Exceedingly Foolish .- A dispatch evidently emanating from the brain of assemi-idiot, shows what insipid and improbable trash is sometimes sent over the wires in relation to the "Mormons." It is a revival of the insane rumor that gained some currency a few years ago to the effect that President Brigham Young did not die, but was still living. The ridiculous and stale story, given in its present form, is useful only as a currosity, showing to what extent some men will formulate and falsify in order to throw discredit upon

"Yesterday about noon the startling report reached Green River that the town of Peru, eight miles west, had been totally destroyed by fire. Later information made that report a cer-tainty. It appears the fire originated in a defective flue leading from the kitchen of the railroad section house. spite of the utmost efforts the fire speedily communicated with the only other building in the town, a small out house, and in half an hour from the discovery of the flames, the fire flend had got in a complete jeb of work, and Peru was in ashes. The Union Pacific was by far the largest loser by the The flames spread rapidly, and in spite of the utmost efforts the fire was by far the largest loser by the sweeping conflagration.

Heavy Snow .- On Thursday last the eastern-bound train on the Oregon Short Line was snowed in near Montpelier, Idaho. The Laramie Boomerang says that the Union Pacific passenger waited two and a half hours at Green River, and was then compelled to come on minus the Oregon Short Line connection. The latter reached Green River on Friday afternoon. The blockade is reported as something terrific. A frightful wind storm was raging, and it was laden with a wet and heavy snowfall. The scene of the blockade was a deep cut, and the way had to be shoveled step by step, the cut behind filling up as the train moved slowly shead.

Miss Susan B. Anthony, Riggs House, Washington D.C.:

In behalf of the women of Utah, we, the undersigned, respectfully tender our grateful acknowledgments to the officers and members of the National Woman's Suffrage Convention, for the able and timely effort made in exercising their influence with the President and the people of the United States in opposing the disfranchisement of the legal women voters of Utah and the obnoxious Edmunds-Tucker bill.

"Mr. Edwin Thorne as Harry Glyn-don, the discarded stepson of a stern and unrelenting father, is convicted of a crime by the false testimony of his brother and a strong chain of circumstantial evidence, and is sentenced to imprisonment as a convict in Portland stantial evidence, and is sentenced to imprisonment as a convict in Fortland prison, from whence he attempts to escape by the assistance of friends, among whom is a young lad whose devotion he won by an act of kindness. He is icaptured again and returned to prison, where he is exonersted from the crime by the testimony of a fellew-convict whom he saved from assassination by his own brother and the real criminal. Mr. Thorne gives a strong, but pathetic rendering of the role of an innocent man suffering unjustly for the crime of another, and was well received. Jerome Stevens, as the well-dressed villian, was skillful in his part, and J. L. Ashton, as the heard-hearted father, was fairly successful, and at times quite strong. Much of the success of the piece was due to the clevences of Mr. Dore Davidson as Sim Lazaras, the London Sharper. His humorons impersonation of this role kept, the house in laughter and made him a prime favorite was Miss Namle Austin in the pathetic role of Ned, the poor little waif, rescued by Harry Glyndon from a cruel master, and his devotion to his benefactor even unto death was very skillfully portaged.

RAILROAD SMASH-UP. Locomotive and Four Cars go Down an Embankment.

ENGINEER MARK MURPHY

RILLED. On Saturday night a severe acciden occurred at the Almy switch, one and a half miles west of Evanston, on the Union Pacific Railway. The westbound passenger train due at Ogden on Saturday afternoon was several hours late, having been detained by snow east of Evanston, Wyoming. There were on board a party of 75 excursionists, en route to California, and a number of other passengers, among whom was Hon. F. S. Richards, who was returning from Washington. The train consisted of a mail and two baggage cars, smoking car, two passenger coaches and a sleeper. There were two locomotives, the one in front acting as "helper," up the steep grade. At the Almy switch the tracks form a Y, and as each is on a high em-bankment, the centre of the triangle is deep hollow. About 7 o'clock the express train pulled out of Evanston, and was running at a moderate rate when the switch was reached. The front locomotive passed on all right, but the second struck a broken rail,

It might was standing on the platform of the sleeper at the time, and feeling a shock, thought the train had run into a snow bank, as several had been met on the oad. But a second and heavier shock followed, and he realized that something more serious had occurred. He caught the handrail and peered out into the darkness, being scarcely able to retain his grasp because of the repeated jerks caused by the cars striking upon each other. He saw the engine had left the track, and the front car was just going over. It turned over

FELL WITH A CRASH, the second and third cars going down in about the same manner smoking car, which came The next and contained quite number of passengers, was torn off the trucks, and after being dragged along on the track, went over the bank. The wheels were torn from under the first passenger coach, which dropped down to the track, and was saved by the breaking of a coupling. The excitement was terrible for a short time. Those in the rear coaches not experienced such shaking up as the other, and hurried forward in the dark to give assistance The first man reached in the wreck was called for water. This was quickly supplied, and the flames extinguished, thereby preventing the horrible holocaus which must have followed if the flames had gained control. Work on the wreck was then commenced immedi-The express man had his foot injured, and was cared for. One of the passengers was picked up and given attention to, his back having been injured, but not seriously. The baggageman was extricated without much difficulty, and it was found that his thigh had been hurt. The train men and quite a number of passengers were working heroically to rescue those curied in the wreck. Far down under the mass lay the fireman Joseph Bowman, who shouted to those above to hasten their efforts. He said he was not hurt much, but the road was opened, and the passengers continued toward their destination, arriving in Ogden on Sunday, and in this city last evening.

