

PRIEST'S COOLNESS SAVES HIS PEOPLE

Congregation Kneeling in Silent Prayer When He Was Told Church Was on Fire.

QUIETLY CLOSED SERVICES.

Assistants Walked Down Aisle Whispering to Members Was Insignificant Blaze and to Retire.

Berlin, June 8.—An attempt was made today to burn the old St. Paulus Catholic church at Moabit, belonging to the Dominicans, which was crowded with people assembled to hear a sermon by the famous Dominican monk, Bonaventura. About 1,800 persons were present, including more than 1,000 women and children, to hear the mass. While the congregation was kneeling in silent prayer, some one informed Father Bonaventura that the church was on fire.

Without informing the congregation, he coolly stepped over to the priest who was celebrating mass, and requested him to close the service.

The priest left the altar and spoke to his assistants, who walked down the aisles and whispered to regular pew-holders that an insignificant blaze had broken out and that they had better leave the building as soon as possible. At this time the entire roof of the church was a mass of flames, and the fire brigade was hurrying to the burning building. Those in the church, not knowing the extent of the fire, fortunately did not realize their peril and on the clergy's request made their exit rapidly and in an orderly manner.

When they reached the streets they found the firemen drawn up with ladders against the walls. The fire fighters discovered that nearly a dozen firebrands soaked with petroleum had been distributed about the outer parts of the roof. The flames were extinguished with difficulty after great damage had been done.

The police suspect a gang of incendiaries who, it is stated, set fire to the old garrison church, which was destroyed on April 14 last.

The firemen declare that only the coolness of the clergy today prevented a great disaster.

THE STEINHEIL MURDER.

Henri Rochefort Insinuates That Police Don't Want It Solved.

Paris, June 8.—Henri Rochefort, editor of the Patrie, whose bitter enmity to the Clemenceau government is well known, insinuates in the Patrie that the police do not desire to solve the mystery of the murder of Adolphe Steinhil, the noted painter, which occurred more than a week ago. Yet, he says, he could solve the mystery in an hour if permitted to do so. He insinuates that the alleged robbery of the Steinhil house never occurred.

"The government deceives itself," he continues, "if it imagines that this affair will die out. It attracts more interest than any sensational crime. After the mysterious death of Felix Faure, president of the republic, on the day the decree for the revision of the Dreyfus case was signed, he was presented and he would have refused to sign; after the pretended suicide of Gabriel Syveton, on the day before he would have been acquitted of assaulting War Minister Andre, and now after the strangulation of Steinhil by three men and a woman, who did not carry away even a spoon, Parisians are menaced by a sort of mania."

BOTH USED CUTICURA AND ARE WELL AGAIN

"My husband had been a great sufferer with the rheumatism for nearly fifteen years. At first it was in his bones, but after a while it was in the flesh and finally running sores broke out on his legs, from below the knees to the ankles. There were no words to tell all the discomfort and great suffering he had to endure night and day. He used every kind of remedy and three physicians treated him, one after the other, without any good results whatever. So one day I happened to read about Cuticura Remedies. I asked him if he would try them. 'No,' said he, 'it's no use, he used Cuticura again. It cured him. Two years ago I used Cuticura Pills for general debility. They did me a great deal of good and made me well. Three months since I had pains in my back and Cuticura took them away, too. I can prove this testimonial at any time. Mrs. V. V. Albert, Upper Frenchville, Me., July 21, 1907."
