Information Wanted. - Information is wanted concerning the widow of Robert Chatter, who was formerly President of the Durham Conference, England. Please address W. J. Odell, Box 1023, Salt Lake City, and oblige Mary Jane and Hannah Pettigrew, grandchildren of the deceased. Mr. Mitchell Salt please copy.

The Specialty Stars. - The Leavitt specialties continue to draw big houses at the Theatre. Last night a change of programme was given and the performance was as highly enjoyed as ever. This and to-morrow witness this wonderful company of stars. They are among the tip-top troupes traveling.

A Close Call. - On Sunday afternoon, Messrs. William Pellens and Louis Werner had a close call for their lives. They were going on a pleasure drive up Ogden canyon. Near the mouth of the canyon they met teams going down, some of which they passed all right, but on backing on a subsequent crossing they unfortunately took the wrong side of the street, and before they could regain control of the concern, the hind wheels of the vehicle ran off the bank, the horse shied, and the whole conveyance and occupants were hurled down into the roaring river, where they floated for some time, the white-foaming current carrying them along. Pellens' intellects.

The gentlemen finally succeeded in climbing on to large boulders in the eddy spray, where they clung with desperate grip until they were released from the very jaws of death by parties happening along. The two men were drenched to the bones, bleeding profusely, chilled to the marrow, and almost exhausted. Mr. Pellens was at his post again this morning, and elsewhere were such as to confine him to his bed. The horse was killed and the buggy all smashed up. - Ogden Herald.

From New Zealand. - Elder Ephraim Ralphs, of Brigham City, who returned on the 29th ult., from a mission to New Zealand, called in this morning and reported his labors. He left here the 14th of November, 1883, and proceeded at once to Auckland, where he was appointed to labor on the south of "Middle Island," and remained there until the 4th of last March, when he was released to return. The island had been almost entirely traversed by the Elders, and was prospect among Europeans, and was not very big commencing among the native Maoris on the North Island. Brother Ralphs baptized a number of persons, all whites, and was not abused nor interfered with to any extent in his labors. In some instances he received excellent treatment. The press and pulpit were generally opposed to their favor had been published.

Elder Ralphs enjoyed good health, better than most of the Elders there, and returned with a company of 12, some, as stated several days ago in this paper.

STEPHENS' CONCERT.

A VERY CREDIBLE ENTERTAINMENT.

In the neighborhood of 5,000 people assembled at the Tabernacle last evening, as listeners to the grand amateur concert arranged by Evan Stephens. The body of the vast hall was nearly filled and the galleries, had a very fair showing. The concert was advertised to commence promptly at half-past 7, but by the time 3.30 had arrived, with no demonstration as yet in the vicinity of the platform, which was as empty of life as it had been an hour before, the audience began to think somebody's watch had stopped, or the promoter was a little off, "or else the hour of commencing had been changed to 7.30 A.M.; when all at once the great organ with Mr. Daynes as presiding genius, pealed forth the grand march prelude, at the first strains of which multitudinous concourse of children bearing flags began to appear from behind each corner of the organ-as if the mammoth instrument, like the Trojan horse of old, was pouring forth armed warriors from its interior-and proceeded to "die into the show" as on these occasions the conductor's start. Mr. Daynes had been present for some time, and now Mr. Stephens and the orchestra came in sight and the concert commenced.

Following a prayer by Apostle Erasmus, the first vocal number on the programme was a duet choros from "Ernani" rendered by the full company. Something nice and substantial in the way of iron bedsteads, a new line in Utah perhaps, but quite common in England, has been introduced as a home manufacture by Ephraim J. Bench, late of Birmingham, but now of this city. He is an experienced foundryman and a worker, has been in this country about seven years, and has entered into the enterprise with a most worthy of substantial recognition.

A news reporter visited his workshop at the Church Foundry, 18th Ward, yesterday, and saw perhaps a dozen bedsteads in course of completion, and one elegantly ornamented with brass and bronze moldings. The entire frame being of cast iron, and with sheet iron slats crossed and forming an excellent spring. His work should be seen and will then be appreciated. He offers his bedsteads at the exceedingly moderate price of $15.
