New York, Oct. 14.—The globe this afternoon prints a copy of the affidavit made by Edwin N. Barrill, who accompanied Dr. Frederick A. Cook at the time he announced his reaching the summit of Mount McKinley. The affidavit was made before a notary public at Tacoma, Wash., Oct. 4, and has just been received in New York.

Barrill's affidavit states in effect that he was the only person present with Dr. Cook on the date when he claims to have reached the summit of Mount McKinley, that they did not in fact reach the summit, and the nearest point to the summit reached was at least 24 miles distant from the summit of that mountain, the elevation at no time exceeding 10,000 feet. The affidavit also brings into question a number of the photographs which Dr. Cook has given as representing the summit and other high altitudes of Mt. McKinley.

Barrill in his statement says that he was born in Buffalo in 1864 and now resides at Derby, Mont. He says he was the only person present with Dr. Cook when he claims to have reached the summit of Mt. McKinley and that he is the person referred to as Barrill or Edward Barrill in Dr. Cook's book entitled "To the Top of the Continent," bearing under the climb to Mt. McKinley. He details his meeting with Dr. Cook at Missouri, where the latter was accompanied by Prof. Parker of Columbia university, R. W. Porter and others.

The organization of the Mt. McKinley expedition consisted of Fred Peck, George Eastman, Frank C. Parker, and naturalist of Tacoma; Walter Miller, a photographer of Seattle; Samuel Behrever, who acted as cook for the party, and Barrill.

The party sailed from Seattle May 15. Several recounts that at the start of the trip Dr. Cook had a diary and set forth that his diary was married exhibit "A" attached to the affidavit, "a pocket diary kept by me all the time that Dr. Cook and I were together near Mt. McKinley and the diary is a truthful record, with the exception of entries and changes made by me therein under the orders of Dr. Cook."

BARRILL'S DIARY

The diary referred to by Barrill is packed in the affidavit, and is now in the possession of the New York Globe. The affidavit then proceeds as follows:

"On the evening of Sept. 9, 1906, Dr. Cook and I started alone for the purpose of exploring Mt. McKinley. He informed me before starting that his plan was to find a way for ascending the mountain as he and Prof. Parker intended to climb the mountain the following year.

"As shown by my diary we took the train on Sept. 9 from and including the 10th, to the end of the diary, and were made under the direction of Dr. Cook. On Sept. 10, Dr. Cook directed me to stop keeping my diary, and leave the pages therein blank. I cannot now remember the exact date or figures which I have in my diary, although I do not direct to change them, but I know the notation under what now appears Sept. 9, was not to exceed $200 and I think it was.

COOK ORDERED CHANGES

"We quit any further attempt toward ascending the mountain on Sept. 15, and returned to the boat a launch which lay in the lake to the rear of the glacier. We reached the lake on Sept. 15, having traveled 26 miles or more on the top of the glacier from the place we quit the climbing on Sept. 15.

COOK'S MOUNTAIN EXPEDITION

"On Sept. 16, when at our first camp returning from the glacier I doctor and changed the entries therein from and including Sept. 12, unless changes were made under the orders of Dr. Cook. From the 12th to the 15th, was written the date of the first camp returning on the 16th and including the 18th was written in our last camp returning on the evening of the 18th, and was solely under the orders of Dr. Cook.

"Dr. Cook first told me to stop my diary on Sept. 12 when we were in our last camp going up the glacier and at about the point which Dr. Cook reached the top of Mount McKinley. This point was reached by us at the time Dr. Cook stated at the time and place that the same conditions existed there as did exist on the top of Mount McKinley and directed me to stop my diary and further orders.

"At this time he had me to the top of the point claimed by him as the top of the mountain and the top of the point with the flag on top thereof, with the American flag in my hand. The photograph on opposite page 29 of Dr. Cook's book above mentioned shows the flag on the top of the snow house on the trip although the diary was dictated by the doctor says so; nor did we shake hands or have any other similar ceremonies as stated in my diary.

"The drawing opposite page 29 in Dr. Cook's book above mentioned shows the flag on the top of the snow house on the trip although the diary was dictated by the doctor says so; nor did we shake hands or have any other similar ceremonies as stated in my diary.

"Dr. Cook's affidavit makes the following statement concerning the same:

"The affidavit of Barrill is also false. We were never in the office of James M. Ashton, attorney of Tacoma, who was retained by certain interests in the state to look into the matter. We did not take our bags with us to the top of the point, having left them down in the saddle above the glacier. We then both went down from the point to where our bags had been left. The doctor took the American flag out of one of the bags and handed it to me and sent me back to the top of the point and told me to hold it there on the end of the ice age, which I did.

