

RITER HITS BACK AT COLONEL WALL.

Takes Exceptions to Statements Criticizing Work of City Engineer.

DONE PER CHAIRMAN'S PLAN.

Believes Letter Was Sole Author of Report Attributed to Board of Public Works.

The portion of the report of the board of public works, filed several days ago by Col. E. A. Wall, former chairman of the board, is being criticized by George W. Riter, city engineer, who made the following statement in regard to the matter:

"When Col. Wall starts to paint one of his glowing word pictures, it is unfortunate that he begins by dipping his brush in the salt pot. The annual report of the board of public works as published in the daily papers is such an unqualified document that I can hardly believe that any of the members of the board, with the exception of the chairman, were familiar with its contents. One who is out of harmony with the world can usually find plenty to carp on, and I suppose the colonel is entitled to enjoy himself in his own way, but when he writes an official report he should stick to the truth. So much of that portion of the report dealing with the paving of South Temple street is misleading or distorting."

"For example, when the engineering department is blamed for the cost of paving the streets, the colonel says that Col. Wall figures that we merely worked out the scheme for doing the paving and furnished the grades as they were designated. A general plan of the streets was made by the colonel, and he got too much money for the work. It was because the board of public works decided its own accounts. When he criticizes the features of the plan, he says that the colonel was carrying storm water across the street, he forgets that his own idea was to put the drains entirely and that when he finally decided to put them in he was obliged to do so by running tunnels under the completed pavement."

"When I took charge of the city engineer's office, I found a general plan signed by Colonel Wall as chairman of the board of public works and by my predecessor, Mr. Snow. Although I was never in sympathy with this general plan, I aimed to follow it faithfully, keeping always in mind, however, the safety of the street for travel, the durability of the pavement, and the appearance of the street to the eye. This plan, signed by Colonel Wall, was our guide in lowering the Rocky Mountain Bell Telephone company's underground conduit, and in the other primary work, until he repudiated it and demanded certain changes, which I agreed to, but which in turn were repudiated by him when the south side of the street was reached. The resolution of the city council under which the paving was ordered contained certain restrictions as to the depth of it that was to be made on the south side of the street. When the colonel undertook to fly in the face of this resolution, I declined to be a party to his action, and withdrew the engineering forces and with an axe removed some of the stakes which were being used only as something to depart from. The mayor ordered the resumption of the work, and our forces went back and did the work as directed by Colonel Wall."

"The real fact is that all of the trouble over the Brigham street paving was due to the disposition of Colonel Wall not to be bound by his own agreements, by the ordinances of the city council, or by anything else which controlled his purposes, and having obtained a bond to complete the work against any claims of abutting property owners for damages he was permitted to have his own way in all disputed matters. The South Temple street paving is his own creature, and squirm as he will, he must father it."

"The part of the report which is the worst slur, and which was written in pure malice, is the introductory clause in which Colonel Wall says that I quote L. C. Kelsey on the condition of the accounts of the city engineer's office. No one can truthfully say that every dollar received or expended by me during my administration was faithfully accounted for. The account of this is in the city auditor's office and has been verified and checked by the city auditor. A copy of this account was also kept in the city engineer's office, but it appears that owing to errors in copying or adding there is a slight difference in the totals. Mr. Kelsey says it was his former custom to compare accounts with the auditor at frequent intervals. As a matter of fact, this is all that was done at the present time, and would undoubtedly have been done before this had not the bookkeeper appointed by Mr. Kelsey been stricken with smallpox and kept in quarantine. There is nothing crooked in the city engineer's accounts and nothing to be uneasy about."

SOCIAL PROGRESS.

Theme of Interesting Sermon by Rev. Frank Fay Eddy.

In his Sunday morning sermon in the Unitarian church, Rev. Frank Fay Eddy told how the race has progressed, and said in part:

"Let us see what our box of social tools contains. Most important is science. This tool in the modern sense comes as a result of the growth, organization and spread of knowledge. To be sure there has always been some sort of science on the earth, but in former times it was like the rude stone hammer of our distant ancestors, the clumsy, inconvenient, but precious possession of the few, while the science of today is like the modern hammer of well-tempered steel to be found in every home."

