

CLIPPINGS.

—A man and his wife, and son, and a cat and a cock, and a hen, and three pigeons, and four pigs and a large bear, and a badger, all live snugly in a single room in Chester, about nine feet square. They improve the salubrity of this enviable apartment by the fragrant trade of smoking herrings. So says an English paper published in 1792.

—Wine, called Valerio, two thousand years old, has been dug out of the ruins of Pompeii.

—The weekly allowance to paupers made by the English Poor Law Board is 112 ounces bread, 4 do. cheese, 7 do. butter, 16 do. meat, pudding and vegetables; 1 ounce tea, made into 7 pints. But I declare this, that the Emperor of the French is the only sovereign who has held out a hand to me in my distress."

—Corn is being used in lieu of coal, in some parts of Illinois, and is found an excellent substitute. In the districts referred to, corn is 12 1-2 cents per bushel, and coal from 15 to 17 cents. Not only is the difference in price in favor of corn, but a bushel of it gives more heat than a bushel of coal.

—A member of the Illinois Legislature had the satisfaction of creating a decided sensation one day during the last session. Having expressed himself with much emphasis on a question before the House, he attempted to resume his seat, but forgetting that he had moved it back, was astonished at finding himself on the floor. Above the shout of laughter which ensued, his voice was heard asserting that he still "had the floor."

He was sentenced to twenty-years imprisonment, and to pay a fine of $20,000. He had served nineteen months. The fine was remitted by the pardon. His crime was forging applications for land warrants." The Ex-President was very merciful to plunderers of the treasury, and to those who swindled the government in any way, during his administration.

—The guests of the Indianapolis Hotel, were startled one night not long since by the efforts of an unsophisticated young country girl to stab a gentleman in the parlor who had lured her from her home under promise of marriage. Save your Paper Rags.

The inhabitants of Utah are requested to gather up and save their worn out wagon covers, and every description of cotton and linen rags for paper making, and deliver them, from time to time, to the Bishops of the several Wards, or the "News" and "Mountaineer" Offices or their agents, for which, when clean, they will be allowed five cents a pound.