"The doctor then with his camera took the picture shown opposite page 27, which picture is there designated as "The Summit of Mount McKinley" in his work "To the Top of the Continent." The truth being that the summit of Mount McKinley was 20 miles distant in the air line from the point where my picture was taken according to the scale on Dr. Cook's map shown between pages 152 and 153 in the book referred to above.

"I then came down with the flag to where Dr. Cook was standing with his camera and made the remark that the eight peaks to the other side of this point where I had been photographed would probably show in good shape from Pittsburgh in the national commission's special train. A heavy frost greeted them as they emerged from the train, but the bright sunshine warmed the air a bit and conditions for today's game promised to be better than any that had been played in this city.

"Detroit is desperate and will fight to the last ditch to win today as a defeat again will deprive the team of the greatest honors in organized baseball.

"During the series each team has won the alternate game, Pittsburgh taking the first and Detroit the second. Therefore both Manager Jennings and his men were confident of victory today.

"Pittsburgh-Schmidt dropped the third strike and was forced to throw Gibson out to T. Jones at first. Mullin out, Mullin to T. Jones. Byrne out, Moriarity to T. Jones. Byrne out, Moriarity to T. Jones. No runs.

"Detroit-Morarity out, Byrne to Abstein. T. Jones out, Wagner to Abstein. Schmidt lied to Leach. No runs.

MADE DRAWINGS OF MCKINLEY

"When we were in the saddle near the point where I was photographed I made a drawing of what I named "Glacier Point." At the same time and point I made a drawing of Mount McKinley. I could see the top of Mount McKinley to the northward, and I should say at least 20 miles away. This drawing of glacier point and Mount McKinley shown in my diary on the fourth and fifth pages of the sketches therein and represent conditions as they were to me upon the ground. Dr. Cook was not present when I was making these sketches, using his instruments for the purpose of taking temperature, elevation, etc. We remained in the saddle after I was seated in the point for about one half hour during which I sketched out above stated and the doctor used his instruments.

"When I came down from the point and handed the doctor the flag in addition to what I stated above, and there was no one else doing anything done which I do not now recall, but rather at that time and place of there was between the 12th and 16th of the month, when my diary was dictated to fit the conditions in order to prove that this point was the top, he stated to me as follows:

"That point would make a good top for Mount McKinley. It looks just like the Gun Sight peak would look on Mount McKinley" when we had been looking at from the saddle.

START BACK.

"About half an hour after that picture was taken we fixed up our loads at about 10:30 a.m. on Oct. 12, we started down and around on the place designated on exhibit O as sixth camp, the doctor saying that he wanted to go around there in order to get further upon the main glacier, and we had a good view of the N. E. ridge leading up to the top of Mount McKinley so as to ascertain if that ridge was as solid with the top of the mountain so he could write about it as he pleased.

"In order that we took in the balance of the 12th and all of the 13th and 14th days of September and at the eighth camp on Oct. 15, the doctor said to me not to go around the ridge and at no time do we reach the elevation in excess of 10,000 feet and the doctor told me when we were at the place where my picture was taken that we were not over 8,000 feet high. I neglected to state on Sept. 15 and on the evening of Sept. 16, Dr. Cook told me if I was willing to stay with him I could keep him company. He said "Yes" when he said him. I will see you get $200 extra for doing so."

"The photograph opposite page 27 in Dr. Cook's book above mentioned shows the flag on the top of the snow house on the trip although the diary was dictated by the doctor says so; nor did we shake hands or have any other similar ceremonies as stated in my diary.

DETROIT, Oct. 14.—Cloudy weather again greeted the Pittsburgh and Detroit ball teams as they prepared for today's game in the world's championship series at Bennett park. Both teams arrived in good shape from Pittsburgh in the national commission's special train. A heavy frost greeted them as they emerged from the train, but the bright sunshine warmed the air a bit and conditions for today's game promised to be better than any that had been played in this city.

Detroit-D. Jones lined to Miller. Bush drew a base on balls. Cobb struck out. Crawford doubled to right, scoring Bush and Crawford went to third. Delehardt struck out. Wilson out, Mullin to T. Jones. Three runs.

Pittsburgh-Bryne singled to left. Leach single too hot for T. Jones and Byrne went to third. Clarke singled to right, scoring Byrne and sending Leach to third. Clarke went to second on the throw to get Leach. Mullin to T. Jones. No runs.

Pittsburgh-Bush singled to center. Cobb grounded to Abstein and was out at first. Bush went to second. Crawford doubled to right, scoring Bush. Moriarity walked. Byrne made a great catch of T. Jones's high overhand, which was carried easily to the pitcher's box by the wind. One run.

FIFTH INNING.
