"In sixteen states a wife has no right to her own earnings, and the husband can collect the same for his own use; in eight states she has no right to her own property; in several states she has no interest in the estate her husband owned at their marriage, and on his dying she has no dower therein. "In no state of the Union, if the wife dies first, can she bequeath any part of her property which she, as wife, has helped the husband amass, even to their children, for during the husband's life she has only an interest of a pauper or dependent in such estate."

"In several states a wife has no right to her own inherited property, which, unless placed in the hands of trustees and away from her own management, becomes absolutely her husband's property at their marriage, and at his death she is only entitled to a fraction thereof as dower."

"In thirty-six states the wife has no right to her own children, for the law gives the father legal control and guardianship of them."
