PACIFIC COAST NOTE

In a land quarrel at Quartz Valley, California, on Saturday, a man named Carrillo, was killed.

Pedro N. Sanchez, a wealthy merchant of Guatemala, and his family, were killed in a fire at San Francisco, Saturday afternoon.

The California papers handle with out gloves the New York Herald for the latter's publication of a sensational story about Governor Stanford.

On Sunday, Dec. 21st, at Needles, California, Jack Burke jumped off a moving freight train and was caught and run over, receiving fatal injuries.

Trouble exists in the geologic field at Winton, Sonoma County, California, the present postmaster refusing to give the office to the man applied to succeed him.

About 10 o'clock on Saturday night, a fire broke out at the residence of a family in the city of San Francisco, California, and the fire spread rapidly, destroying the residence and the property therein.

Last Saturday night, at John McQuinn's residence, near Reno, Nevada, a passenger train struck and killed a man, and the train was derailed.

Wm. Redmond, employed at the Union Iron Works, Berkeley, Cal., as an assistant of machinery, on Friday evening, about 7 o'clock, fell from a roof, and was killed.

In Sacramento, two years ago, there were 120 saloons, and 120 saloons in liquor saloons—a total of 240, or one saloon to every 60 persons, and one to every 100 in 1903.

During the time the anti-Chinese agitation was at its height in Sacramento on Sunday last it was a noticeable fact that no Chinaman was to be seen in the streets. An American, who was in the city at the time, was asked by a Chinaman, who was in the city at the time, why he was not in the city.

On Sunday, December 20th, as Edward E. Taylor was riding down a hill in a hurry, in Sacramento, he fell from a horse and was killed.

Directly afterwards he heard the report of a gun or pistol. He soon found that he had received a wound in the chest, and he was killed.

TRUTH STORY.
A REMARKABLE MARRIAGE, HAS HARDLY A PARALLEL IN ALL HISTORY.

Many decades ago a vessel from Boston arrived at a dock in London. Among the hands on board was one named Tudor, a steady, well-looking fellow, who was as good as a sailor.

Very early one morning a young, beautiful and decently dressed woman came on board, and she was the wife of Tudor.

The woman was the wife of Tudor, and she was the wife of Tudor.

THEY MET BY CHANCE.—Scene I.—A side walk between Barnes & Davis and Tenth and Eleventh streets.

Dramatis Personae.—A young gentleman named a thousand miles from the President's office, facing west, in eager conversation with another gentleman. A buxom young woman wearing her way northward in pursuit of Christmas gifts.

ACT I.—The latter raises her petite foot and presses forward in order to cross the muddy chasm. The young gentleman, having finished his conversation, wheels suddenly to the south just in time to clasp the lady in his arms—Mutual apologies.

ACT II.—The young lady blushes and turns round to see whether it was intentional or not.

ACT III.—The young lady turns once more to assure herself that the young man is not laughing in his sleeve.

CURTAIN.

A Happy Time.—An enjoyable Christmas party was had at the residence of Prof. H. C. White, on the evening of the 24th inst., the occasion being the birthday anniversary of one of the pupils in the department for the study of the German language. Nearly all the pupils, with a sprinkling of other young people, were present and indulged in various games of amusement, such as forfeits, clasp out, Copenhagen, etc. It was the first gathering they had ever attended as a body and was enjoyed by all for their special benefit by Mrs. White. The evening was wound up with refreshments and sweets. Mr. John Beck, of Lehi, was present at the party in honor of his son Joseph, and was pleased at witnessing the enjoyment of the "children of science."

Indian Ravages.—Toranzo Wright and his brother Seth Wright, formerly of St. John, but lately residing at Layton, Graham Co., Arizona, were a few days ago killed by Indians. It appears that nearly all the two brothers were at a Mormon meeting in the evening, and during the time of meeting the Indians stole some horses, among which two belonged to the Wrights. Wright's brother had been stolen by Mormons, the two Wrights in pursuit of the stolen horses, and were killed by the Indians.

These pictures illustrate the wisdom of the Mormon policy: to travel in large companies, well organized, and to travel in large companies, well organized, and to travel in large companies, well organized.

The Snake River Country.—Bro. David R. Gill, who has been on a trip to the Snake River country in the interest of the Jerusalem Journal, has brought back with him some samples of the products of that region which ought to be sufficient to satisfy even the most skeptical as to the productivity of the soil and the adaptability of the climate. Among these are turnips, rutabagas, radishes and onions from the garden of Charles Keppner of Rexburg, that are of large size and as good as any.

MR. "TELEPHONE" BELL.
HIS ROMANTIC CAREER FROM COUNTRY SCHOOL TO THE MANAGEMENT OF MILLIONS.

Carp in Cleveland Leader: Prof. Bell, the inventor of the telephone, is a remarkable man. He was born in a poor family, and he was a poor man.