The railroad men, with all the as sistance that could be obtained, con-tinued their labors at the scepe of the accident. The engineer, they knew, must be somewhere beneath the mass, but whether he was alive or not could not be determined. That he had been crushed to death seemed mos probable, as not a sound could be heard to indicate his whereabouts. Finally, at 2 o'clock Sunday morning, they discovered that the ENGINEER WAS DEAD, his body having caught beneath his engine. He was carefully lifted out and the body examined. There was a deep cut across the chin, and the head was swollen. There were a number of minor bruses, but no bones were broken, and it was evident that the poor fellow had died from suffocation. His body was taken

The unfortunate man's name is Mark Murphy. He is the son of Dr. Jesse J. and Jerusha Murphy, the former of Salt Lake City, and was one of the most trusty men employed by the Union Pacific. A LAMENTABLE TRAGEDY. LITTLE BOY ACCIDENTALLY SHOT AND KILLED.

An intense sensation was created last evening by the rapid spread of a foundation, report to the effect that a little twoyear-old son of Sidney Clawson had been accidentally shot and mortally wounded. The sad intelligence proved to be only too true. Mr. Clawson, his wife and child were visiting at the house of Mr. Frank Taylor, in the Eighteenth Ward. While those who were in the house were waiting for supper Mr. Clawson picked up a target gun, in which small selections of these records a part of the part o nitro - glycerine cartridges are used, loaded it and a few shots through the open door of the dining room at a mark on the wall of a shanty in the rear. Mr. Taylor, who had been outside, entered the room, took the gun, put a cartridge into the breech and while in the act of raising it, from some unaccountable cause it was discharged. Little Sidney B. Clawson had just left his mother's side and taken a few steps toward the middle of the room. This brought him in line with the bullet, which entered at the back, passed through the body and came out in front. Mrs. Taylor picked the little fellow up and as soon as the situation was discovered a scene that beggars description ensued. It were well not to attempt to depict it.

The accident occurred at seven o'clock in the evening. Dr. Benedict was summoned with all possible and was the spot, but the wound necessarily fatal, the bullet having perforated the intestines, and the dear little fellow ceased to live at 2:30 o'clock this morning, January 31st, the second anniversary of his birth. Dr Benedict remained by his side to the last. No pen can describe the grief of the parents and other relatives of the little boy, who was a sweet, bright and promising child, while the unwitting cause of the accident is also inconsolable. There is a deep sympathy everywhere for the bereaved.

The funeral service will be conducted at the residence of Mr. Frank Taylor, at 2 o'clock to-morrow.

MORE ARRESTS IN THE NORTH. Our Ogden representative sends us

the following: "Since the arrest of Prof. T. B. Lewis, two other persons have been hauled in on the same kind of complaint. Their names are J. P. C. Winters and John Peterson, both of Huntsville, Ogden Valley. The first named caused the deputies—Whetstone and Steele—considerable chasing before he was arrested, which made it near midnight on Friday before they arrived with him in Ogden.

"To-day Winters was taken before Commissioner T. J. Black. He pleaded not guilty and Wm. Felt and W. G. the express messenger, who had man-aged to crowd the door open—the car lay on its side—and get part of his and was placed under $1,000 bonds. David Kay and L. Mikelson became sureties for him.

> Maticious Killing .- Yesterday, A Andersen, a young Swede, started from South Cottonwood for this city, on horseback. As he was riding along a lane northwest of Francklyn station some one secreted in some willows fired at him. His horse fell, but got up again, and the rider, who is a new arrival here, was too excited to find out whether his animal was severely hurt or not, but rode on to Salt Lake. He then discovered that the horse was shot, the ball entering the right side, just in front of the nip. The wounded animal died shortly after. It is said that the horse had won several local races, and that is alleged as the cause of the shooting.

> Upset in a Smash-Up .- Mr. Chas Hegson, of this city, who was one of the passengers on the Union Pacific xpress train, a part of which became derailed and went over an embank ment near Evanston on Saturday night, in conversation with a News reporter, detailed the experience itself and some of the sensations experienced by a person in such a position. "It is not pleasant - thing," he said, "to thinking or arriving at conclusions, and you are confronted with such's nost of things of a bustling and breakng-up nature all at once that you mechanically grab at something and hold your breath. Then you find yourself wrong side up in conformity with the position of the car, and everything of a mavable nature tumbling here, there and everywhere, an awful din and racket but nothing plainly distinguishable. All at once he row ceases; you are on your side and so is the car. Pretty much every-thing is mixed up around where you are; you get into the best shape you can, and walk or crawl past the seats as the case may be to the end door, which fortunately could be opened, and out you go. There was a slight alarm of fire, but fires are so customary on such occasions that it is

Arizona Deaf Mutes During the past two years, Dr. J. R. Park, President of the University, has received several applications for free admission to the Deaf Mute Department from the parents and friends of uneducated deaf mutes in Arizona. Most of these applications came from families that had once resided in Utah and moved to Arizona, and all of them are too poor to afford the expense of giving their deaf mute children an education in an institution. One of the applicants was a girl that attended the Deal Mute Department for two terms, and she was anxious to return last Fall and keep on in her studies, but her mother, who had come at great expense to keep house for her near the University, could not afford it again. In one application there were two children in the same family whose father could tute, and was forced to keep them at

Out of sympathy for these applicants a letter has been written to the Governor and Legislature of Arizona, now in session, by the principal of the Deaf Mute Institute here, petitioning them to do something for th tunate children by making a small appropriation for their education, an appeal which we hope our southers neighbors will act upon kindly, for the benefit of those who stand so much in need of an education in order to become useful members of the human
