

PEACE REIGNS AT STATE PRISON

Warden Pratt's "Soothing Syrup"
Has Good Effect in Restoring Order.

WERE GLAD TO BE RELEASED

After Being Strung Up for Over 18
Hours, Belligerents Pledged Pieously for Relief.

The "strike" at the state prison is now a thing of the past, and Warden Pratt is wearing "the smile that wont come off." He has come out strictly ahead, and the population of the noted resort for moral health is as peaceable and as quiet as a rural graveyard. The 20 rebels remained pinned up to the walls of their cells all of Wednesday night, like so many pin wheels, or butterflies on cardboard, and were let down only long enough to swallow as best they could their abbreviated allowance of the "staff of life" and some "Adam's ale." Then were stringing up their belts again two by two, convalescent, weakened, and owned that they had had enough. These were not pin wheeled again, but the remaining 18 continued obstreperous, and their portraits were once more turned toward the wall.

At the same time, the noise had practically ceased. A man with a parched throat is not in very good shape to howl, for the more he howls the drier his throat and the less voice he has after he has given voice. The yelling was given up, and then the insurgents were tired of pounding with their bare feet on the steel flooring and banging on the walls with manacles on one's wrists loses its poetic flavor after a night of sleeplessness.

EIGHTEEN WERE OUDURATE.

However, the noble 18 remained in their cells, revolting many things in their minds, and there were unmistakable signs of weakening appeared.

The rebels had been strung up for over 18 hours on campaign diet, and there is a limit to human endurance. Moreover, in all of that time they had had no tobacco, and to be without the consoling weed for that length of time was a catastrophe on the stock of mental suffering. Presently one "con" began to beg of the guards on water, and when he had it he never did any more kicking on the fast. This could only be given a bit of meat to eat. Then a second "con" followed suit, and wanted a cup of coffee, and in a short time the entire uncanny outfit was on its metaphorical marrowbones. So the warden was called, and he ordered the tender patients to this hell-treatment to be let down from the walls. But it was with this understanding that the first man who started the strike would be the last to be let down, and the wall was still there.

The result was magical.

Therefore, I highly recommend Snow Liniment to all who are troubled with sprains, bruises, or rheumatism." One 32 oz. bottle, sold by Z. C. M. L. Drug Dept. B.

Chamberlain's Cocic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy—The Best in Existence.

T. M. Wood, president of the White House Boots, Ark., is a representative southern business man, who does not hesitate in expressing his good opinion of a well known remedy. He says: "It gives me pleasure to recommend Chamberlain's Cocic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy, having used it myself and my family with the best results. In fact, I believe it to be the best remedy for the kind in existence." Sold by all druggists.

NEW ARMY REGULATIONS.

Requirements Such as to Discourage Future Enlistments.

New regulations go into effect at army posts which promise to make the life of the peace soldier anything but令人厭惡的. The regulations were drawn up by the board of marshals at Washington, and include the following:

Boise, Id.—The temperature for the week averaged considerably below the normal, the deficiency having been greatest over the southwestern portion of the state, though on the morning of June 29 the temperature over the eastern portion fell low enough so that light frost was of usual occurrence in the more elevated districts. By the close of the week higher temperatures were more prevalent, and July 3 was one of the warmest days of the season thus far. Copious rains fell in northern counties early in the week, the supply of moisture in some localities having been in excess of the needs of vegetation. Dry weather was prevalent in other sections, and at the close of the week clear sky was reported from all parts of the state. Water for irrigation is holding out very well, considering the light snowfall of the past winter.

CROPS.

Fruit—Fruit crops have made rapid during the week, strawberries are ripening well in the higher portions of the state, and are nearly disappear from the market in all localities. Cherries are fairly plentiful and considerable quantities of raspberries are being offered. Peach trees which escaped injury from spring frosts are heavily laden; a few early apples are maturing.

Grain—The condition of small grain over most of the state is highly satisfactory, but in portions of the northern counties heavy rains have caused some rank weeds to grow, especially in the southeastern localities. "dry grain" area is suffering from lack of moisture; very little wheat has been harvested. The season thus far has been rather too cool for the rapid growth of corn.

Grass—There is still an abundance of range grass in the mountains; native grass is reported to be a good crop in southern Rocky Mountain valley; harvest of first crop alfalfa is still in progress, and reports indicate that an average crop is being saved in good condition.

Vegetables—Rains have interfered with cultivation of sugar beets in northern counties, but the condition of the crop as a whole is excellent. Frost wrought some temporary injury to potato tops in a few elevated localities; elsewhere early potatoes are yielding well and late plantings promise good returns.

AMUSEMENTS.

"The American Girl" was the offering of the Bitner company at the Grand theater last night, and the play proved to be as popular as any of its long list of predecessors. W. W. Bitner was not the hero, but the big man got most of the applause in his character of Ross Bater, actor, artist, and tramp. Harry Fahrney and Lansing Rowan, who usually carry the leading roles in dramas of love and intrigue, made much of their parts as the struggling artist and his beautiful wife, who had three acts full of adventure before being happily reunited with each other. Mr. May, who is rather a favorite member of the company, surprised his friends last night by introducing as a
