And McAllister. The ranks of athletes under the direc-tion of Maddock at the University of Utah have been added to by the appear-ance of Morgan Adams of Provo and J. McAllister of Springville, both valuable men for the track squad. Both athletes registered sesteriay and at once pro-ceeded to take a "work out" in the gym. Adams holds the state record for pole vault, and is considered one of the best jumpers in the state. McAllister is a sprinter of considerable ability and prom-ises to improve his already good record.

New York, Feb. 5.—An important meet-ing of the United States National Lawn association, will be held at the Waldorf Astoria tonight. The chief business to be taken up is the question of again challenging the Englishmen for the Dwight F. Davis international challenge cup, and the incorporation of the asso-ciations. Officers also will be elected, Among a number of players there is the feeling that the team to be sent abroad to regain the international cup is to be chosen only after a series of matches. The schedule of championships and tournament fixtures will not be made at the meeting although the applications for dates will be a part of the routine busi-ness. of settlers.

DRY FARMING A SUCCESS. "A nother industry which has come prominently to the fore the past few years is dry farming. I brought some samples of wheat, oats and barley up with me and placed them in the Cham-ber of Commerce building, where they may be seen by all interested. These grains will compare favorably with those grown on irrigated farms, and they were raised without a drop of wa-ter. Any kind of cereals or vegetables do well without irrigation, but of course we irrigate our fruit trees. We shipped 22 carloads of fruit out jast fall, and, have more yet to ship. One car of Peaberry pears I shipped from my own orchard to New York city, and another to Liverpool, England. These were grown with irrigation. SETTLERS ARE WELCOME.

MOAB'S FUTURE PLANS. "Moab is a thriving litle town of 600 people. It is the county seat of Grand county, and contains some handsome public buildings and private residences. It has a graded school building which cost $11,000: a high school, erected at a cost of $3,600; and numerous business blocks. Moab has a $10,000 water sys-tem. The establishment of a chamber of commerce is being agitated, also a fruit growers' association. A large canning factory is one of the prospects of the immediate future, by means of which a large portion of the fruit and vegetables grown in the district will be taken care of. We have a flourishing newspaper, with a wideawake editor. "Moab is an ideal place for home-building. building.

HAS HISTORIC SITE.

In my own orchard I have unearthed fragments of old pottery, some of the pleces flowered and painted in an artis-tic manner. Sealed jars of corn have been thrown out m excavating, having very much the appearance of Indian corn. There are also some good speci-mens of painted hieroglyphs in the neighborhood, although very little meaning can be traced in the signs. But the paint used on them centuries ago is just as bright today as apparent-iy it ever was. There are many natural curiosities in our section, among which may be mentioned those in Monument park, the natural bridge and the bal-anced rock. This bridge is probably 300 feet high and 300 feet wide. The rock is an enormous stone poised above a high perpendicular wall on a small strip of stome no larger than a man's finger. One of the reasons why Manager Mc-Graw of the Glants, is said to be anx-ious to get rid of "Iron Man" McGinnity is his penchant for getting into trouble with other members of the team, whom he roasts unmercifully for any mistakes they make.

Isn't it about time for one James Ed-ward Britt to issue the second chapter of his famous tale. "What I Will Do to Joe Gans?" There must be something wrong. The fight is not much more than a month away and but little is being said about it. Time for press agents to get busy.

Murphy, the Chicago National League club president, is still of the opinion that he will try numbering his players next season, so that the apectators may recognize them. He should be careful that no combination might be made whereby the catcher and pitcher of his team might line up as "2:" Super-stitious persons would be inclined to lay against it on a "hunch."

"Spike" Robson, who claims the feath-erweight championship of England, would like to meet Abe Aitell or even some of the best lightweights. Robson is now in the east, and he showed some fair form when he was here last year in two fights with Tommy Murphy. He is willing to take on Attell for a limited bout or a finish fight.

"Cap." Adrian Anson is planning the organization of a national billiard isague composed of Chicago, St. Louis and Pitts burg in the west, and New York, Phila-dciphia and Boston in the east. His idea is to have each city represented by a team of two, to five star players and to hold matches twice weekly. The more difficult forms of the game are to be played, including 18.1 and 18.2 balk-line and three cushions.

Bat Nelson is just now having the time of his life in Lunnon. bowl. "As for Nelson, I am willing to fight him any time, and he knows it. He took to per cent of the purse when I beat him at Goldheld. I'll do better by him, I'll take $10,000 of the $40,000 purse offered at Tonopah and let the other $30,000 go to the winner. Or, I'll take 65 per cent and let him have 35 per cent straight. If Nelson refuses both of these offers he will prove that he doesn't want to fight me. He can take $30,000 and the lightweight championship if he beats me. That's good enough. I should think, if he really thinks he has a chance, and isn't afraid to try." "Thusly chirps one Josephus Gans, the dark skinned fighter from Baltimore. But supposing Nelson should accept these terms, is if not more than likely Jo-sephus would insist upon terms pertain-ing to weight which he knows Nelson would not accept? It is easy to talk and just as easy to get out of a match.
