AN ANGLO-FRENCH ALLIANCE

Royal Visit May Result in It—Paris Believes Kaiser Is After American Cooperation

Paris, April 5.—The meeting between King Edward and President Loubet, which took place at the Hotel de Ville, Paris, on Wednesday, has been interpreted by the popular imagination as a sign of a new Anglo-French alliance. The French press has been full of articles and editorials, all of which are in favor of the alliance. They say that the meeting was a success and that it has opened the way for a new era of friendship between the two nations. They also say that the meeting has shown that the two nations are now on a footing of equality and that they are now able to meet on a basis of mutual respect and understanding.

The meeting between King Edward and President Loubet was a most successful one. The two leaders of the two nations met on a footing of equality and they were able to discuss the many questions which were before them in a most friendly and understanding manner. The meeting was a sign of a new era of friendship between the two nations and it has opened the way for a new era of mutual respect and understanding.
