

North Ogden.—On Saturday we had a call from President C. H. Wheelock, of North Ogden, who informs us that there has been some sickness there lately, an amiable young married lady, named Lucy Miller, having succumbed to that disease last week, and there were several other cases, which, however, were not expected to terminate fatally.

The crops of the settlement have been good this season, and the people are pretty well united. There is a most excellent choir, under the leadership of Brother Fred Ellis, who, besides the general choir, has about fifty musical pupils belonging to the Sunday school.

The young people are organized into societies, and are interested in matters pertaining to their general improvement.

Good Leather.—Mr. G. Ball, on Saturday, showed us an excellent sample of sole leather, tanned in sixty-three days, by a process not generally known, at an establishment at Runcorn, England, of which Mr. Robert Gill is foreman. The hides were imported from Rio de Janeiro, wet salted. The tanning was done by the use of four ingredients, imported to England, one each from Greece, India, Australia and South America. The wholesale cost of the leather in England is thirteen pence, or twenty-six cents, a pound.

The samples of leather and of the tanning ingredients will probably be deposited in the Museum.

Returned Missionary.—We have received a call from Elder Robert Hogg, of Morgan City, Morgan County, who returned from a mission to Scotland on the 24th of last May, but has not been in this city since until the last few days. He left for the field of his labors on the 9th of September, 1874, and was therefore absent over a year and a half, and while in Scotland he labored in Perthshire, Lanarkshire and Ayrshire. He felt well while on his mission, and his health materially improved. He baptized seventeen persons and re-baptized a large number of others. Among those whom he was instrumental in causing to embrace the gospel was his son and daughter-in-law, who, with their children, emigrated to Utah.

A Curious Incident.—Just before dusk, on Saturday evening, Messrs. C. M. Donelson and Reuben Simpson were sitting in front of Fireman's Hall, when they observed a grey eagle flying southward, in a direct line from the City Hall, on approaching which "the bird of freedom" alighted upon the vane of the liberty pole, backing and placing its feet upon it three times. It then flew up and alighted upon the topmost point of the City Hall spire, returned again to the liberty pole, and finally to its old position on the spire, after which it described a wide circle in the air, gave three distinct screams and flew off in a direct line southward. This little circumstance is curiously coincidental with the session of the People's Territorial Convention at which the application of the people of Utah for the rights of Statehood, to which they are entitled, as free American citizens, was under consideration.

A Peculiar Situation.—This morning, in the Third District Court, the motion of the defendant in the suit of Wells vs. Patton, to dissolve the injunction restraining the latter from selling a large quantity of lumber belonging to the plaintiff, was allowed. Mr. Wells' attorney asked the amount of the bond on appeal, whereupon the counsel on the other side raised the question of appealability from the decision, holding that, providing the ruling was based on the want of jurisdiction of the court it could not be appealed from, and the matter of allowing an appeal was therefore held under advisement.

It is rather difficult to define, at its present stage, the exact status of this case, but, as it now appears, it seems as if some people had an idea that United States officers are not like common mortals, but are above the law, and if this be the case, by entering a plea that they are acting in the capacity of United States officers they can seize upon and sell at auction the property of any private citizens, for if it can be done in one instance it can be done in others. But pompous and tyrannical U. S. officers and their aiders and abettors had better move cautiously before concluding to outrage every principle of equity and justice and the spirit and letter of the constitution of the country, which provides that no citizen shall be deprived of his property without due process of law, whereas if U. S. officers are acknowledgedly above the law they are acknowledgedly beyond its process.

This case is not concluded yet, and we are loth to believe that the high-handed, unjustifiable, and malignant action of the bombastical register of the Land Office will be sustained, and that he will be allowed to carry out his designs, his action being condemned by every fair-minded citizen as an unjustifiable outrage.

Sweet Potatoes.—On Saturday we received a call from Brother Abraham Maw, of Plain City, Weber County, who brought with him samples of sweet potatoes, of the Southern Yam kind, of which he has raised this season in the vicinity of twelve hundred pounds. The first he produced was last season, when, from four potatoes he obtained about fifty pounds, which he kept for seed, and his present year's crop is the result.

The samples, which he assures us are an average of what he raised, are very fine, being large and sound, and superior in appearance to those generally seen in this market from California. This result is another proof that sweet potatoes of good quality can be plentifully produced in Utah.

From Brother Maw we received some valuable hints relative to the cultivation of this excellent root. In the fall those designed to be kept over winter should be packed away in sand that has been well dried in a kiln or oven, the roots not being allowed to touch each other, the best way being to place them in position and then pour the sand on so it will run around them and fill up the spaces. When wanted for seed they should be taken out, say about the beginning of March, cut lengthwise, and placed on a four inch layer of sand over a hot bed, with an average temperature of 70 deg., and decidedly not higher than 75 deg. Cover up with a one inch layer of sand, and as fast as the sprouts appear cover with two more inches of sand. When sprouts are three inches high take them out and if the weather be sufficiently warm plant them out in the ground. Should the weather, however, be too cold, place them thickly under a glass, to preserve until the weather shall be suitable.

Brother Maw obtained his first seed potatoes from California. We understand from Brother A. M. Cannon, that the Brazilian Yam, and not the Bermuda Yam, as before erroneously stated, is the earliest and best adapted to the soil and climate of Utah.

"Rectification of boundaries" is a diplomatic term, which being interpreted means stealing a little land from your neighbors.
