The unusual leisure was so pleas ant that the girl loitered and linger ed, mjoying the sunshine and air, and only when the noon whistlas blew did she come down to reality. After dinner with locked door, she held a council of war. Here, on one side, was Molly Perry, 24 years old, with health and hope, $5 in her trunk, three silver dollars in her pocket, and one good suit; and on the other side the great pushing, ecrambling, selfish world, eager to gra p and slow to give. Molly did some hard thinking. "There's one sure thing," she "There's one sure thing," she thought; "I won't tend store again, and I wont sew for a living, and I won't be cooped up in a shop." The chances are narrowing fast. Sud denly came an ides. "Pil do it." said Molly, and what it was the Ad oct tier told the next moraing: "Oh," said Moly, "let ms do it. "Oh," said Moly, "let ms do it. "They must be tempted, you know." "Ehe lick at up at him with a bright once, and watched with wonder while a tray was brought wonder