"Given science, invention followed, and it was but the practical application of science or ordered knowledge. Of most importance has been the invention of the multiplication of the power-tool by which the tasks once wrought by human hands are done by steam and electricity."

"Because we have the power-tool we have created surplus wealth or capital, another new tool. Having wealth the commercial device of corporation followed as a way using it. This is a useful tool, but one as yet much abused."

"Besides these may be mentioned the thoroughly modern tools of rapid communication and swift and comparatively safe transportation. The recent development in wireless communication, and the evolution of steam and electric railways and ocean liners is making the world very small in these days and putting us all in the same great neighborhood. Out of this must come a type of citizenship which we really begin to use our new social tools."

STILL ANOTHER.

Third Party Files Petition in the O'Neill Estate Case.

The third petition for letters of administration of the estate of M. J. O'Neill, deceased, has been filed in the probate division of the district court. The latest petitioner is W. S. Davis who asks that the Utah Savings & Trust company be appointed as administrator. The petitioner objects to the appointment of Alex. Coburn and also to the appointment of John Bettes as administrators on the grounds that both have unduly and exclusively favored the estate and will not administer it to the best interests of all concerned. The estate is valued at about $4,000.

WOOL GROWERS ENCOURAGED.

Report Satisfactory Progress in Bill Pending Before Congress.

Members of the Idaho Wool Growers' association who were sent to Washington to work for the bill before Congress to extend the actual running time of stock trains from 24 to 36 hours, are returning, and report satisfactory progress. One of the committee, F. W. Gooding, says:

"The whole Idaho Congressional delegation is in favor of the measure. Idaho stockmen figure that they lose $500,000 annually on account of the operation of the old measure and other states have sustained corresponding losses. We also interviewed Senators Sutherland and Smoot. The former said that he had received only one letter protesting against the old measure, but whatever he could do to assist the bill he would do. Senator Smoot was not informed as to the proposed measure. We did not have a very extended conversation with him," said Mr. Gooding, "but he promised his support to the bill."

HARMONY REIGNS.

Frank Hagenbarth Speaks of the Allied Stock Growers' Association.

President Frank Hagenbarth of the National Livestock association returned yesterday from attendance at the Denver meeting. He gives an interesting account of the convention where the association between the Livestock association and the American Stockgrowers' association were settled. Mr. Hagenbarth was made vice president of the new association, and chairman of the association committee, while Mr. K. Parsons, also of this city, was placed on the forest reserve and transportation committees. The new association was placed on a good financial basis of $20,000.

Mr. Hagenbarth is enthusiastic over the future of the re-organization, and said that stock growers, the country over are working together for the interests of the cause, including the allied industries. It is figured that the stock held at the same time in Denver, was of the greatest benefit to ranchers, and cattlemen generally. A special exhibit was made of baby beef, in the shape of calves from six to nine months taken off milk and put on corn and alfalfa. This makes beef while they are growing, so that when yearlings, they are ready for market. This process is claimed to effect a great saving. Mr. Hagenbarth says:

"For instance, it was shown that yearlings taken off their milk and put on proper food grew in flesh. When the yearlings were eight and nine months old they weighed 1,000 pounds, and sold for $100 each. A calf up to the time it is one year and a half old can be fattened at the cost of $7.50 per hundred pounds. It is figured that it costs $11 per hundred to fatten a three-year-old steer and $17 to fatten a four-year-old steer. These figures show conclusively that it would be to the advantage of the stockman to put his calves on the market when they are yearlings and it has been proven by experiments that it is the best beef. There is no reason why the stockmen of Utah, Idaho and the other surrounding states could not produce this kind of beef for the market."

"I am interested in having a fat stock show every year in connection with the state fair. I have already spoken to the members of the fair association, and it has been practically agreed that an exhibit will be given at the next state fair."

NEW MOVEMENT PUSHED ALONG.

Organization of Young Women's Christian Association is Now Assured.

ENTHUSIASTIC MEETING HELD

Woman's Sphere in Christian World Commented Upon—Churches Behind It.

