HOUSE. WASHINGTON, 13 .- The army bill was taken up and Ewing addressed the House.

At the conclusion of Ewing's been accepted in an amicable spirit and respectful consideration, and that a satisfactory solution can be reasonably anticipated from the ne-which met with a slight burst of ap-dause on the republican side, when gotiations thus opened and in prohe incidentally alluded to General gress. No correspondence on the Grant as a possible next President, a subject has been had with the Gov-vote was taken on the amendment erriment of Great Britain, nor does vote was taken on the amendment relative to troops at the polls and it was agreed to, years 116, nays 95—a party vote.

Ewing was surprised that the democrats were criticized for not debating this question, for the republicans at extra session had voted for this very amendment which was a republican amendment. During 12 years the republican party had placed on republicans bills 287 political riclers. Although not much in favor of it he did not tremble lest ward's residence in Pekin, and the favor of it he did not tremble lest the republicans should arraign the democrats this fall for doing the same. He proceeded to vindicate the characters and purposes of the consumer to the characters and purposes of the consumer to the two consumers to the tree consumers to the tree consumers the tree consumers to the tree consum the character and purpose of the concurrence between the two gov-various riders put on bills by the ernments may be anticipated, has democrats as eminently patriotic, economic and necessary. He asserted that Robeson's State had on its statute books a provision in exactly the same words as this amendment which Robeson characterized ment which Robeson characterize ment which Robeson characterized so severely. Another President might not be so goody-goody as President Hayes, and might use his troops at the polls. He might be a man of ambition; might be General Grant. (Republicans slightly applanted, and cries of "It will.") The good length of the properties of gentleman from Iowa (McCord) had stated that American troops at American polls had no alarm for him. He would be ashamed of the other side if it could canniy utter extend to the Union Pacific, Central Pacific and their collateral branches, that portion of the act granting rights of way to railroads such words and feel such a senti-

If liberty was so de Whether or not the republicans succeeded in breaking down the safe-guards of liberty and turning over the Presidency to whom it may please, ignoring a million and a half of soldiers who had done fighting, those who believed in the use of troops at the polls should not be permitted, could not excuse their failure to make this fight which would be presented to the public on the stump.

After some further incidents and liseuscion the question recurred on he bill and amendments. The ulnor amendments were adopted, and that respecting troops at polls by a strict party vote, 116 to 95. The bill then passed, 118 to 95, a strict party vote except Nichols who voted
