CALLED DOWN.

It was a balmy spring afternoon. The foliage on the trees never looked more beautiful, and truly the Wissahickon was a place for the esthetic in nature. It was Sunday, and the still of the Sabbath pervaded the entire atmosphere. All the environments were conducive to quiet and rest, to beauty and serenity. Calmly seated on a stump of a tree, a little fellow had thrown out a line into the rushing waters and was anxiously awaiting a first bite. Slowly and apprehensively a lone woman was seen coming up the east side of the creek. Beholding this denizen of the woods at his work, she pounced upon him.

The children during their school life, must be made to feel the effect of good literature. The relation between the school and life must be shown him; for school is not one thing and life another; they are one and identical. The student that is tardy at school will be tardy a life; the student that is a shirker a the school room will be a shirker in life. symbols, for instance, those conventionsigns, must be interpreted. But afer that, it is a question of vision, of sitting pictures. Then comes the emo-tion suggested by the picture; and this s the spirit of literature.

The only art that most of our children tan set is literature. They will probably see a great painting; only a reproduction. They may never see great ar-clitecture. The chances are against their hearing any great music; that is, the steatest compositions executed by the reatest masters. But every day, and for a small price, they may have the matest literature. They may enter into the best thoughts of the best men, written in the most beautiful form; fer literature cannot be separated from beauty. It is a beautiful thought ex. pressed in a beautiful manner. It is, moreover; the only means of

But if he has a love for literature, two of the bases of the base of the e three-poems even that are great, he may be left largely, to his own re-sumes. Literature is, in addition, a refuge in our troubles. On occasions when we are depressed, and there is no when we are depressed, and there is no nedy in the conversation of we may sit down to a favorite our cok and get a stimulus that we could ain in no other way and that will lise us out of ourselves as we would a faised by nothing else. CHARGED WITH ASSAULT. James Carroll Arrested for Kicking Aged Miner in the Face.

James Carroll, an east Second South street saloon proprietor, was arrested last night for assaulting Steve Canty, a miner aged 50, because he refused to pay for a drink. It is alleged that the barkeeper began Canty's punishment and Carroll finished by standing Canty, who was very drunk, against the wall and kicking him in the face. When brought to the police station, Canty had a terrible bruise over his left eye. Carroll put up $50 to secure his appearance in court today.

Another Salt Lake boy has won distinction in the east. This time it is Ellas Ashton, son of Bishop Ashton, who is now studying law at the University of Chicago and was recently awarded first prize on thought and composition in the oratorical contest held in connection with the institution. Mr. Ashton's theme was "Alexander Hamilton" and he handled it in masterly style and with a clear and thorough knowledge of the subject treated. The young man is a graduate of the Lat-ter-day Saints' university and entered the Chicago school last September.

FOUND DEAD.

Patrick Kinselle Expires in His Room At the St. Elmo Hotel.

Patrick Kinselle, aged about 73 years, was found lying dead on the floor of his room at the St. Elmo hotel, about 7 o'clock last evening by Arthur Magill, one of the inmates of the hotel.

The door of the old man's room was left partly open, and as Magill was passing the room he noticed the man's body lying on the floor. He hastily entered and found that Kinselle was dead. Magill quickly notified the proprietor, ner Clark was also notified and took charge of the remains. So far as known the old man had no relatives.

He had been feeling ill for several days, and it is believed that he arose from bed last evening, opened the door and then fell dead. He was undressed, and nothing about the room was disturbed in the least. The old man came to this country from Ireland many years ago and engaged in mining. At one time he had con-siderable money, but lost most of it in speculation. Arrangements for the funeral have not been made.

FOOD'S WORK

How It Cured Paralysis

Paralysis comes from weak nerves and bad blood and is often cured nowadays by proper feeding. "For fifteen years I was an invalid, haven't walked a step for over twelve years, not able to move my feet, or even my toes.

"But recently a wonderful thing has happened, for I had never expected to have the use of my limbs again; a four month's diet of Grape-Nuts Food for breakfast and supper, made the change and now just think of it I can move my toes freely on my left foot and a little on the right foot, and can let the foot plece on my chair down and swing my feet vigorously, which I think is a wonderful improvement for the time I have used the food. "And that is not all! My blood and my stomach are so much better I am confident my trouble came from too much rich food and an overstrain of the nerves, but my nerves are much better, my mind is clearer and I don't forget things like I did. It must be the food for I stopped taking medicine years ago for the paralysis.

"Of course I have the sympathy and prayers of many Christians, but it is wonderful what good pure food will do for one out of health, and why would it not be as good to keep one's health up? I have heard lots of others praise Grape-Nuts, but I for one cannot praise it enough." Name given by Postum Company, Battle Creek, Mich. Here is a well defined case of paraly-

MISSED HIS CALLING.

The late Bishop Dudley of Kentucky was on a hunting expedition near Louisville during the last few years of his life, and happened to fall in with a local nimrod whose unconcealed admiration of the city man's marksmanship paved the way for further conversation. 'What's your name?" the countryman

finally inquired. "Dudley," was the reply

After some exchange of incident and experience, the bishop's interlocutor hazarded, "say, Dudley, what business do you follow?

Where?

"Where?" "In Louisville." "Well, well, I never would ha' thought it. You ain't stuck up a bit like most of the preachers down this way.

An invitation to hear his new-made acquaintance preach was accompanied by a scribbled card, and the next Sabbath saw the rustic, in his "Sunday best," ushered into the bishop's own pew, where he listened intently to both service and sermon.

He was manifestly amazed, afterward, to have the orator of the morning down to greet him as cordially

He managed to stammer his thanks and familiarly as in the woods. He managed to stammer his thanks and added: "I ain't much of a judge of this kind of thing, parson, but I riz with you and sot with you, and saw the thing through the best I knew how; but all the same, if my opinion's with anything to you, the Lord meant you for a shooter!"-Detroit Free Press.
