid appropriation bills of a few millions, now discussing one of the many branches of the financial question, occasionally stimulating itself with frantic orations on the ever-ready southern question, coquetting with the Pacific Railroad subsidy, and yawning over everything.

On Monday it was expected that Senator Blaine would deliver his oration on the bill that he proposed on the first day of Congress, but, instead of an eloquent and fiery speech from Mr. Blaine, the galleries, crowded for the occasion, were forced to listen to a very able, but rather dry argument from Senator Edmunds, in favor of his bill for changing the manner of electing the president and vice-president. Then Mr. Windom, of Minnesota, who has the reputation of being the handsomest senator, made a speech in favor of a bill for compensating inventors by some other plan than the royalty system, now in vogue.

At the other end of the Capitol some interesting episodes enlivened the rainy day. Mr. Page, of California, proposed to reduce the representation of South Carolina to two members of Congress, because of the alleged disfranchisement of some of her colored citizens. The House put in a good day's work and passed two appropriation bills, the naval and the diplomatic. There was some debate on the diplomatic bill. An amendment to increase the salaries of ministers to France, Germany, Russia and England to $17,500 was proposed by Mr. Hale and supported by the republicans generally and also by a few democrats, but it was finally rejected.

Senator Edmunds' argument in favor of changing the electoral law was able, like the utterances of that senator; but, after a canvass of the views of prominent senators, it does not appear that he has effected any change of opinion on this subject. The democrats insist that the present law for the election of President is good enough, and the republicans are by no means unanimous for a change. Perhaps the true reason of senatorial apathy, on what seemed so important a question one year ago, is that there are so many presidential aspirants in that body, each of whom imagines that his prospects will be injured by tampering with a system that has failed but once in a century.

It appears that the protracted fight between the Executive and Senator Conkling has at length ended; the senator has recently said that he will no longer oppose the President's nominations for the New York Custom House, since it can only tend to the division of the republican party. Senator Conkling's friends consider his return to the Senate assured.

The bitterness of the fight between Secretary Schurz and the army officers, over the transfer of the Indian Bureau, increases daily, while criminations and recriminations come thick and fast. The result is that a flood of light is being thrown on the subject, and both the Army and the Indian Bureau are proved to be grave offenders against decency and honesty.

Just now the sensation in political circles is the resignation of Attorney General Devens. He has expressed his determination to resign at an early day, and also his desire to be appointed to the judgeship made vacant by the death of Judge Shipley, of Maine. It is not yet decided who will have the place of Gen. Devens. C. B. Lawrence, of Illinois, has been mentioned for the place, as have also Senators Edmunds and Hoar, and Representative Eugene Hall, of Maine.

Among other subjects of political interest discussed in the hotels and in the corridors of the Capitol, is the report that Senator Thurman will be the next democratic candidate for governor of Ohio. His prominence as the acknowledged leader of his party in the Senate, and his popularity in his own State, have made him, perhaps, the most conspicuous presidential candidate in the democratic party. His star appeared to suffer a declination in the late congressional election, when his own State gave a small majority against his party; but this, his friends say, was on account of the greenback division. Still it is admitted that he would make but an indifferent appearance at the National Democratic Convention unsupported by his own State, and the argument is that this is his opportunity for a bold coup d'etat, the tide in his affairs that leads on to the presidency of the United States. SANFORD'S RADICAL CURE.

Messrs. Weeks & Potter: Gentlemen—I feel compelled to acknowledge to you the great benefit SANFORD'S RADICAL CURE has been to me. For ten years I have been afflicted with this loathsome disease, and especially in the winter time has it been most severe. The discharge has been thick and bloody, emitting a foul odor so bad that my presence in a room with others was very offensive to them. One week after commencing the use of SANFORD'S RADICAL CURE I was not troubled with it at all. My senses of taste and smell, which were wholly gone, have now fully returned, and my general health is much improved. Yours,
MELBOURNE H. FORD,

LATER.

Gentlemen: The package of SANFORD'S CURE arrived hereto-night right. I don't know what I should have done if it had not been for this remedy. You can refer any one you choose to me, and I will cheerfully inform them in detail as to the benefit the remedy has been to me. Yours,