The First Presbyterian church was well filled yesterday afternoon by an audience consisting chiefly of ladies in attendance on the public meeting held to actively further the organization of a Young Women's Christian association in this city, and before the meeting was over nearly $700 had been subscribed for the cause. Mrs. C. J. McNitt presided, as the president of the new association, and handsome young women with silk badges, acted as ushers. Music was a special feature of the occasion, and the performers were Mrs. V. B. Cutler, Mrs. Fred Jones, Miss Daisy A. Wolfgang and C. O. Harris.

In the absence of Dr. Silver, who could not be present, Rev. Dr. Paden took his place on the program, and spoke upon the importance of the work which the Christian women of the city were endeavoring to inaugurate at Salt Lake. He wondered that any woman should stay out of the fellowship of the Christian church, that any man should do so, but that since the time of Christ the woman and the child have had a sovereign place in the saving of the world. Women were Christ's first messengers, and through all the years since have been His messengers not alone to womanhood, but to mankind. Dr. Paden appealed to the men of the audience to lend their support to the movement, saying that for the sake of their mothers, their wives and their sisters, they owed it to themselves to stand back of such a movement. "I would not for a moment feel safe for a sister of mine to be out in this city by herself if she were not a Christian woman. It is a hard world for a man to live in who is not a Christian, but it is a harder world for a woman to live in. And our appeal today is simply this: Men and women, let us join the women to take care of the girls."

REV. P. A. SIMPKIN.

Rev. Peter A. Simpink of Phillips Congregational church said yesterday no difficulty for any man who has ever felt the sanctifying influence of a woman's love to stand and make an appeal for a cause like this. Dr. Paden touched upon the beautiful fact of his own nearness to the Lord Jesus Christ, and I say to you that many of us who have found the same nearness have found it through the influence of woman. It will be a sad day for this city or any other city, it will be a sad day for America, when the heart of woman does not respond to the answering note of God's love. Oh, what that it was mine today to talk of that which we owe to women. Let us as these women enter upon their work today, strengthen their hands, content that it is the work of God."

METHODIST APPEAL.

In behalf of the Methodist churches of the city, Rev. Benjamin Young of the First Methodist church said yesterday the movement the most hearty support he believed it was a good thing, and there is room for more good things in Salt Lake. In the second place it is necessary to give his support to an institution that would mean a place of rest, a place of refuge, a home for young women who come as strangers to the city—but an institution that will stand primarily for Christ. "We have institutions for the young men, but certainly one is needed for the young women. God help us that we may be up and doing, supporting this institution and every institution that stands for Jesus Christ."

DR. COBURN'S ADDRESS.

Dr. Coburn made a stirring address on the Synchroton, a beautiful word picture of the saving of many souls by the woman of Samaria whom Christ met at the well, taught the way of eternal life and through her won many followers in the village of Sychar. Dr.

NERVOUS BABIES.

The Exact Cause.

Many a child, while nursing, has acquired an appetite for strong drink because the mother used beverages containing alcohol. A letter from an Elkhart, Ind., mother illustrates the necessity of great care as to the mother's food and drink while she is nursing her child: "What I have to say should be of interest to mothers who are so fortunate as to be able to nurse their babies," she writes. "Until my first baby came I did not realize that coffee was the cause of the severe attacks of nervousness to which I was subject at times. I found that when one of the attacks came upon me, my baby was affected in the same way, at about the same time, and reflection led me to conclude that it was the coffee I drank that was making us both ill."

"Having read an article about Postum Food Coffee, I decided to give it a trial, and when I had learned to prepare it properly by boiling it at least 20 minutes, I found that with cream, it was delicious. He says that it is most beneficial to the health of both of us."

"However, when I gave up the old coffee, I thought there would be no harm in having one cup of the old kind on Sunday mornings for old time's sake. Two Sundays showed me the folly of this. I was amazed at the influence the coffee had on my own and my baby's nervous system. I began to feel easier it began to affect my baby through the milk, so that it spoiled my milk. I then found this to be the case I gave up the Sunday morning coffee indulgence."

"And that ended the nervous attacks for both of us. This was five years ago, and I have used Postum regularly ever since, and enjoy it as much as I ever did the other kind of coffee."

"I believe that the fretful condition of many babies is caused by the coffee-drinking habit of the mother."

"It is hard to deny children the drink they see their parents enjoying at table, and it is a great comfort to be able to let them have all the Postum they want. Served with cream it has proved an ideal beverage for my three little ones."

"I found also that Postum is a great producer of healthy milk, and am sure that many worried mothers would be benefited by the use of it. I can command it too highly." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

Coburn prayed that there might be a Synchroton in Salt Lake in the very near future; that some woman might rise up here and be the means of leading many souls to Christ. The speaker gave a brief history of the organization among the young women; spoke of the beautiful structure which the young men have here, and said he hoped it would not be long until just as handsome and commodious a structure would be placed at the disposal of the Young Women's Christian association.

WHEN TO KNOW MEN.

Rev. Goshen Says They Exhibit Character Under Oppression.

In his discourse yesterday before the Y. M. C. A., Rev. E. I. Goshen spoke on the fact that a man is never known until he is seen in some stress hour. He said in part:

"The persecuted Jews of Russia are an example of the crossing of the Kedron, as they are staying in the country and trying to teach the ignorant people of the Russian empire that they should refer to the temple of liberty. They are persecuted, the bearing down and pressing and crushing people in that country because they bear blood of the Jews in taking the country back to the middle ages."

"Another example of the crossing of the Kedron brook is that of the pilgrims crossing the Atlantic and building the temple of liberty. They knew it was right and knew it was true for them to worship the way they desired, and so the noble band of people crossed the great Kedron for the establishment of a new country."

If a man is possessed of noble ideas he should carry them out. It is not what the people say or do about it matter—if the soul and intellect say it is right, then it is right. Often personal convenience is said to gain character. Everything worth getting costs something. Men can juggle with the stock market, but they have to pay. Men have paid for science and knowledge with their lives, and even friendship has cost lives."

"The Westminster quartet furnished the boys' sexton orchestra music."

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Special Services Commemorative of Twenty-fifth Anniversary.

The Young People's Societies of Christian Endeavor of the various evangelical churches in this city held special services last evening, in honor of "A Quarter Century of Christian Endeavor." and of the twenty-fifth anniversary of the work of the Christian Endeavor movement. The services were held in the Y. M. C. A. building, and were in English speaking countries, including a series of special songs, and providing for a chronological review, a geographical review, a statistical review, a review of Jesus and His visitants was that of the approaching tragedy at Jerusalem. This was the great consummation, and however Peter and his fellow apostles may have before dreaded the suggestion, they saw now that it was so decreed. The voice from the cloud declared the eternal sonship of Jesus, and ended with the adoration "Hear Him!"

Next day, as Jesus and the three followers descended the slopes of Hermon, the latter asked as to the current belief that Elias would precede the Messiah. They were told that that Elias had then come, and had been rejected and killed in the person of John the Baptist. Elias as a name is frequently used, interchangeably with Elijah; the former is both name and title; the personages, however, are distinct. In the current dispensation each has manifested himself and conveyed authority and instruction separately and individually.

The address announced for next Sunday is "From Sunshine to Shadow."

AFTER CRIPPE

Or Any Severe Sickness, Druggist Druehl & Frankan Advise People To Take Vinol.

Mrs. S. C. Berry of Middleton, Conn. writes: "The gripe left me in a very weakened condition, no appetite, this nervous, no vitality and a bad cough. I had hemorrhages, and nothing seemed to help me. I read of what you cod liver oil preparation, Vinol, had done for others and decided to try it. I found that it soon gave me a hearty appetite; my cough disappeared; my health and strength returned until I felt like a new creature. I consider Vinol a wonderful medicine, as it makes strength and vitality so fast."

Mr. Druehl of the above firm says: "We have never sold in our store a more valuable restorative health restorer for the convalescent than Vinol. This is because Vinol contains in a concentrated form all of the vital principles of cod liver oil, but without a drop of oil to upset the stomach and retard its work."

Vinol tones up the digestive organ and renews the strength of every organ of the body."
